BRITISH DEMAND U. S. GAG PRESS ON KING'S VISIT

Threaten to Call Off Royal Trip.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 8.—British newspapers tonight said Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador to the United States, had been asked to request President Roosevelt to see that the American press prints nothing offensive about King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain during their visit to the White House next June.

Sir Ronald Lindsay.

Mr. Roosevelt also will be asked to choke off soap box orators from saying anything about his guests. Otherwise the royal visit may not take place, the British papers suggested.

Resentment was expressed in London that what are called American sensational news sheets have suggested the royal visit "is to get something out of America." Vicious whisperers in the United States, said one publication, are pointing out that Americans saved the British empire in 1918 and now are expected to perform the feat again.

Called Good Will Gesture.

The British say the royal visit is a gesture of "good will and friendship." It was recalled that the American tour which the duke of Windsor—former King Edward VIII.—and his duchess had planned was stopped because of the hullabaloo over the duke's choice of Charles E. Bedaux, American industrial engineer, as guide.

The British have been expressing annoyance at comments on the royal visit to the United States for some time. Last Sunday newspaper posters flamed in London streets with these words: "America insults king," "Should royal visit be called off?"

The posters referred to an article in a Sunday paper calling attention to American magazine stories on the king and queen and the proposed visit. Reference to the sovereigns as "Bert" and "Betty" apparently caused anger.

Challenges Author to Fight.

The writer of the article in the Fictorial challenged the author of an article in an American magazine to a fist fight over what he had said about the king. He was irritated by the statement that King George is only on probation with his subjects.

British ideas of dignity reached an explosive point at Grover Whalen's alleged proposal to bring the Dionne quintuplets to the world's fair in New York to meet King George and Queen Elizabeth. Said the writer of Pictorial: "Grand idea, wasn't it? Can't you picture American photographers shouting: 'O. K., hold it!' while the king and queen played with the babies?"

The same writer added: "New York and the west are causing the trouble. I need say little about the west. The only foreign country most folks there have heard about is Japan, and they are not quite sure where that is. Of course, the majority of intelligent people in the United States will give the royal pair an enthusiastic welcome."

The writer objected to New York soap box orators commenting on the royal visit.

Demands Square Deal.

Fearing criticisms will become bolder later on, the writer concluded with a threat that the royal tour might be canceled unless Americans take care. He called on Mr. Roosevelt to give the king a square deal.

"By June America may be torn with a controversy as great as that which stopped the duke of Windsor from going to America with Bedaux," the writer said. "We cannot shut our eye to the position and Mr. Roosevelt must not. As host on behalf of his country it is his responsibility that the king and queen shall not be distressed.

"We are entitled to ask the President of the United States to see that offensive comment is stopped, to declare there is no ulterior motive in the royal visit, and to scotch silly stories that the king will travel with a military alliance in his pocket for America to sign."

REPORT MADRID MAKES ITS OWN BID FOR PEACE

PERPIGNAN, France, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The stubborn refusal of Juan Negrin, Spanish government premier, to end the civil war on rebel terms was shaken tonight by reports that peace talks had been opened directly between rebel Gen. Franco and Gen. José Miaja, dictator of the government's central zone.

The reports were said by members of the French chamber of deputies to have been brought back from Burgos by Senator Leon Berard, semi-official envoy to the rebel capital.

They came close upon announcements that Manuel Azana, president of government Spain, was considering resigning because of Negrin's refusal to surrender unconditionally.

[A British warship was reported to have carried a Franco envoy to Minorca to demand surrender of that loyalist held island. Story on page 5.]

Negrin Loses Control.

Driven to the edge of Spain by the rebel advance in Catalonia which routed the government army, Negrin appeared tonight to have lost control of the Madrid-Valencia area—the southeastern one-fourth of Spain still in government hands.

Despite the premier's frequent declarations of fighting "to the bitter end," Gen. Miaja refused to answer Negrin's telegrams.

Miaja was reported to be engaged in conversations with Generalissimo Franco over Negrin's head—perhaps because the rebels were said to be willing to grant better terms to an old soldier than to a Socialist leader like Negrin.

There were even persistent rumors here that Negrin, discouraged at last, was planning to resign himself.

Truce negotiations between Negrin and Franco broke down yesterday when Franco refused to accept Negrin's condition for surrender—that government leaders of the Madrid-Valencia zone be assured of their lives.

"Last House in Spain."

Negrin came to Le Perthus today to set up temporary headquarters in "the last house in Spain," its front porch actually jutting across the international boundary. Le Perthus straddles the border.

To enter his new headquarters he was forced to cross into France, even though once inside he was back in Spain. From windows of his house Negrin, ministers, and members of the general staf watched bedraggled soldiers of the defeated loyalist army shuffle through the streets of Le Perthus toward French concentration camps.

The bulk of the government army already had crossed the frontier. Although rear guard fighting flared up near Puigcerda, sixty miles inland, the rebels were moving ever closer to complete their occupation of northeast Spain.

Blow Up Figueras Castle.

Explosions heard in Le Perthus came from the dungeons of Figueras castle, recently the seat of the government, where ammunition stores were blown up before the government rear guard withdrew. Rebel Navarrese [Spanish] troops made a formal entry into Figueras in the evening.

Italian troops which accompanied the advance to the gates of the town turned back by order of Gen. Franco in accordance with his promise to France that they would not be allowed to approach the French frontier.

Bomb Refugee Jam.

BOURG-MADAME, France [at the Spanish frontier], Feb. 8.—(AP)—Physicians and nurses with first aid supplies were rushed to the frontier Spanish village of Puigcerda tonight after Spanish government authorities charged 1,000 refugees had been killed or wounded in a thirty minute attack by rebel war planes. French border authorities, however, put the casualties at little more than 100 on the basis of first reports received here.

The planes, said Spanish officials, not only attacked a jammed railway station in Puigcerda but also swooped low over the roads leading into the town and machine gunned columns of refugees and soldiers fleeing into France. Authorities estimated 15,000 refugees were crowded into the little border town this morning. The normal population is 2,500.

IF YOU THINK 670 M. P. H. IS SPEED, HOW ABOUT THIS RECORD?

A CROOKED DIOGENES FINDS HIS MAN, THEN TAKES HIM FOR $610

The man Louis Amidei saw weeping in Lincoln park told Amidei that he had just lost his faith in human nature because two boys had defrauded him. This was bad, he continued, because now he couldn't distribute the $15,000 his father had left for Chicago's needy Italians. Well, about that time along came John Salmi, who for three weeks had been living in the same boarding house as Amidei, at 673 North Dearborn street.

Salmi heard the sad story of the stranger, who said he was Antonio Bernardino. Then, as Amidei told police yesterday, Salmi assured Bernardino that Amidei was an honest man and the very one to help distribute the $15,000. But Bernardino demanded a surety. The next day Amidei handed over his savings, $610, and received a tin box. He was to keep $1,500 as his commission and give $13,500 to the needy Italians.

Then, when the strangers failed to return with a key to the box, Amidei pried it open yesterday. At this point in the story, Detectives James Dwyer and Tom Lovell yawned. "Newspapers?" they asked. "Yes," sighed Amidei.

Dive Rips Wing Off Plane; Two Flyers Killed

A student flyer and his passenger were killed yesterday afternoon when one of the wings of their small training biplane collapsed in the air. The plane, beyond control, plunged 2,000 feet and was shattered in a ploughed field a quarter of a mile south of Ford-Lansing airport at 199th street and Burnham avenue on the Indiana state line.

The pilot was Louis Herbold, 27 years old, 506 West State street, Calumet City. His passenger was Stanley Dziedziak, 22, of 1215 West 149th street, East Chicago. The two men were partners in a garage at 150th and Wegg streets in East Chicago, and had gone to Ford-Lansing field for an afternoon's recreation.

How Crash Occurred.

They arrived about 1 p. m. and rolled out the plane, a Fleet biplane with a 125 horse power Warner motor. The engine was started and idled on the ground for 45 minutes. Dziedziak climbed into the front cockpit with Herbold at the rear, and the machine took off, heading southeast and climbing rapidly.

Mechanics and attendants watched the plane circling near the field. They said that it was nosed downward in a shallow dive when one of the upper wings was torn loose. The dive steepened and the machine plummeted straight to the ground. The broken wing floated down, landing 250 feet away.

The impact smashed the plane into such a tangled mass that F. H. Longeway, an inspector for the Civil Aeronutics authority, said he was unable to tell what caused the structural failure.

Neither Herbold nor Dziedziak was wearing a parachute.

Licensed a Year Ago.

Herbold was married and the father of a son, Louis Jr., 6 years old. His wife, Betty, told investigators he had been flying for two years and had obtained a pilot's license one year ago. Records of the CAA office here, however, do not show that Herbold ever passed tests to determine his fitness as a pilot.

Acquaintances at the airport said he had been flying as a student. The student license, according to CAA regulations, permits a pilot to fly alone but prohibits carrying of passengers.

C. W. Amick, manager of the airport, said Herbold and another man, Arthur Howard of Hammond, purchased the biplane about a year ago and had flown it off the field constantly. Howard left Chicago for Randolph field, Tex., the army air corps pilot training center, last Sunday, after winning an appointment as a cadet there.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY IS INDEED A DAY FOR LOVE BIRDS, IT SEEMS

If your canary pores all day over model budgets, won't eat, and can't keep its mind on its singing, don't worry. It's in love—that's all. The mating season for canaries begins St. Valentine's day, according to Secretary William F. Link of the Greater Chicago Cage Bird club.

He called the club together at the Hotel Sherman last night to do something about it. The members beamed knowingly and decided: To encourage romance, try to understand their canaries, and put nothing in the way of the young couples if the boy's the kind of a young fellow who can earn a living. Two canaries really can't live as cheaply as one, the members said, and bird seed isn't any cheaper. But if the canaries don't have much money, they'll have love in a gilded cage.

SERGEANT FINDS A SILVER LINING HIDING A CLOUD

When Joseph Benit of 1031 North Francisco avenue was taken into the Warren avenue police station yesterday on a charge of reckless driving Sergt. John Burns set his bond at $100. But the sergeant wished later he had made it less.

Benit was arrested after his machine and a park district squad car collided in front of 126 South Oakley boulevard. When his bond was set Benit called his brother-in-law, Isadore Kaplan, also of 1031 North Francisco avenue. Kaplan, a poultry dealer, appeared presently and dumped the contents of a large sack before Sergt. Burns.

The money was all quarters. Kaplan explained he had deposited all his bills in a bank and that the change was all he had left. The sergeant began counting. When he finished counting and recounting he had worked 40 minutes overtime.

15 HARVARD MEN LINE UP TO KISS RADCLIFFE GIRLS

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Fifteen husky Harvard students lined themselves up on each side of the steps of the Fogg Art museum in Cambridge today and kissed Radcliffe college girls as they emerged from classes.

This was the main feature of their initiation to the staf of the undergraduate newspaper, Harvard Crimson, and appeared to indicate that the anti-Radcliffe society at Harvard now is a thing of the past.

The young men wore tuxedo shirts and ties, sports coats, and felt Robin Hood hats with long feathers.

Indiana Board Turns Up Mess in Relief Rule

BY WILL O'NEIL.

A caustic attack upon the methods of relief administration in the three principal townships of Lake county, Ind., was delivered to the Lake county council yesterday by Gov. M. Clifford Townsend's relief commission. The Hoosier governor is a New Deal Democrat.

Frank L. Hoess.

The Lake county council, of which Frank L. Hoess is president, asked Townsend's commission to investigate what the council termed exorbitant relief costs for last December. The commission's report is based on a month's investigation by its staf of investigators.

Report Lists Charges.

It charged:

1. That 60 per cent of the reliefers on the rolls of Hobart township and 43 per cent of those on the rolls of North [Hammond] and Calumet [Gary] townships should not have been receiving relief.

2. That concentration of buying of foodstuffs, coal, and clothing for reliefers in the hands of a few favored concerns has resulted in overcharging by the favored merchants.

3. That, from whatever angle the matter is viewed, the administration of poor relief [in the three townships] during 1938 has been inefficient and abounding in abuses.

4 That 19 principal physicians in the three townships have drawn an average annual income of $10,000 each from relief business, and that the actual incomes have ranged from in excess of $5,000 to more than $30,000 annually.

5. That long delays by merchants in filing claims and confused accounting methods prevent accurate audits of relief expenditures and reasonable forecasting of relief trends.

Twenty Investigators in Field.

Gov. Townsend's commission had twenty investigators in the field for a month during December and January. The report delivered to the council yesterday is the result of their work.

Hoess, whose council passes on county fiscal affairs, said the sale of $2,400,000 in relief bonds to supplement regular relief taxes during 1938 had placed the county within $2,500,000 of its bonding limit by the end of 1938. Although Hoess' council controls budgets for other divisions of county government, it has no control over townships' relief spending.

Trustees Are Dictators.

Each township elects a trustee for a term of four years. The trustees are the absolute dictators of relief spending in their respective townships. Mrs. Edward W. Schaaf, known politically as Mary Grace Wells, was the township trustee in Calumet township last year. She was replaced on Jan. 1 by Mrs. Frankie Helman. John J. Mehan and John Harms are holdover trustees in North and Hobart townships, respectively.

"There appears to have been no effort at any point to establish those elementary controls which are ordinarily considered as primarily essential in the public interest to insure an orderly and economical administration [of relief]," the report said. "To the contrary, there has been a consistent disregard at every turn of the safeguards which would normally be expected."

Recommendations Are Listed.

The commission's report listed these recommendations for improvement in the relief administering job:

1. Immediate reorganization of the relief administering machinery, with the weeding out of all unfit persons in the relief stafs and their replacement by trained relief people.

2. The immediate dismissal of all persons on the relief rolls who are not entitled to relief.

3. The establishment of a permanent relief giving standard and the giving of relief only on this basis.

4. A drastic reduction in prices paid by the townships for relief commodities and vigilance by the relief authorities to see that the quality of merchandise purchased is improved.

5. The arrival at some agreement with the medical profession to stop any further abuses from this source. A competent agency should make an immediate study of hospital expenditures in the three townships, the report said.

6. An increase in tax levies to meet relief costs, which should, however, be decreased below present levels.

CHARGES COURT CHOICE IS USED IN PARTY PURGE

Lays Feud to White House Intrigue.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Senator Carter Glass [D. Va.] tonight accused President Roosevelt of using his appointive powers in an attempt to purge from public life both of the Virginia senators.

Senator Carter Glass in action.

In a fiery 3,000 word statement the 81 year old Virginian, who has been in the senate for nineteen years, said the President is trying to defeat in 1940 Senator Harry F. Byrd, junior colleague of Glass, who also is a Democrat. Glass said that his own defeat is planned for a later date if he should "live longer than the intriguers hope."

The method chosen for accomplishing the purge, he said, is to disregard candidates recommended by Byrd and himself for federal appointments and in this way "discredit and dishonor" Byrd and himself among their own constituents.

In Answer to Accusations.

Senator Glass' statement, sizzling with the scorn and sarcasm for which he is famous, was in reply to a letter Mr. Roosevelt made public yesterday. In that letter the President flayed the senate for rejecting, by a vote of 72 to 9, his nomination of Floyd H. Roberts to be federal judge of the western district of Virginia. The President wrote the letter to Roberts.

Three times in the letter President Roosevelt referred to statements made by Senator Glass and questioned their truth.

Senator Glass said the only reason the President's "extraordinary" and "unprecedented" letter to the rejected nominee deserved the slightest notice is that "some of the covert implications should be brushed away."

Stands on Printed Record.

To the President's charge that he had made at least three untrue statements, Senator Glass said his testimony on the Roberts nomination was supported by the official record. But some of the President's own statements were "inaccurate" and contained inferences and implications without "the shadow of fact" to support them, the veteran senator declared. Senator Glass accused the President of indulging in "trivial evasion."

Explaining that he and Byrd had recommended two eminent men—Judge A. C. Buchanan, 48 years old, of the Virginia Circuit court, and Frank Tavenner, 43 years old, an assistant United States attorney—for the federal judgeship, the senator said:

"This is no fight for patronage. I do not care a tinker's dam for patronage. I was looking for a judge, not a job. I was not seeking a man under my political patronage nor one under the patronage of any politician. Buchanan would have been an ornament to the federal bench, as he has been to that of the state.

Deplores Use of Power.

"It is to be deplored from every point of view that he should have been rejected by the appointive power merely through a desire to purge the junior senator next year and the senior senator of Virginia later."

Senator Glass reminded Mr. Roosevelt that the constitution gives the senate a veto over presidential nominations and that "the senate itself is amply able to attend to his attack upon the time-honored custom of respecting the reasonable objections of its members to executive nominations intended to be offensive to them."

Senator Glass explained that he wrote Mr. Roosevelt a letter last March 17 seeking verification of reports published in all Virginia newspapers that Gov. James H. Price, a New Dealer, had been given "the veto power on all appointments of any consequence in Virginia."

"I was not answered then directly or otherwise," he said. "Instead, the President wrote me a page essay on the requirements of the constitution as to federal appointments, whereupon I ventured to reply that I had a fairly intimate knowledge of the fundamental law and nowhere discovered anything in it requiring federal appointments to be made by and with the advice and consent of a state governor."

Only Governor Consulted.

The senator said he wrote again, saying he assumed the President approved the "offensive" statement published in the newspapers, as he had not denied it. He said the President again failed utterly to deny or affirm the statement, but reserved the right to consult "Nancy Astor, the duchess of Windsor, the WPA, a Virginia moonshiner, Gov. Price, or Charlie McCarthy." The senator was quoting the President's own words.

"I cheerfully absolve Charlie McCarthy from giving the advice designed to discredit the Virginia senators, and the record shows that none of the persons named, except Price, was consulted," Senator Glass declared.

"The President, in his unprecedented letter to his rejected nominee, expresses the opinion that 'every person of common sense knows' that 'no governor, no senator has at any time had, or ever will have, the right of veto over presidential nominations.'"

Cites Presidential "Inaccuracies."

"This is as inaccurate as many other statements and inferences made by the President," Mr. Glass continued. "Ninety-six senators have the right of veto over presidential nominations in specified cases and on last Monday seventy-two of them—against nine to the contrary—exercised their right of veto on the President's nominee for judge of the western district of Virginia. And I am assured that others would have done likewise had they been present at the vote.'

"We were prepared to accept any capable man who was not intended deliberately to be offensive to us by himself completely ignoring us and willingly making himself the beneficiary of an attempt to dishonor us in our state."

Senator Glass referred to his testimony before the senate judiciary committee when he said the attorney general "never had the slightest idea of giving consideration to the recommendations of the two Virginia senators because the governor of Virginia had been promised the right of veto on nominations they made."

Hits Back at Contradictions.

"The President," he continued, "says neither of these statements is true. But, with as much deference as the occasion requires, I believe the record demonstrates that both statements are true.

"If the attorney general had any such intention, he never made the slightest effort to carry it into effect; not even the common courtesy of communicating with either United States senator on the subject.

"If the President did not delegate the veto power on senatorial nominations to the governor of Virginia, why did not the latter deny the offensive assertion published in all Virginia papers, and why should the President of the United States have declined to answer a simple question propounded to him by a senator for whom he repeatedly has professed friendship?"

FIRE SUCCESSOR OF NIEMOELLER FROM CHURCH

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—The Rev. Fritz Mueller, who since the imprisonment of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, submarine commander in the world war, has been the leading personality of Christ church at Dahlem, a suburb of Berlin, was permanently removed today. Ousted with him were two other pastors of the Confessional [Evangelical Lutheran] church, which opposes Nazi domination in matters of religion.

It was disclosed that the three pastors are being tried secretly. The action is believed to have arisen from alleged indiscretions by the pastors in the writing and distribution of a pastoral letter on the eve of the Munich conference last September to members of the Confessional church. In that letter the churchgoers were called upon to "beseech Providence not to punish Germany with war because of the sins of our people."

School Board Retires 8 Teachers, Principal

The board of education yesterday ordered the retirement of eight teachers and a principal in March under the 65 year compulsory retirement law. The principal is Frank G. Bruner of Englewood High school, who entered the school system in 1905. For fourteen years he was director of special schools. Thaddeus J. Lubera, assistant principal of Wells High school, was named principal of the McCormick Elementary school.

U. S. PAY ROLLER ARMY SWELLS TO PEACE TIME HIGH

Nearing Record Total of World War Days.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—The federal pay roll reached a new peace time high and was within a few hundred jobs of the all time high in December, the United States civil service commission reported today.

The commission reported that the administration's army of deserving Democrats and rewarded radicals rose to 917,303 in December. The all time high was reached on Nov. 11, 1918, when there were 917,670 persons working in the executive branch of the government.

The New Deal Santa Claus put 48,047 non-Republican persons on the pay roll in the Christmas season. The November total was 869,256 persons in the executive department of the government.

Grows Rapidly in Capital.

In the District of Columbia the administration has passed the wartime high. The number of employés in the capital totaled 120,589. On the first armistice day the number of workers was 117,103.

The number of persons outside the District of Columbia totaled 796,714. At the wartime peak the number of outside employés was 799,736. In 1918 there was less concentration of government in the national capital, even though the country was at war.

President Roosevelt has frequently referred to his administration as being in a state of war with the depression. His war, which has cost 19 billion dollars in relief appropriations, also is bringing a larger monthly pay roll in the nation's capital than during the war with Germany.

Expands Under Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt is nearing a doubling of the federal pay roll during his terms in the White House. When he took office on March 4, 1933, there were 563,847 persons at work in the government exclusive of the legislative and judicial branches of the government and the naval and military establishments.

In less than six years Mr. Roosevelt has raised the number of employés in the District of Columbia by 53,787, or enough to populate a good sized city without their families. The number of federal employés in Washington on March 4, 1933, was 66,802, compared with 120,589 last December.

The number of employés outside the District on March 4, 1933, was 497,645, as against the 796,714 of last December. The total increase in the capital and the nation made under President Roosevelt in the period is 353,456 workers—an army which is larger than the combined forces of the United States army and navy.

The following table shows employment in the executive branch of government for representative years in the history of the nation:

Year.	Employés.
1861	49,200
1881	107,000
1901	256,000
*1918	917,760
†1933	563,847
1935	719,440
1937	889,550
1938	917,303

*Nov. 11, 1918. †March 4, 1933.

The federal pay roll in the executive departments for last December totaled $141,924,984, or more than enough to give every man, woman, and child in the country a dollar and some change.

ARVEY AND KENNA ASSURED SEATS IN CITY COUNCIL

Contests in Other Wards; 268 in Race.

Only two candidates for seats in the city council will be without opposition in the Feb. 28 election. This was assured yesterday when the original field of 366 contenders was narrowed down to 268 a few hours before the withdrawal deadline.

The board of election commissioners ruled out thirteen nominating petitions. Eighty-five other candidates withdrew from the races voluntarily. Four years ago there were 145 contenders for the fifty council seats with no contests in fourteen wards.

Arvey's Reëlection Assured.

Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the council finance committee and one of Mayor Kelly's campaign leaders, was the single incumbent whose reëlection was assured. Two opponents, including a Courtney endorsed candidate, who filed petitions, announced they had quit the race.

The other uncontested election will be in the First ward. Former Ald. Michael [Hinky Dink] Kenna will take the seat left vacant by his friend and political teammate, John [The Bath] Coughlin. Kenna and Coughlin sat together in the council until the single alderman plan was adopted. Then Kenna stepped aside, enabling The Bath to take over the 1st ward seat.

Kenna's comeback attempt was barred by three opponents at the start of the campaign. All three withdrew this week, leaving Kenna in complete command of his bailiwick. He is the ward's regular Democratic committeeman.

81 Objections Overruled.

The election board overruled objections filed against eighty-one of the petitions. Most of the attacks were directed at signatures on the petitions. Hearings, at which candidates and the objectors were invited to appear, were held last week.

With the aldermanic slate now in final form, the election board said, ballots will be ordered printed. Contracts for the work were let several weeks ago.

Candidates' names are rotated on the aldermanic ballots by precinct. In the first precinct of each ward names of council contenders are arranged alphabetically. Then in each succeeding precinct the top name goes to the bottom, while the second name is moved up to first place.

ASSESSOR CLARK ACTS TO GUARD OFFICE RECORDS

County Assessor John S. Clark took steps last night that he said were intended to safeguard his office records, which are being used in a WPA land use survey project. The survey personnel is now so large, he said, that he fears real estate tax records are endangered by hasty handling.

The assessor said he would confer with WPA officials today and insist that a deputy assessor under civil service supervise each crew of fifteen workers. He will ask the WPA to pay the supervisors.

The project, sponsored by the Chicago plan commission, was begun six weeks ago. At that time there was but a handful of workers. Several hundred are now engaged in the survey, however, and Clark said the records are too valuable to be risked in unsupervised hands.

SENATE DEFEAT COSTS ROBERTS $6,000 IN SALARY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Floyd H. Roberts, whose appointment by President Roosevelt as a federal District judge for Virginia was rejected Monday in a crushing senate vote, will not draw a single penny for more than seven months of service on the bench, it was learned today.

Mr. Roberts was appointed last July 6 and took the oath of office Aug. 1. A recess appointee draws salary only when the vacancy which he fills occurs during the recess. If the vacancy occurs during a session of congress, but is not filled until congress adjourns, the appointee draws no pay for services until he is confirmed.

Although Mr. Roberts was not nominated for a vacancy, but for a newly created post, the same law prevented him from collecting salary because the post was vacant immediately upon its creation and Mr. Roosevelt could have filled it before the last congress adjourned.

Had Mr. Roberts been confirmed he would have received back pay for his service up to confirmation in a lump sum. As a federal District judge receives $10,000 a year, this would have been almost $6,000.

MR. COHEN AIN'T DONE NOTHIN', AND RECORDS SAY SO

Morris Cohen was lounging in front of 1252 Madison street yesterday when Detective Charles Moore of the Des Plaines street police seized him.

"I ain't done nothin'," said Mr. Cohen, who has a record for burglary going back to 1913. But police records show he was wanted for a kidnaping at Elkhorn, Wis., in 1934. So Morris, who lives at 404 South Ashland avenue, was thrown into jail.

It's likely he'll be out again quite soon. At Elkhorn last night Sherif Joseph Dorr said Cohen had been arrested, tried and acquitted of that kidnap charge five years ago. Chicago police had forgotten to take the "stop order" off the books.

As Mr. Cohen says, he ain't done nothin'.

COURTNEY RAPS KELLY HANDLING OF CITY TRANSIT

Charges Mayor Is Bossed by Utilities.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Chicago's mayoralty campaign took on heat last night with an attack by State's Attorney Courtney upon Mayor Kelly and the local transportation system. In a radio speech Courtney declared the issue is whether Chicago is to be kept under control of "political bosses like Kelly and Nash" whose "bigger bosses" are the utilities.

"For six long years Mr. Kelly has been promising a settlement of the traction question," said Courtney. "For six long years, car, elevated and bus riders have put up with existing inconveniences. All these years high priced lawyers and experts have been taking millions out of the traction fund, and what has come of all this?

Asks Mayor a Question.

"A month ago the newspapers said 'Traction Settlement Near; an 8c Fare Looms.' That prompts me to ask Mayor Kelly: why has this traction settlement been delayed until after election day? Is it because the deal with the city, whom you represent, and the traction interests, whom Col. A. A. Sprague represents, will not bear scrutiny at a time when you are a candidate for reëlection? The Shaw plan, which seems to me to be the sole hope for any traction settlement under your administration, carries with it a provision for an 8c fare. Is that the reason, Mr. Kelly, you have been so silent?

"As one of my platform pledges I will oppose an increase in the present 7c fare.

"And now who bobs up as Mr. Kelly's campaign manager, Mr. Sprague, the receiver for the Rapid Transit lines, one of the interested parties in the traction settlement.

Who Needs Mr. Kelly?

"Mr. Kelly represents the people. Mr. Sprague represents the Rapid Transit lines. Behind Mr. Sprague are the utilities.

"Mr. Sprague is Mr. Kelly's campaign manager. He was also chairman of the committee to draft Mayor Kelly for reëlection. Mr. Kelly was somewhat hesitant. Mr. Sprague said, 'You must run. We need you.' I guess that covers the situation. Col. Sprague and the public utilities he represents do need Mr. Kelly very badly.

"During these six long years there have been many meetings on traction. There have been meetings in Miami, New York, and Eagle River.

"We hear a good deal about the valuation of the surface lines and the elevated, for fare fixing purposes. But not much has been said as to the price that is going to be paid by the people for the bus lines in this contemplated traction deal.

Who Represents Car Riders?

"Just ask yourselves: Has any one been really representing the interest of the car riders in these negotiations? I say Mayor Kelly has disqualified himself as your representative."

Courtney said a State street subway ordinance accepted in 1925 provided that property owners of State street were to pay 35 per cent of the costs, or 15 million of the present plan, but instead the city council is appropriating 23 million dollars from the traction fund.

"Why has Mr. Kelly been so silent on the whole public utility question?" Courtney asked. "Is it because Mr. Sprague will not let him talk? You know it is only when Mr. Kelly gets out with the boys in a meeting of the Kelly-Nash machine that he gets down to speaking his own language.

Quotes Kelly on Taxes.

"At such a time the other evening this is what he had to say about the tax situation: 'All this talk about taxes is the bunk.' He said further, 'To hell with the budget.'

"Utility interests are bobbing up all over the place. This is an opportune time to comment on Mr. Green's recent speeches, for Mr. Green is charging Mr. Kelly with the same offenses against public interests that I have charged. Mr. Green has been echoing my every utterance with an emphatic, 'Me, too.'"

All May Visit U. S.

King George and Queen Elizabeth of Britain.

King Boris and Queen Giovanna of Bulgaria.

King Zog of Albania and Queen Geraldine.

Prince Bernhard and Princess Juliana of The Netherlands.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—In addition to the proposed visits of King George and Queen Elizabeth of Britain and members of the reigning families of Norway and Denmark, the state department is receiving hints that at least four more groups of European royalty may come to the United States this summer.

Visits are being contemplated by King Zog of Albania and his bride of last year, who is of Hungarian origin and has some American blood; King Boris of Bulgaria and Queen Giovanna, one of the daughters of the king of Italy; Princess Juliana and Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, and Grand Duke Jean of Luxembourg, tiny grand duchy lying between France and Germany.

That $4,000 Watch Is Gone, and So Is a Tiny Suspect

The hunt was abandoned yesterday for the $4,000 diamond wrist watch belonging to Mrs. Chester D. Tripp of 1404 Forest avenue, Evanston. Plumbers were unable to find the watch in the water system of the home. The Tripps' grandson, Donald, 3 years old, who was thought to have disposed of the watch while playing in a bathroom, has returned to his home in California.

MAYOR SPEAKS TO 18,000 MORE OF HIS WORKERS

Gets Backing of County Clerk Flynn.

BY PARKE BROWN.

In two meetings last night Mayor Kelly spoke to 18,000 supporters, most of whom were workers for the regular Democratic organization. At the 132d Infantry armory, 2635 Madison street, a crowd of 10,000 listened to him. At the Broadway armory, 5917 Broadway, another 8,000 greeted him.

These two gatherings completed a series of four during the last three days at which the total attendance was at least 30,000. At each of the meetings the workers from approximately one-fourth of the city's fifty wards were marshaled to listen to plain talks about the campaign. The talks were to some extent instructions as to the kind of gospel that should be disseminated in the precincts.

Sets Final Drive in Motion.

The final meetings, in other words, completed the arrangements for setting into motion the final drive of the big organization. During the day another last touch was given with a declaration for Mayor Kelly from County Clerk Michael J. Flynn, committeeman of the 13th ward. The regulars considered this an offset to the declaration of Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, for State's Attorney Courtney.

Mayor Kelly's talks at the two armories were much like those he made the two previous nights. In none of the four speeches did he refer directly to Courtney or to any of the state's attorney's attacks on him since the campaign opened.

Observers watching for some allusion to his opponent last night heard only one remark that they thought might have been prompted by a Courtney utterance. In an early evening broadcast, Courtney had said he saw a possibility that street car fares might be increased as a result of subway construction and unification of all local transportation lines.

Fare May Be Decreased.

"There will be no increase in fare," said Kelly at both meetings, "and it is possible there may be a decrease."

Except for that one possible exception, the mayor followed his policy of limiting his campaign to the record of his own administration, his accomplishments for the city and his hopes for the future. As he has done systematically, he asked his supporters to concentrate their efforts among the voters along those lines.

At the west side meeting, Kelly urged his hearers to shake off the overconfidence he believes they have been showing.

"Get it out of your minds," he said, "that this is an easy job. Get out and work as you always do."

At both meetings he spoke of the reduction of crime in Chicago, the development of the city's park system, the improvement in the safety record, the bringing of large conventions to the city, the outlook for greatly improved aviation facilities, the improvement of the public schools, and similar facts, he said, were taken from the record.

Schreiber Praises Mayor.

At the west side meeting he was followed by Ludwig D. Schreiber, candidate for city clerk, an entry from the Horner camp.

"This city," said Schreiber, "has been and is being rejuvenated by Mayor Kelly. Is it fair to make a change now?"

At the north side meeting the mayor mentioned other subjects in his record in which he said he takes pride. One of them was the part the city played in taking an early lead in the fight against syphilis.

"We are now treating 1,500 persons a day," he said. "We're leading the cities of the United States in the fight and have received the congratulations of the surgeon general of the United States for doing so."

OWNER OF HOTEL, CLERK CHARGED WITH VOTE FRAUD

Two men, the owner and a clerk at the Calvert hotel, 1803 South Wabash avenue, were named yesterday in warrants charging conspiracy to violate the election laws by filing a fraudulent list of thirty-nine names as those of qualified voters living at the hotel. The warants were issued by Judge Albert E. Isley of Newton, sitting in County court. Assistant State's Attorney Eugene J. O'Connor said votes were cast in the election last Nov. 8 in the names of all thirty-nine fictitious persons.

The men, Benjamin F. Mayer, 55 years old, owner of the hotel, and James F. Flynn, 42, night clerk, were released when the court approved cash bonds of $1,500 for Mayer and $1,000 for Flynn. Mayer was quoted by police as saying: "I did this for some politician in the neighborhood, but I'm not going to name him because I don't want to get in trouble." Assistant State's Attorney O'Connor said he would seek perjury indictments against Mayer today.

FRANK J. LOESCH, CRIME FIGHTER, INDORSES GREEN

Wants No Return to Era of Gangsters.

Frank J. Loesch, president emeritus of the Chicago Crime commission, yesterday indorsed Dwight H. Green, regular Republican organization candidate for mayor.

Frank J. Loesch.

Loesch, now 86 years old, for many years has been the outstanding civic leader in persistent warfare against gangsters, hoodlums, and dishonest politicians. In his statement he referred to the crime ridden era of ten years ago when the man who is now Green's only opponent for the Republican nomination was in command in the city hall. He expressed a hope that Chicago would not see a recurrence of those times.

Glad Green Is Candidate.

"From the very beginning of my ten years' service as president of the Chicago Crime commission," read the Loesch statement, "and while I held office as special attorney general and first assistant state's attorney, I publicly urged the election of young men of character and standing.

"The people were tired of the politicians' ring around the rosy which has been made possible by bipartisan deals between the two political organizations.

"Therefore, when Dwight H. Green became a candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor I was delighted beyond measure.

Measures Up to Ideals.

"Here was a man who came up to my ideals of what I had been urging on the people. A young man of unquestioned integrity, of fine character, who had served the public ably as United States district attorney and had succeeded in bringing to justice and sending to prison the leading public enemies in Chicago."

Another indorsement made public by Green headquarters came from a committee of lawyers who met during the day to lay plans to coöperate with the Committee of Ten Thousand, an independent organization working for Green's nomination.

Among the lawyers present were George B. McKibben, Willard L. King, Alfred O. Erickson, Willett H. Cornwall, James P. Harrold, George A. Fink, Frank S. Sims, Edward B. Casey, Robert W. Dunn, Lawrence C. Mills, Charles F. McKinley, and Jay Stough.

Sorority Girls in Pajamas Flee Hillsdale, Mich., Fire

Hillsdale, Mich., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Fire in the Pi Beta Phi house at Hillsdale college this morning drove its girl occupants from their rooms in pajamas. The house and its contents were greatly damaged.

Political Notes

A tea for Mrs. Dwight H. Green, wife of the candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor, will be held from 4 to 6 p. m. today in the headquarters of the Volunteer Women's committee for Green, room 950, 332 South Michigan avenue.

State's Attorney Courtney addressed 1,500 persons at a 3d ward meeting last night at 62 East 49th street. He promised to make efforts to stimulate the building industry as a means of creating employment. Later he spoke before a crowd of 200 at an 8th ward rally at 7732 Cottage Grove avenue.

John J. Gillen, secretary of local 73 of the Sheet Metal Workers' union, told Mayor Kelly yesterday that the organization's support of him had been voted by the membership and had not been decided by a handful of its officers.

Mrs. Samuel Slade, 1138 Lake Shore drive, founder of the Illinois Democratic Women's forum, issued the following statement: "We must depend on the dynamic Mr. Courtney to correct conditions which have caused many individuals, families, and industries to leave the city owing to high taxes."

An announcement of the withdrawal of Attorney John E. O'Connor from the aldermanic race in the 44th ward said he felt it was to the best interest of Gov. Horner for him to give his full support to the candidacy of Mayor Kelly.

A delegation of fifty Greek-Americans called on Mayor Kelly to invite him to attend a ball in his honor in the Aragon ballroom on Feb. 20. They told him that on that occasion he will be given the Spartan oath, a part of the ritual of ancient Greece for public officials.

IRISH TERRORISTS ISSUE THREATS OF NEW VIOLENCE

Warning Sent to Paper by Outlawed Army.

DUBLIN, Ireland, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The terroristic Irish Republican army, which the Ireland government is seeking to curb by drastic legislation, sent a crudely printed warning to a Londonderry newspaper today threatening further violence in its campaign to rid northern and southern Ireland of British ties.

The warning expressed jubilance because authorities of Northern Ireland had canceled a scheduled visit of the duke and duchess of Kent, brother and sister-in-law of King George VI. of Great Britain.

"On behalf of the Derry battalion of the I. R. A. [Irish Republican army]," the warning said, "we have now prevented royalty from our soil. The next will be English troops, and we will see that Craigavon's men [special constabulary of the Ulster government headed by Lord Craigavon] keep alert at gas, electric, and petrol buildings."

New Laws Considered.

While the dail [parliament] considered the new legislation that may provide the death penalty and military tribunals for I. R. A. conspirators, active terrorism in London seemed to have eased off today.

A conductor found a hand grenade in his street car, however, and took it to Scotland yard for examination.

The dail, in an attempt to crush the anti-British terrorism and preserve the De Valera government's own authority in Ireland, consented to introduction of new legislation aimed at the already outlawed I. R. A.

The death penalty may be provided in the new bills, which will be published Friday. Parliament authorized introduction of the bills upon reading of the mere titles. Texts and penalties were not disclosed.

Bombings Behind Move.

Deputies expected, however, that the bills would provide powers similar to those held by a military tribunal introduced in 1931 and effective, except for a short time, until the new constitution became operative in 1937.

Behind the move was the bombing wave, in which 40 Irishmen have been arrested and charged with possession of several tons of explosives and firearms seized in British police raids. The I. R. A. terrorists demand complete removal of British influence from Ireland — particularly from Northern Ireland, still loyal to the British crown.

Husband to Pay

MRS. ETHEL CORDELL.

Stanley Cordell, 1636 North Washtenaw avenue, a printer, protested yesterday when Judge Oscar Nelson ordered him to pay alimony and support money to his estranged wife, Ethel, 28 years old, 2337 Addison street, and their son Robert, 2.

"She's got plenty of money, judge," said Cordell. "I gave her $540 when we separated Jan. 12."

"That certainly was generous of you," interjected Mrs. Cordell's attorney, Charles C. Cooley. "Judge, that was Mrs. Cordell's money. She saved $980. He gave her a little more than half of it."

"That was our money, not hers," replied Cordell.

"The court doesn't look at it that way," said Judge Nelson. "Giving your wife part of her own money is not supporting her. Pay her $10 a week for herself and your son."

NAZI TREATMENT OF YANKS UNFAIR, U. S. TELLS BERLIN

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—(AP)—An American note to the Nazi government citing specific cases of alleged discrimination against the rights of American citizens in Germany was disclosed today. The note requested the German government to examine these instances. It was presented to the foreign office Monday. The number of cases was not announced.

Similar action was taken Jan. 11, after Germany expressed willingness to examine and regulate individual cases. This was in answer to a request from the United States Dec. 14 for general assurances that "American citizens would not be accorded differential treatment because of their race or religious beliefs."

Although the nature of the cases was not disclosed, most of them were believed to involve Jews claiming damages resulting from the Nov. 10 destruction of Jewish property or because of anti-Semitic decrees.

OPEN HOLY LAND GATES TO JEWS, BRITAIN IS URGED

Free Immigration Asked by Zionist Leader.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the world Zionist organization and the Jewish Agency for Palestine, tonight asked Great Britain to open the gates of the holy land to his "disembodied ghost of a race."

Weizmann opened negotiations on behalf of Jews at the Arab-Jewish conferences called by Britain to determine the future of her league of nations mandate over Palestine. He delivered a "secret" two hour speech to British officials at St. James's palace while Arabs wrangled among themselves at a nearby hotel.

Chamberlain Receives Arabs.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain received a delegation of Arabs at the house of commons. These were so-called anti-mufti delegates, opposed to the leadership of the exiled grand mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin Effendi al Husseini.

Their presence in London had angered the delegation of mufti followers and led yesterday to postponement of the first Arab-British business session. Malcolm MacDonald, colonial secretary, went to a reception for Arab delegates this afternoon but was unable to reconcile differences between the moderate Arabs and the mufti delegates. British officials refused to make Weizmann's speech public until after they had heard the Arab case.

Makes Five Demands.

The president of the Zionist organization made these specific demands:

1. Freedom of Jewish immigration up to the absorptive capacity of Palestine.

2. Britain must maintain the Balfour declaration. This declaration, made in 1917 by Britain, promised to facilitate establishment of a Jewish national home.

3. Peace must be maintained under the British mandate.

4. Jews must be guaranteed the right to buy land.

5. Jews must not be asked to accept official minority status.

Weizmann said that Jews, on the other hand, had no desire to relegate Arabs to a minority status. He said immigration of the Jews in the last twenty years had not affected the Arabs' majority.

Weizmann argued against limiting the immigration of Jews to Palestine at 1,000 a month at a time when hundreds of thousands of Jews were 'worse than homeless."

Two manly looking little boys met Mrs. Fannie Sadopsky last night as she was returning to the home of her brother at 1052 North Springfield avenue. Suddenly they seized her purse and fled with the $100 and two tickets to Newark, N. J., it contained. Mrs. Sadopsky said the boys looked no more than 12 years old. She and a daughter recently came here from Newark to visit the brother, Henry Sehasser.

QUEBEC LEADER BACKS ITALY IF ENGLAND FIGHTS

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 8.—(AP)—The Gazette today quoted Mayor Camillien Houde as saying that French Canadians in the province of Quebec are Fascists by blood, if not by name, and if England should go to war with Italy, their sympathies would be with the Italians. Mayor Houde spoke last night before the Young Men's Supper club at the Y. M. C. A.

"You appear to be surprised when I say that the sympathies of the French-Canadian would be with Italy in the event of a war between that country and England," he was quoted as saying. "The French-Canadians don't want to go to war. If war happens—and the possibility it may seems more probable every day—and Italy is on one side and England on the other, the sympathy of the French-Canadians in Quebec will be on the side of Italy.

"We French-Canadians are not Latins, but Normans, but we have become Latinized over a long period of years. The Canadians are Fascists by blood, but not by name. The Latins have always been in favor of dictators."

EVANSTON'S COPS HUNT FOR GEORGE OUT OF SEASON

Evanston police spent the summer looking for George Tompas, 40 years old, because George insisted on selling popcorn in restricted areas. He was arrested a number of times, only to pop up again in the next few days at the old stand. Last night the police were looking for him again, although the outdoor popcorn season is closed. Tompas' wife, Mary, signed a warant charging that he beat her last Friday in their home at 703 Reba place in the suburb. Then, she said, he announced that he was "through with her and through with Evanston," walked out, and has not been seen since.

GERMAN POLICE JAIL WOMEN TAKING PART IN RUNS ON COFFEE SHOPS

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—The German coffee shortage has become so acute that the police, the ersatz [substitute] industry, and the press have been pressed into service to meet the emergency. The police are beginning to disperse long lines in front of coffee shops, and complainants, mostly women, are being arrested.

The ersatz industry is mixing coffee beans with roasted barley to stretch the coffee supply. Private consumers, if they are lucky, may buy a few hundred grams of coffee at a time. Some coffee shops are introducing ration cards to supply their steady customers with at least a little.

The press is denouncing persons standing in the coffee lines as "coffee hyenas." It accuses them of sacrificing every sense of decency to their coffee greed.

Dies of Gunshot Wound Inflicted Eight Years Ago

John Cornelious, 58 years old, colored, of 3335 South State street, died in the County hospital yesterday as the result of a gunshot fired eight years ago. The bullet lodged near his brain. He went to the hospital last Sept. 27 and was believed to be suffering from a brain tumor until he told physicians of the 1931 shooting. An operation to remove the bullet was made ten days ago, but it was too deeply imbedded to be reached.

IL DUCE ORDERS ITALY TO SPEED UP WAR MACHINE

British-French Military Pact Arouses Nation.

ROME, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini has ordered Italy's war machine stepped up to balance a "real French-English military alliance."

A terse foreign office bulletin, Informazione Diplomatica, tonight appraised the nation's and the government's reaction to Prime Minister Chamberlain's recent statement of British-French solidarity.

The bulletin accepted as "axiomatic" the existence of a "real and true and regularly signed English-French military alliance."

[On Monday the British prime minister told the house of commons that "any threat to the vital interests of France, from whatever quarter it came, must evoke the immediate cooperation of this country."]

Italy Hastens Preparations.

Although crediting Britain and France with an alliance that is "naturally defensive," the bulletin said Italy would "speed up and perfect" military preparations.

Following closely upon circulation of reports abroad that Britain and France might offer loans to Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel leader, the Fascist press declared it was "too late" for eleventh hour moves by nations wanting to strike bargains with "new Spain."

Mussolini's Milan newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, said that when Franco asked France to send a representative to Burgos, the rebel capital, before he began his Catalonian offensive on Dec. 23 he informed the French such a move after the campaign succeeded would be "too late."

Takes a Dig at France.

Il Popolo d'Italia said the "definite victory" which Italy insisted on for Franco meant a victory to be "consolidated in a manner so the fruits of sacrifices, whether made by Spaniards or [Italian] legionnaires, remain in Spain and not go to those who, after having favored the exportation of bolshevism to Spain, hasten now to make eleventh hour contracts with Burgos."

FIND LOYALIST TROOPS POSSESS NAZI MUNITIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOURG-MADAME, France [at the Spanish Frontier], Feb. 8.—French authorities who have been supervising the disarming of Spanish loyalist troops in their flight across the border today expressed astonishment at the vast amount of German made munitions the soldiers possessed.

"We have been getting arms from Germany for a year at least, and received new supplies at regular intervals," said a Spanish officer.

These arms were turned over to French customs officials, not to army men.

Demand Surrender of Minorca Island

While Gen. Miaja yesterday was reported dealing directly with rebel Gen. Franco for surrender of the Madrid-Valencia loyalist zone, a rebel envoy aboard the British cruiser Devonshire was reported to have carried a surrender demand to the loyalist Island of Minorca. The island commands France's "life line" to North Africa. While loyalist troops were withdrawing from the last bit of Catalonian territory, Premier Negrin maintained headquarters in Le Perthus in the "last house in Spain."

BRITAIN HELPS GEN. FRANCO WIN MINORCA ISLAND

Warship Bears Envoy Asking Surrender.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The British cruiser Devonshire was at Minorca today and was widely reported to have carried an envoy from rebel Gen. Francisco Franco to negotiate a surrender of that island, the stronghold of the Spanish loyalists in the Mediterrarean. It was reported that Britain was ready to coöperate with Gen. Franco in occupation of Minorca, provided that the landing troops were all Spanish.

The envoy, traveling under a "white flag," it was reported by London newspapers and the Spanish press agency, would offer terms of surrender to the government commander at Port Mahon, fortified capital of that Balearic island.

Britain and France have been anxious lest German or Italian forces occupy the island. Troops, planes or submarines based on Minorca would offer a potential threat to France's water and air communications with her north African empire and to Britain's empire "life line" through the Mediterranean.

Minorca is the only one of the Balearic Islands held by the loyalists. Its defenders' position has been desperate since Barcelona fell on Jan. 26 and regular supplies have not been sent to the island.

Italian forces are in virtual control of the neighboring, rebel held island of Mallorca. Italian planes have used Mallorca as a base for bombing operations against Spanish loyalist territory.

Five days ago, it was learned, squadrons of Italian war planes flew over Minorca, dropping leaflets calling for the island's surrender. The time limit was to have expired today.

EINSTEIN NEPHEW IN FRENCH CAMP FOR LOYALISTS

PERPIGNAN, France, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Karl Einstein, 55 years old, a nephew of Albert Einstein, the scientist, was found in a French concentration camp for Spanish government soldiers by newspaper men today. Einstein, a former professor of political economy at the University of Madrid and later a captain of infantry, had a German passport.

He said he was continuing to Paris, where he has a home, and hoped to exchange his passport for a Nansen refugee committee pass so he could join his uncle in Princeton, N. J.

[The Nansen committee was founded in 1931 under the authority of the league of nations to assist refugees. The committee, which was named after Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, famous Norwegian explorer, humanitarian, and Nobel peace prize winner, was authorized to issue passports for refugees without countries.]

"I enjoyed being a soldier more than being a professor," he said.

FRANCE, BRITAIN DANGLE LOAN AS BRIBE TO FRANCO

Seek to Eliminate Nazi and Fascist Influence.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A British-French plan to get Germany and Italy out of Spain by countering Nazi-Fascist wartime help with peacetime gold was reported by informed quarters today.

Diplomatic circles said Britain and France had offered to finance reconstruction of the war-torn country in return for a promise by Generalissimo Franco to eliminate German and Italian influence from a new rebel state.

There was a belief in the two democratic nations that the relative poverty of Germany and Italy would make it hard for them to help in the rebuilding of Spain after the war.

Informed British sources said Prime Minister Chamberlain had discussed in the cabinet meeting the possibility of a large loan to rebel Spain. British officials acknowledge that Britain had asked Franco to agree to a truce.

Significantly, the duke of Alba, rebel representative in London, called twice today at the British foreign office.

Offer Loan on Conditions.

Diplomatic sources in Paris indicated Britain and France had offered an "understanding" to the rebels.

The understanding, which was said to have been offered by French Senator Leon Berard, semi-official French envoy to the rebel capital, was described as providing for the loan on condition that Italian and German influence be eliminated.

Well informed sources said Berard brought back from Burgos a rebel demand for legal recognition of Generalissimo Franco's government.

Bound up with this was a demand for return to the rebels of gold belonging to the Bank of Spain deposited in France by the Spanish government, as well as Spanish art treasures which the government has shipped to France for protection.

These sources said Berard expected to return to Burgos for conferences with the generalissimo himself. His first negotiations were with Francisco Gomez Jordana, foreign minister of the rebel régime.

Franco's Five Promises.

Berard was said to have brought five specific rebel promises which it was hoped would make possible immediate recognition by France. These were listed as:

1. No foreign troops would be allowed to approach the French frontier.

2. No foreign troops would be allowed to remain in Spain proper, the Spanish colonies, or the Balearic Islands after military operations of the civil war are finished.

3. An expeditionary force of 10,000 men now ready to sail for a conquest of the island of Minorca would be made up exclusively of Spaniards.

4. Spanish refugees now in France would be taken into rebel Spain without conditions or reprisals.

5. A general amnesty would be proclaimed for all government refugees now in France except "criminal leaders."

These assurances, Berard was said to have told Foreign Minister Bonnet, are considered by the rebels as proof of their intention to be good neighbors to France and to maintain a government free of all foreign influences.

9 WRITERS IN SHANGHAI GET DEATH THREATS; INVESTIGATION BEGUN

SHANGHAI, Feb. 8.—(AP)—International settlement police today investigated a letter threatening death to nine foreign newspaper writers considered by Shanghai residents to be pro-Chinese. The letter was signed by the "Society of Honorable and Righteous True Chinese," which authorities charge is a pro-Japanese terrorist corps, and informed Carroll Alcott, American radio announcer and writer for the Shanghai China Press, that he and eight others were marked for death.

The others are J. B. Powell, publisher of the China Weekly Review; Randall Gould, editor of the Shanghai Evening Post and correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor; Agnes Smedley, communist author; M. C. Ford, news editor of the Shanghai Evening Post; Edgar Snow, an author; H. G. Timperly, former correspondent for the Manchester Guardian; A. Vespa, an author, and Joseph S. Bates, British publisher of two Chinese newspapers.

MULTUM IN PARVO

By CALEB

EXACTLY thirty-five years after his birth in Chicago, Julian Street, the famous novelist and playwright, toured his native America and wrote that inimitable book, Abroad at Home. Among the cities visited and described by his virile pen, none, naturally, was quite so near his heart in emotional appeal as the metropolis of his own childhood—and in discussing its largest store, he wrote as follows:

"Aside from its vastness and the variety of its activities, two things about Marshall Field's interested me particularly. One is the attitude maintained by the company with regard to claims made in the advertising of 'sales.' When there is a 'sale' at Field's, comparisons of values are not made. It may be said that certain articles are cheap at the price at which they are being offered, but it is never put in the form: 'Was $5. Now $2.50.' Field's does not believe in that.

"'We take the position,' an official explained to me, 'that things are worth what they will bring. For instance, if some manufacturer has made too many overcoats, and we are able to get them at a bargain, or there is a mild winter and overcoats do not sell well, we may place on sale a lot of coats which were meant to be sold at $40, but which we are willing to sell at $22.50.

"'In such a case we never advertise "Worth $40." We just point out that these are exceptionally good coats for the money. And, when we say that, it is invariably true. This advertising is not so sensational as it could be made, of course, but we think that in the long run it teaches people to rely upon us.'"

The second feature of our establishment which appealed to Mr. Street was "the appearance of the saleswomen." He spoke feelingly of their looking, in the aggregate, "happier, simpler and more natural" than he had observed in other cities; and that "among these women, the Chicago spirit seemed to show itself" . . .

As we recall our Latin, multum in parvo means: "Much in little"; and this novelist's minor comments, quoted above, had that epigrammatic quality. Even projected against the scale of time, the incident still illustrates the conservative policy in regard to values, and their proper presentation to the public, that is practiced today; a policy, we scarcely need add, adhered to for precisely the same reason advanced to Mr. Julian Street by an official of the store a quarter-century ago.

DEWEY ASSAILS OWN WITNESS IN HINES TRIAL

Threatens to Impeach Lawyer Max Steuer.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 8.—[Special.]—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey today threatened to impeach, as a state witness, Max Steuer, prominent trial lawyer and legal adviser to Tammany Hall. Steuer was called to testify in the trial of James J. Hines, Tammany leader.

Max Steuer.

The prosecutor intimated Steuer had changed his story of a talk he had with Hines about the Democratic boss' attempts to compromise the income tax evasion suit against Dutch Schultz, slain gang leader.

Different Story Told.

General Sessions Judge Charles C. Nott Jr. adjourned court immediately after Dewey dramatically declared that, if necessary, he would proceed under the statute to impeach the witness. Steuer glumly left the stand.

If the district attorney follows this course tomorrow he will have the right to cross-examine Steuer, his witness, and attack his credibility on the point in controversy. The purported conflict in the stories lies between Steuer's original testimony before the grand jury and his court appearances.

Called to the witness stand late in the day, Steuer said he had been a friend of Hines for many years. Then Dewey asked him about conversations with Hines about Schultz's troubles with the government. Hines is being tried for conspiracy to violate the lottery law and to give political protection to the Schultz hoodlums operating the policy racket.

Compromise Refused.

Steuer admitted that late in 1932 or early in 1933 Hines asked him to go to George Z. Medalie, then Republican United States attorney, and see if the income tax litigation against Arthur Flegenheimer [Schultz] could be compromised. Medalie refused to compromise and Steuer reported this to Hines, he said.

Dewey assailed Steuer when the lawyer added a remark quoting Hines as having said he was not interested further in Schultz's troubles. This afterthought was not included in Steuer's grand jury testimony.

Davis' Story Unshaken.

Before this episode J. Richard Davis, lawyer for Schultz who has pleaded guilty to the same charges on which Hines is being tried, passed through a lengthy cross-examination at the hands of Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief of defense counsel, with his story unshaken.

Stryker spent considerable time on Davis' love life with Hope Dare, the show girl who was found with him in his Philadelphia hideout when he was arrested a year ago. Last summer it was found that Davis was visiting his sweetheart in her New York apartment when he was out of jail on a court order permitting him to see a doctor.

Judge Nott asked Stryker why he was carrying on this line of questioning. The defense attorney replied he wanted to show one of the inducements which led to Davis' agreement to plead guilty and testify against Hines.

Seized with Pistols

WILLIAM HOWARD.

When he was sent to the juvenile home last spring for petty pilfering, William Howard, 16 years old, decided he would go out for bigger game, he told detectives yesterday. That was why he was carrying two pistols when he was arrested Tuesday by Detectives H. Grace and M. Loughney of the Burnside station.

Howard has confessed five burglaries in which he took loot valued at several hundred dollars. Yesterday he named Anthony Dalia, 41 years old, of 2050 West 70th street, who he said helped dispose of some jewelry taken in the burglaries. Dalia is being held for questioning.

Rescuers Tunnel to Reach 3 Buried in Mine Rockfall

Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Rescuers dug tonight in the hope of saving two brothers and a companion entombed in a deep mine shaft at Goodspring, near here. John Dietrich, 23 years old; his brother, Lee, 26, and Norman Howard, 18, all of Gratz, were buried under 30 feet of dirt, coal, and timber by a rockfall. The rescuers heard no sounds to encourage a belief the three still lived.

HEAR WITNESSES IN JURY'S PROBE OF DIVORCE SUIT

The grand jury yesterday heard three witnesses in connection with an alleged fraudulent divorce obtained last July by Frank G. Wood, a Peoria toolmaker. After a fourth witness is heard today, Assistant State's Attorney Frank Christiansen said, indictments against two men and a woman will be sought.

They are Wood, Elizabeth Sherlock, and Walter Swick, all of Peoria. Wood obtained a divorce from his wife, Cora, in the Superior court. Judge Oscar Nelson began an investigation Monday after Mrs. Wood testified the divorce was fraudulent.

Mrs. Wood said she and Wood have lived in Peoria since 1930. Swick and the Sherlock woman, Mrs. Wood charged, testified to alleged acts of her cruelty after giving Chicago addresses, as her husband had done. She charged that two days after the decree he married Miss Sherlock.

IN U. S. 25 YEARS, 2 ALIENS FIND NO MERCY IN COURT

Heavy fines were imposed yesterday upon two men charged with minor offenses after they admitted to Judge Eugene L. McGarry in Town Hall court that they had been in this country more than twenty-five years but had taken out only first citizenship papers.

Swan Carlson, 49 years old, 655 Aldine avenue, a native of Sweden, was arrested for taking coal from the Milwaukee road right of way near Kenmore and Buena avenues. Judge McGarry reprimanded Carlson, then fined him $200. Emil Prniski, 44, a furnace tender at 1235 Winona avenue, was fined $100. Prniski, who came here from Poland, was arrested for drunkenness.

DISPUTE CLAIMS OF ELLSWORTH TO SOUTH POLE AREA

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Commonwealth officials today sent a report to the Australian cabinet disputing the right of Lincoln Ellsworth to annex 80,000 square miles of new territory in Antarctica in behalf of the United States.

Ellsworth announced his claims to this territory in a dispatch from the south pole. Later when his expedition arrived at Hobart, Tasmania, Feb. 4, he announced he was claiming a total of 430,000 square miles for the United States.

Today's report was the result of an investigation into Ellsworth's original claim for 80,000 miles of territory. The report said Australia claimed the region in question when it was explored in 1928 by Sir Douglas Mawson. It was said, however, that Australia would not take steps to contest the territory unless the United States took the initiative by supporting Ellsworth's claims.

FAILURE TO GET ENOUGH VITAMINS—Large numbers of men and women today do not feel as well and vigorous as they might, many studies indicate, because they fail to get enough vitamins from their everyday meals. To make sure you get enough, it is safest to eat extra vitamins every day.

SLOW DIGESTION MAY ALSO PREVENT YOU—like many others—from getting full good from vitamins you eat. Some of the signs that often show a poor supply or poor assimilation of vitamins are: lowered resistance to colds, nervousness, slow digestion, tiring easily, too early aging.

The New HIGH-VITAMIN Yeast offers More Complete Results than Vitamins Alone

THE NEW, IMPROVED HIGH-VITAMIN YEAST is now richer than ever in Vitamins A, B, D, G—the 4 vitamins needed regularly in good amounts to help you fight colds, for steady nerves and good digestion, sound bones and teeth, and to help you feel young and energetic.

The yeast helps to quicken and stimulate slow digestion. In this way it acts like a "booster" for the vitamins. It aids in their assimilation—gives more complete results than just vitamins alone.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BURKE WILL OPEN DRIVE TO REVAMP LABOR ACT TODAY

Tells Proposed Changes to Steel Executives.

Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.], outspoken foe of the National Labor Relations board, announced in Chicago yesterday that today he will introduce before the senate drastic amendments to the Wagner labor act. The NLRB operates under the act.

Senator Burke, who recently cited twenty-two instances in which the board had been reversed by the courts, explained his proposed amendments before the annual meeting of the Steel Founders' Society of America in the Edgewater Beach hotel. The changes he proposes would make the act enforceable and would stop its discrimination against employés, he declared.

Charges Bickering Is Incited.

In addition, he said, the amendments would make the board an agency to promote peace between labor and the employers. He charged that the Wagner act and the labor board have been multiplying causes for complaint and inciting constant bickering and warfare. The four principal provisions of Senator Burke's proposals are:

1. Appointment of a new labor board of three members; one to represent labor, another to represent the employers, and a third to act in the interest of the public.

2. Provision enabling a person or a corporation complained against to remove its case from the board's jurisdiction and place it before a United States District court for hearing when the board fails to act within 20 days. [This is intended to speed up decisions and promote fairness, the senator explained.]

Seeks Rights for Employers.

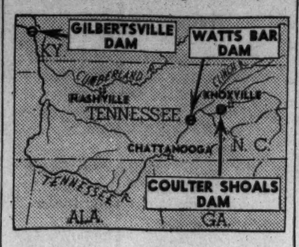
3. Broadening the act to permit employers to complain to the board against unfair practices of employés. [Under the present act the employer can complain only against employés' organizations.]

4. Changing the act to permit employers to demand that the board order a vote of employés to determine what organization they want to serve them as bargaining agency. [As the act stands now, Senator Burke contends, the employer may be left at the mercy of several organizations, each claiming to have the employés' authorization to bargain.]

Senator Burke said he hopes also to exempt all agricultural workers from terms of the Wagner act, which now exempts only those actually engaged in tilling the soil. Tree sprayers, fruit packers, and others indirectly engaged in agricultural work should also be beyond the board's jurisdiction, he declared.

Cut Funds for Dams

(Story in adjoining column.)



Reduction in house appropriations for the Tennessee Valley authority yesterday left out funds to complete the Gilbertsville dam, to start dam at Watts Bar, and for preliminary study of sites at Coulter Shoals.

PRESIDENT HAILS BOY SCOUTS AS NATIONAL ASSET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Speaking in commemoration of the twenty-ninth anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America, President Roosevelt tonight declared that all connected with the movement could look back with pride and forward with hope and courage for the work of building the nation's youth.

Mr. Roosevelt departed from his usual salutation of "My Friends," and began his radio address with "Fellow Scouts." He is honorary president of the organization.

"To all who have had a part in bringing the Scouts to their present splendid standing, I offer hearty congratulations," said the President. "These boys, so full of promise for the future, are a national asset and therefore should be regarded as a national trust.

"In building up solid character, we are insuring the future strength and stability of the nation. Sooner than many of us realize, the Boy Scouts of today will be full fledged citizens to discharge for better or worse the civic duties upon which the happiness of the nation will rest."

5 Planes Drop Food to 100 Men Adrift on Ice Floe

MOSCOW, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Five airplanes were used today in attempts to rescue 100 fishermen adrift on an ice floe in the Caspian sea. The planes directed the work of rescue boats and dropped food to the fishermen, who had camped on ice off shore and were stranded when it broke loose and drifted to sea.

HOUSE REDUCES FUNDS FOR TVA; CUTS DAM WORK

Votes Nearly Two Billion for 40 Agencies.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—After voting to curtail the Tennessee Valley authority's dam construction program, the house passed an appropriation bill today carrying $1,883,809,709 to operate 40 independent governmental agencies in the year starting July 1.

The slap at TVA came when an amendment was adopted reducing the authority's appropriation from $39,000,000 to $21,797,000. It would have the effect of stopping work on a dam at Gilbertsville, Ky., abandoning a proposed dam project at Watts bar on the Tennessee river and halting investigation of dam sites near Coulter Shoals in Tennessee. The amendment was approved by a teller vote of 159 to 122.

Appropriations for the TVA and the national labor relations board were the only points of real controversy in the measure.

Labor Board Under Fire.

After bitter discussion of the labor board, only five members supported an amendment to strike out the board's appropriation of $3,039,600, while 186 favored keeping the fund intact.

As it went to the senate, the bill was $16,283,670 below the amount recommended by the budget bureau but carried $284,758,555 more than was appropriated for expenses of the independent offices in the current fiscal year.

It included these major appropriations: Veterans' administration, $561,093,000; social security board, $350,000,000; civilian conservation corps, $295,000,000; railroad retirement board, $123,404,000, and civil service commission, $91,404,000.

Pin Hopes on Senate.

TVA supporters, unable to make a last minute attempt to restore the reduction in funds because of parliamentary complications, said they were counting on the senate to bring the total back to at least $39,000,000.

The house voted last year against including money in the independent offices bill for starting construction of Gilbertsville dam. The senate inserted it and finally won out after the measure had been held up for weeks.

SECRETARY OF LABOR DEFENDS HER RECORD AT SECRET MEETING

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins appeared at a secret session of the house judiciary committee today and defended herself against charges in a resolution demanding her impeachment.

In a 3,000 word statement she read to the committee, the secretary denied she had failed to enforce the deportation laws and asserted her record shows she is as patriotic an American as any one else.

Committee members then took turns questioning her on the labor department's procedure in prosecuting a deportation action against Harry Bridges, alien radical and C. I. O. west coast maritime leader.

WORLD WAR HERO MAY GET MANTON JOB AS U. S. JUDGE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Judge Robert Porter Patterson of Garrison, N. Y., who won a hero's rating in the world war, was said tonight to be a likely choice for the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to succeed Martin Manton, who resigned under fire of graft charges.

A high official said it would be a "good guess" to predict the appointment of Patterson, who at present is federal district judge for the southern New York district. He was appointed by President Hoover.

Patterson, who is 47 years old, won high scholastic rating in his undergraduate days at Union college, Schenectady, N. Y., and later was graduated from the Harvard law school. He was awarded the distinguished service cross for extraordinary heroism in action during the world war. He entered the war as captain and was promoted to major.

AMLIE ADMITS HIS RADICALISM, DENIES HE'S RED

Indorses Objectives of Communist Party.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Thomas R. Amlie, President Roosevelt's nominee for the interstate commerce commission, admitted today that he advocates a doctrin of collectivism differing from communism only in the means by which the change in the economic system is to be accomplished.

Senator W. A. Austin questions Amlie on radical views.

Amlie, a lame duck Wisconsin Progressive, testified at length before a senate interstate commerce subcommittee considering his qualifications for a place on the commission.

Amlie acknowledged authorship of handbooks and magazine article, previously introduced, in which he took the position that capitalism is doomed, that it is not worth saving, and that a "production for use instead of for profit" program must take its place.

Predicts Unconstitutional Route.

In October, 1933, writing in the magazine Common Sense, Amlie predicted that a change will be accomplished by other than constitutional means.

"How does production for use instead of for profit differ from the ultimate objectives of communism?" asked Senator Warren R. Austin [R., Vt.].

"The difference would be in the means of obtaining it," Amlie replied.

When Senator Austin said he was inquiring about objectives, not means, Amlie replied that it was difficult to get away from the means used.

"Ultimately, pure communism would constitute that ideal situation described in the expression, 'from every one according to his means, to every one according to his needs,'" he said.

Confesses He's a Collectivist.

"Would it be a fair statement," asked Senator Austin, "to say that your doctrin leads to collectivism and that the doctrin of the communists leads to collectivism?"

"I think that's true," Amlie said. "The only question is how rapidly and how completely it would lead. I think Fascism, too, leads to collectivism."

Amlie said he made some statements in 1933 and again in 1935 and 1936 that he would not make today because of his belief that the capitalist system had attained a greater stability—temporarily. But he did not repudiate anything expressed in his writings and speeches.

"I made some pessimistic statements about the fate of capitalism," he said. "I think the developments in Europe are bearing that out. I don't suppose the developments in Europe are more than 5 or 6 years—10 at the most—ahead of us."

Learns from New Dealers.

Amlie explained that he originally advocated a constitutional amendment to give congress power to take over the productive machinery of the nation, but now feels that the problem of stepping up production to the maximum capacity can be attained by legislative action. This he proposed in his "industrial expansion" bill introduced in the house in 1937. It would have set up a great corporation with dictatorial powers over all forms of production.

Amlie said he has learned a lesson in practical politics from the Roosevelt administration. He said he wanted the Democrats to face the constitutional amendment issue at their 1936 convention, so he introduced his amendment to "put them on the spot."

"But I learned something about politics," he said. "I confess it was sound politics to say nothing about the issue until after the election, and then to act. President Roosevelt's Supreme court program was a better approach to the problem. Its effect on decisions of the Supreme court was one of the greatest achievements of this administration."

Often Called "Comrade."

The witness admitted addressing the so-called second congress of the American League Against War and Fascism in Chicago in 1934 and said the meeting was "controled by communists." W. E. Donley of Menomonie, Wis., a former Democratic member of the state legislature, had testified from a report by an anonymous informant that Amlie was introduced as "Comrade Amlie."

"I don't recall whether I was introduced as 'comrade,' but I may have been," Amlie said. "I have spoken before many groups where, if my views were at all sympathetic, I was called 'comrade.' That's quite a common expression in this country—in veterans' organizations and lodges."

Amlie said the meeting, held in the Ashland auditorium on South Ashland avenue, Sept. 25, 1934, was open to the public and the press, but that not a word about it was printed in Chicago newspapers.

The witness frankly admitted having served on the national committee of the Friends of the Soviet Union, a communist organization.

Settles Suit

BEATRICE PEARLMAN.

A settlement of $500 yesterday brought an end to the $10,000 personal injury suit brought by Beatrice Pearlman, 20 years old, 1507 South Avers avenue, against Herman Lee, 24 years old, an accountant living in Aurora. In her bill Miss Pearlman charged that a number of her front teeth were knocked out when Lee's automobile, in which she was a passenger, struck an elevated railroad pillar in Wabash avenue near Adams street on March 6, 1938. The settlement was made before Judge Robert A. Meier of Chicago Heights, sitting in Superior court. Miss Pearlman and Lee walked from the courtroom arm in arm.

SAN FRANCISCO WILL OPEN FAIR WITH A HOLIDAY

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—It's only ten days until they haul down that No Visitors sign from Treasure Island and signal for the Golden Gate exposition to begin. And that opening day, Feb. 18, was proclaimed a public holiday today by Gov. Culbert L. Olson.

The official program for San Francisco's four days and nights of city wide celebration during the world's fair premiere festival was announced today by Mayor Angelo J. Rossi's citizens' committee in charge of the celebration.

Illinois today took over its exhibit on Treasure Island. The Illinois building was accepted by the Illinois exposition committee, headed by Robert Bishop, administrative assistant to Gov. Henry Horner. Illinois and Missouri are the only states, outside of the Far Western group, represented at the exposition.

NEW RADIANT ROAST MAXWELL HOUSE

WILSON'S Weekly MEMO by GEORGE RECTOR

I am not much of a soldier, but I do like to find myself at the head of a column—when it is this kind of a column. I am going to be with you every week, and I am going to tell you not how to cook since undoubtedly you know how already, but how you can put added zest into your cooking and give it those subtle, secret touches that have made the name of Rector's famous in foods for over fifty years.

Are you ready? Then—forward march!

George Rector
Director of Home Economics, Wilson & Co.

My familiarity with Wilson's Tender Made Ham has been more than just a bowing acquaintance. I have used and recommended it whenever ham of exceptionally fine flavor and texture would be appreciated.

It is so utterly simple to prepare, in fact, ready to eat as you buy it. Take a Tender Made Ham Steak, for example—there's a dish for you! All you need is a steak cut from the center 1 to 1½ inch thick, rubbed with a little butter (Wilson's Clear Brook has the best flavor, I find). Also butter the pan. Place in a hot oven (400°) for 7 minutes. Sprinkle brown sugar on both sides and heat for another 7 minutes. So delicious, so mouth-watering a ham steak as this deserves the very best sauce accompaniment that I can give to you, and this is it:

RECTOR'S RAISIN SAUCE
for Ham

½ cup raisins; 1 cup water; 4 or 5 cloves; ¾ cup brown sugar; 1 teaspoon cornstarch; ¼ teaspoon salt; Few grains pepper; 1 tablespoon Clear Brook Butter; 1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice; ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Cover raisins with water, add cloves and simmer for 10 minutes. Add sugar, cornstarch, salt and pepper, mixed together. Stir until slightly thickened and add remaining ingredients.

TO BONE.. OR NOT TO BONE?

The great uncertainty that beset Hamlet does not concern the makers of Tender Made Ham. They offer you the same incomparable ham boned or bone-in and leave the choice up to you. Personally, I should select the Tender Made Ham boneless in tins where I want large, whole slices for cold platters, sandwiches, or if I had a small refrigerator where every inch of space counted. It is sealed in tins, in its own juices, with no waste, no bone and every ounce edible.

Then I would choose Tender Made bone-in ham for baking, or thick steaks for broiling, to cut at for snacks or for many delightful entrees.

Really, there is little to choose between them—it comes down to a matter of personal preference.

Mme. Poulard, the famous, the incomparable, the one-and-only maker of omelets, how she would weep were she to behold this omelet of incredible perfection and fluffiness, a full half-inch higher than any of her loftiest omelet achievements. And made by a jeune fille, too. But the secret is so simple: it is made with Wilson's Clear Brook Eggs, the best, the freshest and the most reliable eggs money can buy. 'Most any old egg will fry, but it takes a perfect egg to make an omelet like this.

LEGISLATORS ACT TO CORRECT EVILS AT ST. CHARLES

Bipartisan Investigation of School Asked.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Investigation of the St. Charles School for Boys, object of recent criticism, was asked today by a joint resolution presented to both houses of the legislature under bipartisan sponsorship.

Maud N. Peffers, Sponsors house move for quiz.

In the senate Thomas P. Gunning [R., Princeton], Wilber H. Hickman [D., Paris], and Arnold P. Benson [R., Batavia] joined in asking that a committee of five senators and five representatives undertake the inquiry.

House sponsors are the three members from the district in which the semi-penal institution is located—John C. Friedland [R., Aurora], Mrs. Maud N. Peffers [R., Aurora] and Leon M. Schuler [D., Aurora].

Senator Gunning, originator of the resolution, said that A. L. Bowen, director of public welfare, approved appointment of the committee.

"This committee would try to be helpful; it would not be the purpose to impugn the state administration," Mr. Gunning told the senate. "Recent criticism of St. Charles suggests the possibility of creating a walled institution there for boys having criminal tendencies. That may be the solution."

The resolution directs the committee to determine whether the present method of grouping the inmates is satisfactory, or whether different types of boys should be segregated and corrective measures adopted for each type.

CRAB ORCHARD FIGHT PUT UP TO ILLINOIS SENATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Without a dissenting vote, the Crisenberry resolution criticizing the Crab Orchard lake federal project in southern Illinois, was moved to the floor of the senate today for discussion on Tuesday.

Senator R. G. Crisenberry.

Senator R. G. Crisenberry [R., Murphysboro] did not seek to place the committee on record either for or against the project, which would seize hundreds of farms and remove more than $3,000,000 worth of property from the tax books of Jefferson and Williamson counties.

The resolution was sent to the floor without recommendations. When it is considered at a public hearing on Tuesday, delegations for or against the project will be heard.

The resolution asks that Attorney General Cassidy fight the condemnations being pushed for the project.

The Democrats have a majority in the senate. Should they defeat the resolution as a partisan issue, a move for adoption of a similar resolution in the house will be made by Representatives I. A. Palmer [R., West Frankfort] and M. F. Browner [R., Mound City].

OPEN TESTIMONY IN PARKING FIGHT SLAYING TODAY

Testimony in the trial of Rubin Jersky, charged with slaying a neighbor in a fight over the parking of an automobile on the neighbor's lawn, will begin today. The jury was completed and opening statements made yesterday before Judge William J. Lindsay in Criminal court.

Mrs. Warden and son in court yesterday.

The victim, Donald Warden, 27 years old, a railroad electrician, was shot to death last Nov. 3 on the porch of his home at 1143 South Central Park avenue. He had been quarrelling with three men who had parked their car with one wheel on his lawn. Witnesses told police the men chased Warden up the steps and that one of them shot him.

Jersky, who is 25, surrendered two weeks later. His attorneys, Charles Bellows and James M. Burke, said he killed Warden in self defense. Prosecutor Robert Donigan told the jury is was cold blooded murder. The jurors are qualified for the death penalty. Mrs. Warden and her son, Donald Jr., 8, were in court yesterday.

10 Jap Miners Killed by Snowslide; 100 Trapped

TOKIO, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A Domei [Japanese news agency] dispatch from Otsu today reported that a snowslide had killed at least ten miners there and trapped 100. Six buildings were said to have been destroyed.

REPORT ALL KANE COUNTY BOOKIES CLOSED IN DRIVE

All handbooks in Kane county were reported closed yesterday a few hours after State's Attorney Charles O'Connor launched a drive against all forms of gambling. There likewise were no slot machines in evidence.

O'Connor issued the cleanup order to Sherif Marcus Damisch and police officials of Aurora, Elgin, St. Charles, and other communities. The prosecutor said if gambling continued, he would proceed directly against the owners of property used for gambling, and against the police themselves.

Chief Deputy Sherif Cecil Riley said later that the county was closed tight. City Marshal Joseph G. Huber of Elgin said handbooks in that city had been closed.

Fifty slot machines, seized in raids on Cook county taverns and filling stations, were broken up yesterday in the basement of the county building.

SPANKS BOY OF 5 AND TELLS WHY; FACES CHARGE

Attorney Frederick E. Diehl, of 1617 Ridge avenue, Evanston, was annoyed about the whole thing yesterday when policemen arrested him on a disorderly conduct warant. Diehl posted a $25 bond for a hearing Tuesday in the Evanston Municipal court.

Mrs. Thomas Hayes, a neighbor at 1611, said the attorney spanked her son, Thomas Jr., 5 years old. Mr. Diehl said you bet he did.

Last Monday, while playing in the snow with his son, Frederick, 2½, Diehl said Thomas and another boy, Edgar Bergquist, 8, of 1625 Ridge avenue, pelted him with snowballs. Fearing they might strike his baby, Diehl said he warned them to stop. When they didn't he chased them, caught Thomas, and spanked the boy. Thomas told his mother.

Mr. Hayes said Diehl had been tossing snowballs with the boys.

HOUSE DELAYS G.O.P. QUIZ FOR ILLINOIS WASTE

Republicans Rally Votes for Test Tuesday.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—In a turbulent session of the house today the new Republican majority fought to investigate the entire state government in order to cut tax spending.

Speaker Hugh Cross aids quiz on state spending.

There was an uproar when a resolution calling for the investigation was read. At least twenty hands shot up on the Democratic side as minority members demanded the floor to protest. Broadsides were fired by a dozen members of each party in the verbal battle that followed.

Lacking the seventy-seven votes needed to push the resolution through immediately, Republicans referred it to the executive committee, and half an hour later had it back before the house with a recommendation that it be adopted. Here the resolution became snarled in parliamentary rules and consideration had to be put over until Tuesday.

Rally G. O. P. for Showdown.

Telegrams will be sent over the week-end to the seventy-nine Republican house members. Each message will state that the member's presence to act favorably on the resolution is to be regarded as a test of his Republicanism. Signers will be Speaker Hugh W. Cross of Jerseyville and Floor Leader R. J. Branson of Centralia.

Republican leaders made it plain that they will not agree to formation of a joint senate house committee because Democrats dominate the senate. The leaders are said to feel that only a straight Republican investigation would produce practical results.

"We propose to cut state expenses 10 or 20 per cent; in any case to cut down materially," Branson warned the house.

He was referring to the proposed state budget of $244,453,031 for general purposes for the two years beginning July 1. This is about $4,770,000 more than the last budget and about $1,280,000 more than actual appropriations for the current two years. The state budget total is a record.

Four-Part Inquiry Asked.

The Republican resolution asks:

1. Study all state income and expenditures.

2. Investigate the use of state money by all departments, agencies, commissions, or other branches of state government for the last four years.

3. Investigate pay rolls and the nature and character of service rendered by all state employés in the four years.

4. Investigate the use by all departments and agencies of their state powers for political purposes.

Power to subpena witnesses and compel them to produce records would be vested in a committee of seven appointed by Speaker Cross.

The resolution stated that charges have been made by Democrats themselves that state pay rolls have been padded.

Branson told the Democrats:

"If the charges are not true, you should welcome this investigation. If it is bitterly opposed, there must be something wrong."

Every Democrat present—55 of the 74 members—voted against the resolution on a roll call to suspend the rules for immediate consideration.

Charles Coughlin, 28 years old, was shot by police and captured yesterday in a tavern at 6958 Stony Island avenue shortly after a laundry truck driver was robbed. Coughlin, who said he lived at 7403 Dante avenue, was identified as the brother of William Coughlin, 17, who was shot and killed on June 2, 1935, in a grocery at 1143 East 63d street, when he allegedly tried to steal some whisky.

The truck driver, Robert Richardson, 1441 East 67th street, was robbed of $32 and his truck in front of 6814 Dorchester avenue yesterday. Later Policeman Emmett Murphy and Lloyd Casey saw the truck in front of the Stony Island avenue tavern.

Coughlin fled to the washroom when the policemen entered. The policemen said he came out with one hand in his pocket, and Casey fired, wounding him in the hip.

DENIES SCHOOLS PAY TOO MUCH FOR ELECTRICITY

Howard P. Savage, business manager for the board of education, denied last night that the school system has been overcharged $4,281,760 by the Commonwealth Edison company for electricity used since 1909. Charges to this effect were filed yesterday with the Illinois commerce commission by O. C. Taubeneck, executive secretary of the Chicago Principals' club, as attorney for Raymond F. Kraft of Evanston. Kraft received his master's degree at Northwestern university last year as a specialist in public school business administration.

Taubeneck contended the board contracted in 1909 to pay a flat 3½ cent per kilowatt hour rate for all school lighting, although the sanitary district offered to sell power at that time for 1½ to 2 cents. Savage said:

"Eighty per cent of the schools pay the 3½ cent rate, but without the contract they would pay a higher schedule. They are the smaller schools. The other 20 per cent all pay less than that. Whenever a school uses enough power to apply for a lower classification it gets the lower rate."

He said the sanitary district told school board officials many years ago that the district did not have enough power to supply the schools or a distributing system to get the power to the buildings.

BILLS CLEAR UP PROPERTY TITLE FOR TAX SALES

Offered as Way to End Delinquency Jam.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Legislative action was proposed today to break the tax delinquency jam which burdens local governments and property owners who pay their taxes. Bills to provide a clear title to purchasers of tax delinquent property were introduced in the senate.

County collectors now have legal right, theoretically, to take tax delinquent property and sell it. Decisions of the courts, however, have held that the purchaser receives a cloud on the title, which has little more than a nuisance value as far as the original owner is concerned, except in rare cases of adverse possession.

Sale After Two Years Urged.

Bills introduced by Senator Charles W. Baker of Davis Junction would amend ten sections of the tax assessment and collection acts and give a county collector a clear title to sell two years after they have taken over a property for delinquency.

The owner would have the right to bid for the property, but the county collector could acquire it if the bid were less than the total of forfeited or delinquent taxes.

Cook County Wants Action.

Senator Baker, a Republican, said: "Cook county officials are eager to get means to help themselves out of the predicament that has swamped local governments because of the piling up of tax delinquencies.

"In my own district, tax delinquent properties would comprise an area larger than Rockford itself. It costs $3,800 a year to make out the tax extensions, but the government has no chance to collect anything."

When the only consequence of failing to pay taxes is a charge against the property, payable at no particular time, taxes are allowed to accumulate indefinitely, Baker added.

The bills were referred to the judiciary committee, of which Senator Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago] is chairman.

Sues Snoring Husband Who Resents Being Told About It

Oscar F. Naus, 43 years old, is a snorer. But he doesn't like to be reminded of it. On three occasions his wife, Adeline, 21, testified yesterday, he became angry and struck her when she awakened him and asked him to sleep so that his snoring would not annoy her. Once, she told Judge Oscar Nelson, he threatened to throw her out of the window. The judge awarded her $13 a week support money for her son, Clyde, 2 months old, pending the hearing of her divorce suit. Mrs. Naus lives at 1826 Des Plaines street.

FALLS DEAD IN RESTAURANT.

Edward Wollmann, 54 years old, 2366 Clybourn avenue, died yesterday of a heart attack in a restaurant at 1970 Diversey parkway.

LAKE FOREST HIGH SCHOOL IS CLOSED IN FLU OUTBREAK

Classes in the Lake Forest High school were adjourned and the school closed indefinitly yesterday when 29 new cases of influenza were reported among the student body. Several teachers and 110 of the 400 pupils are ill.

The Antioch Township High school, which was to have opened yesterday after a two day shutdown because of influenza, will remain closed until next Monday. Eight of fifteen teachers and fifty of the 250 pupils have influenza. At the Waukegan Township High school, 525 of the 2,600 pupils were reported ill.

In Chicago, Dr. Robert A. Black, president of the board of health, said nineteen cases of influenza were reported yesterday, bringing the total thus far in February to thirty-nine. The Chicago state hospital at Dunning was closed to the public to safeguard the patients from possible infection from visitors.

DIES OF HEART AILMENT.

A man tentatively identified as Oscar Barnes, 50 years old, 537 South Clark street, died yesterday of a heart ailment in a restaurant at 28 East Roosevelt road.

THREAT SUSPECT IS HELD WITHOUT BAIL FOR TRIAL

Russell O. Davis, 28 years old, was reported named yesterday by the grand jury in true bills charging robbery and extortion by threat. Following the action of Judge Matthew D. Hartigan of the Felony court, the jury refused to set any bail on the second charge and set bond at $30,000 on the robbery count.

Earlier in the day in the Felony court, Judge Hartigan termed the extortion "a crime worse than kidnaping." He said that for this reason he would not set any bail.

Davis was trapped by police a week ago when he collected a dummy money package. Police said Davis confessed he tried to extort $2,134 from Mrs. Ruth Nilsson, 5900 Sheridan road, after threatening to throw acid on her and her two children.

FIRE DESTROYS FARM HOME.

Rochester, Ind., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—The farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Baltes, northwest of the city, was destroyed by fire last night causing a loss of $5,000. Origin of blaze is unknown. Baltes is employed in Indiana Harbor and Mrs. Baltes and six children were visiting a neighbor when the fire was discovered.

IT'S A HIT! The NEW Firestone CHAMPION TIRE

Because IT'S THE ONLY TIRE MADE WITH THE NEW SAFETY-LOCK CORD BODY and GEAR-GRIP TREAD

CAR OWNERS everywhere are acclaiming the extra blowout protection and non-skid safety of the new Firestone Champion Tire. And automobile manufacturers, knowing its outstanding performance, have adopted it for their new 1939 models. On every hand you hear, "It's the most effective tire we have ever had on wet pavement and in mud and snow!" It's the hit of 1939!

The Firestone Champion Tire is a completely new achievement in safety engineering and the result of a new and revolutionary means of locking greater safety into the cord body of a tire. This is accomplished first, by the use of a new type of tire cord called "Safety-Lock," in which the cotton fibers are more compactly interwoven to give greater strength. And then the fibers in each individual cord, the cords in each ply and the plies themselves are all securely locked together by a new and advanced Firestone process of Gum-Dipping, which provides amazingly greater strength—and greater strength means greater safety.

The new Safety-Lock cord construction gives the added strength that makes possible the use of the new thicker, tougher, deeper Firestone Gear-Grip Tread, which provides remarkably longer non-skid mileage. This sensational new tread is called "Gear-Grip" because of its unique design which has more than three thousand sharp-edged angles that grip the road with a sure-footed hold to protect against skidding and to assure a safe stop.

Come in today and equip your car with a set of new Firestone Champion Tires, the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

AB JENKINS
World's Safest Driver
Ab Jenkins, holder of 87 world records for safety, speed and endurance, who has driven more than a million and a half miles on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires without an accident, says, "On the speedway or on the highway, I insist upon the extra safety of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires on my cars."

DEMOCRATIC SUICIDE.

There are a lot of people in this country, especially along the Atlantic seaboard, who believe that America should give the fullest support to England and France against Germany and Italy. The argument of these people is quickly stated. If England and France are defeated in war Fascism will dominate the entire world. Democracy will be dead in Europe and its survival in America will be rendered impossible. Therefore we should give England and France our moral and economic support now and pledge them military support if war comes.

The aim of the people who talk this way is to preserve liberty in America. It is an aim which all but the fewest Americans will accept. The question to be decided, then, is not whether we wish to preserve liberty but whether liberty can be preserved by an Anglo-French-American alliance and in no other way.

Twenty years ago we tried to save the world for democracy and, though we won the war, there is less democracy in the world today than at any time in the last century. Evidently victory in such a war is not enough. Those who propose a world war as a means of preserving liberty are proposing an absurdity. A nation engaged in such a war is a nation without liberty; and a nation which has readjusted its economy for war is a nation which must expect to undergo a long period of economic and political regimentation after hostilities cease. Where there is regimentation there is no liberty because to make the economic controls work the freedom of the people to express and pursue their own ideas must be destroyed.

We entered the last war with a negligible national debt. Today our debt is 40 billions and a new war would strain the nation's credit to the breaking point. Today we find ourselves still in a war created depression which began ten years ago, the longest and the most severe depression this country has ever experienced. Meanwhile, too, millions of citizens have grown accustomed to receiving their support from the government. Our nation in this and other respects is well started toward totalitarianism. Agriculture, coal mining, transportation, banking, communications, and labor are already being regimented. Liberty is on the defensive in this country as the consequence of one world war; if another comes, with all the concentration of autocratic power in Washington that war implies, abetted by the lust for power of the present administration, the probability is overwhelming that there would be nothing left of liberty in America whether we win or lose.

There is a fair chance to preserve democracy in America even should the Fascists win 3,000 miles away in Europe and 6,000 miles away in Asia. Against this chance must be reckoned the high probability that a world war would destroy liberty in every country which participated in it, including America.

WHERE IS PUTZI, BY THE WAY?

A Harvard law school graduate who received an invitation from the Harvard committee to aid German student refugees has replied to the committee chairman that he has sympathy for any victims of persecution, but that the college opportunities of America should be placed first at the disposal of thousands of brilliant and ambitious American youth who are unable to obtain a liberal education.

The Harvard movement to obtain scholarship funds which will enable twenty German refugees to continue their studies at Cambridge was the idea of the undergraduates, it appears. They made the suggestion to the university authorities and presented a plan to give Germans of all races and creeds the liberal education at Harvard which they were denied in their own country. Harvard has a generous system of scholarships and the Harvard alumni through their organizations annually raise money to send boys to the university. It must be recognized that the needs of American youth are not ignored at the school, but the reply of the law school graduate still remains pertinent.

The undergraduates to whom the idea of German refugees occurred undoubtedly wished to pin a decoration upon the idealism and the embracing generosity of a democratic institution. There are, unfortunately, certain sentimentalities apparently unavoidable in seaboard institutions which at times look across the water when possibly it might be more intelligent to turn a face to the hinterland. America lies west of the seaboard and not to the east. The country obviously has not exhausted all the good of liberal education fitting for American citizenship and for the preservation of a very valuable democracy at home. It has not absorbed all the benefits theoretically offered by its institutions of higher learning or, in our fond imagination, derived from four years under American instruction.

If the schools are offering training for life in America for the intelligent, thoughtful life the republic needs and relies upon, then the greater number of American youth inculcated with a fine understanding of their heritage the safer it will be for the institutions we cherish and also for people everywhere. The good that Harvard might do by preferring twenty German refugees to twenty young Americans who also may be without a liberal education is not quite definite.

It does not become more obvious or clear in outline when the case of Putzi Hanfstaengel is recalled. Putzi was a well known product of Harvard influence upon the German mind. With all the graces and fine democratic idealism of a great liberal university bestowed upon him he returned to Germany, listened to the hypnotic voice of Adolf Hitler, and fell like a ton of brick. He even became David to Hitler's Saul—an Aryan David and a Nordic Saul—and when the neurotic fuehrer was exhausted by his trances Putzi, a fine piano player, wooed him back to rest and placid thoughts by playing the piano for hours at a time.

Later Putzi did something the easily infuriated Adolf disliked and the Harvard graduate was fortunate to escape with a toothbrush and an extra shirt. It's too bad the separation occurred, because Herr Hitler seems to need the piano more and more every day.

THE CRAB ORCHARD OUTRAGE.

The legislature at Springfield has taken notice of the Crab Orchard outrage and is seeking a means to prevent it. The crazy scheme to flood thousands of acres in southern Illinois and thereby make a lake that nobody wants or needs should be abandoned before any more damage has been done, and before any more money has been wasted.

According to the federal government's own figures 300 families are being dispossessed; local estimates run much higher. The government has acquired some of this land by purchase under threat of condemnation and the rest of it is being taken over by condemnation. Many of the farmers don't want to move. Many of them are living on land which they have improved by a lifetime of labor, land which in some cases has been in their families for generations.

But in the eyes of the burocracy these people are kulaks and must be treated accordingly. If the kulaks don't like to be liquidated that's just too bad. They can count themselves lucky to get nothing worse than the bum's rush. The government asserts the power to order them off their land and they have to like it.

The Crab Orchard lake is supposed to prevent erosion, and thus conserve the fertility of the soil. In fact, it drowns the only really fertile acres in the region. The lake was supposed to promote forest growth, but twenty years will be required to replace the trees which are being cut down on the site.

Unless the graft which is generally found in such enterprises can be regarded as a purpose, the deliberate flooding of farms, homesteads, and highways has no other end than to permit the politicians to exercise tyrannical power for tyrannical purposes. The project involves a senseless waste of natural resources and a cruel disregard for the rights and sentiments of those who are being dispossessed. If there is any conscience in Washington the silly scheme will be abandoned before any more damage is done, before any more farmers have been dispossessed, and before any more money has been wasted. In any event it is the duty of the legislature to safeguard Illinois citizens and Illinois property from the destroyers.

ZONING THE AIRPORT.

The city council in passing the zoning ordinance, sponsored by Ald. Egan of the 13th ward, for the protection of the municipal airport has taken a necessary step in the very slow development of that public work. The ordinance is probably the best that could have been obtained in all the circumstances and was essential to the safety not only of trafic using the terminal, but to tenants of neighboring property and the public using the district. Shortsighted objections of some property owners whose private interests are in reality bound up with the best possible development of a great terminal will have to give way and will in the end be shown fallacious.

The council and the city are to be congratulated for this action. We hope it will be followed by the promptest possible removal of the railway tracks from the enlarged area. The development of this terminal has been deplorably slow and is still proceeding at a rate far from creditable to the reputation of Chicago or conducive to its interests as a center of air transportation.

CULTURE CENTER—WHERE TO?

[New York News.]

"Where," asked President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university in a recent address to an organization called the Pilgrims of the United States, "is to be the next capital of the western world?"

Dr. Butler hastened to explain that he did not mean the political capital, but the cultural capital. The answer he offered was: New York.

Our guess is that when the western world's cultural center makes the move predicted by Dr. Butler it will move well west of the Atlantic seaboard.

The logical place for it to go, we should think, would be Chicago.

Chicago is on a freshwater lake to begin with. If Chicago were attacked its soldiers could drink Lake Michigan, while its noncombatants could quit it in a hurry. It has dry land approaches everywhere except along the lake front.

Chicago is smaller than New York [although we see no reason why in time it shouldn't be bigger], and therefore its culture exists in lesser quantity, though not in lesser quality. For instance, the standards of the University of Chicago equal those of Columbia. The same may be said of the respective medical schools.

At any rate, H. L. Mencken once set the Atlantic seaboard intelligentsia's teeth on edge by announcing that Chicago was the only city in the United States where art was taken seriously and treated with proper respect.

We think that Chicago's chances are good, when and if the western world has to pull in its farflung horns and get set for a cultural and perhaps military and naval showdown with the orient. Back of the mountains — the Alleghenies on the east and the Rockies and Sierras on the west—Chicago's strategic position would be as good as could be found in the United States.

Indeed, it's just possible that future generations may see Chicago take over the cultural and political functions now performed by New York AND Washington, D. C.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office.

A SMALL CLUB BUT OUR OWN.

The other night when a few strays were dining casually on the Quarterdeck [that's the new name for our hideaway], the talk veered around to the coteries, cliques, groups, and gatherings of choice spirits who get together once in a while at the luncheon or dinner hour, calling themselves by some odd name or other. Chicago is full of these side line clubs, each of which deserves a Boswell to perpetuate its traditions. For example, the Skeeters and the Wayfarers.

And so, before mortality sweeps its last survivors away, let us tell of the Heliogabalus club, a small band of epicureans which developed, in a counterrevolutionary way, in the Puritan atmosphere of the Cliff Dwellers. The war years and the immediate post-war period formed the golden age for this esoteric gang, which met occasionally to eat, drink, and be merry.

I. K. Pond, the veteran architect, recently published a book in which he alludes satirically to the Heliogabali. He quotes Bertie the Lamb, a character in an old comedy, to the point, thus:

"And every fellah thinks that he—as well as the other fellah—is a devil of a fellah—but he isn't."

Here are names and identifications for the most faithful among the Heliogabali:

Bert Leston Taylor, founder of the Line o' Type column; Thomas E. Tallmadge, architect; Guy Hardy, theater manager; Allan Philbrick, artist; A. N. Rebori, architect; William Morton Payne, man of letters and educator; Dr. J. Wendell Clark, eye, ear, nose, and throat; Dr. Emilius C. Dudley, gynecologist; Henri C. E. David, university professor and Line poet; Karleton Hackett, music critic and teacher; James Howard Kehler, advertising man; Karl Edwin Harriman, magazine editor; W. N. C. Carlton, librarian, and ourself, who named the club, years before Mencken and Nathan published a play of the same title.

We hunted up restaurants of foreign atmosphere in out-of-the-way neighborhoods. Any member who found a new joint where the cooking was strange and good was privileged to call a meeting. We planned to send an emissary into the southern canebrakes to shoot a wild turkey for us, but this idea never came off. On occasions of state, such as the slaughtering of Jim Kehler's prize winning goose named Bismarck, or Tom Tallmadge's return from Utah with a shipment of wild ducks, we dined at the Cliff Dwellers.

It was all quite unimportant, and we made no history at all. But the few Heliogabali who survive remember those nights as among our happiest.

ON LINCOLN'S PORTRAITS.

The furrows of the years that graved their trace
So cruelly plain upon his countenance
Grant all his heavy griefs their austere place
And yet reveal our greater heritance.
Would not our reverence be lifeless, cold,
Were we not told how oftentimes his mirth
That turned care's leaden frame to happy gold
Made those who saw him smile the blest of earth?
These faithless prints that hide the better part
Yet tell us much to somehow reconcile
Our loss; despite his somber guise his heart
Still reaches ours; we may not see his smile
But know it lived, his portraits still attest
The lines of laughter deeper than the rest.

Fable of the Four Good Soldiers.

A certain general had four trusty soldiers, Private Opinion, Private Property, Private Initiative, and Private Schools. In a frenzy, the general suddenly decided to do away with the soldiers. Private Opinion was gassed by propaganda. Private Property was placed in shackles of high taxes. Private Initiative was killed by unjust competition, and Private Schools starved to death because he depended upon the other three.

Then the general strutted about in great satisfaction, for elimination of the soldiers had made him the whole "works." His pleasure was short lived, however, for the private soldiers whom he had held in contempt could not respond when he called upon them to repel an invasion. Thus the general perished.

FEBRUARY'S IMMORTALS.

Honest Abe, George and Cupid
Were arguing to see
Which of them in history
Figured most importantly.

"Just two words I'll say," smugged George,
"And those two words are Valley Forge."

"Indeed," cried Abe, "I'll demonstrate With just one word—Emancipate!"

Cupid arched his bow proficiently
And took his stance on bended knee,
"Without my work," quoth he with dignity,
"There would have been no history."

We've Got Something Here.

Inform your correspondent who wants the low down on the expression, "to lay an egg," that the origin is sure enough theatrical, but more specifically box office. When a new production turns out to be a flop, an egg is the exact shape of the profits. Take it from that old trooper, A Square.

Are you spoofing us [2-4-'39]? The goose egg has been a symbol for zero for a great many years. One who produces nothing has achieved [or acquired] a goose egg. There is but one easy step from there—he has "laid an egg." Bizzicuss.

HOW OLD ARE YOUR ARTERIES?

WHEN we admit that there is not a single living cell in the body that does not demand nourishment constantly we can understand the great responsibility that rests upon the blood stream. This system absorbs nutriment from the digestive tract and sends it to every remote section. In order to do this well there are two requirements—namely [1], the heart must be on its good behavior with its muscle strong enough to do the job, and [2] the arteries and capillaries [both large and small] must be sufficiently elastic to transport the fluid without interruption—without calling for extra effort on the part of the cardiac apparatus.

But the blood vessels can degenerate—arteries particularly. Because of added strain upon their walls, some may lose a certain amount of flexibility and become brittle. Episodes of this sort are frequently associated with old age and are regarded by many as changes indicative of senility. But even children and young people are not exempt as disease [infections] may bring about the same type of weakness.

What happens? The coats thicken and along with this increasing density may come irregularities of contour. Later these tubes may take on the character of hard pipestems or feel as though they were dotted with overgrowths here and there. This new fibrous material is not resilient—capable of stretching—as was the original structure and hence the heart is obliged to pump blood through rigid conduits.

Perhaps we should not complain when this disease begins about the age of 65 or 70 but we have a real grievance should it start at 35 or 40. Once begun the condition is more or less progressive, particularly if it gets an early start.

More mineral matter deposited constantly in the channels further enfeebles them. In addition—because of their "hardness" as well as the decrease in diameter—the power plant [heart] faces an uphill chore. It is often obliged to raise the pressure in order to supply—let us say, the liver or kidneys, with as much vital fluid as they require. Need we wonder, then, why the renal organs fail to perform as we would wish when they are unable to obtain enough nutriment? Kidney disease—not firm vessels—then becomes the dominant health problem!

What habits will prevent this process? Chief among our shortcomings is overeating and other errors in diet. Excessive amounts of tobacco, tea, coffee, spices, and meats should be avoided. The menu for the active man or woman, balanced as to vitamins and minerals, most conducive to good general health, is that which does not contain more than the body can utilize or burn with ease.

We can practice moderation both in the pleasures and the tasks of life and still have a grand time. We should not be surprised, however, when a blood duct in the heart [a coronary]—for example, becomes so narrowed that some day circulation within that particular tube will be cut off. We call it an "accident" just because the manifestation is sudden and terribly painful. But for most victims the trouble began long years before—20, 30, or perhaps 40.

There are numerous minor symptoms which we can recognize as hints that a little less wear and tear upon the blood distributing machinery is in order. If fatigue comes on more quickly than it should, if there is a dull headache for an hour or two each day, if there is ringing in the ears or some dizziness now and then, if numbness or tingling is felt over and over again, and if sleeplessness becomes a real problem—we may regard such symptoms as warning signs. While there may be other explanations [and many have no connection with a failing heart], nevertheless we may make certain that good red blood is traveling where it is wanted. A modification of diet, abbreviating somewhat the hours of labor, more short vacations, and an hour or two added to the sleep period may be highly desirable.

FAULTY CIRCULATION.

Mrs. B. writes: What causes the skin on one part of the body to be colder than the rest? For instance, my right hand is always considerably cooler than the left.

REPLY.

The chief factor in maintaining an even surface temperature is the circulation. Any interference with the flow of blood through a part is reflected by a lowered temperature. We would suggest an investigation to determine whether the disturbance is due to misbehavior on the part of the nervous system or to some factor which is retarding the blood stream.

EYES BLOODSHOT.

J. E. writes: My eyes are bloodshot and the lashes are sticky. I have been told I have pink eye, or trachoma. Please advise?

REPLY.

Pink-eye and trachoma are quite different conditions. You may have the former, which is a bacterial infection of the conjunctiva. You should visit your eye physician without delay.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—England also has an "Annapolis" where boys are trained to be officers of her great fighting ships, and, like Annapolis, it is often severely criticized. The British school is the Royal Naval college in Dartmouth, which has just finished its first year under a new organization intended to silence some of its critics.

But while Dartmouth is the nearest British equivalent of Annapolis, the differences between the two schools are more remarkable than the resemblances.

For one thing, the British navy takes only a little more than half its officers from its own training school, while practically every line officer in the American navy is an Annapolis man. Officers in the American "staf" branches—supply corps, medical corps and other branches in which they are never eligible to command ships—may come from civil life, but never the executive officers.

About 56 per cent of the British navy's commissions now go to Dartmouth graduates, a bare 3 per cent to men who have risen from the enlisted ranks, and the rest, except eighteen every year, to "special entry" cadets from England's big public schools. The eighteen annual exceptions are graduates of the three merchant marine training ships, Worcester, Conway and Pangbourne.

What worries the British about Dartmouth is that superior officers report its product is distinctly inferior to the officers turned out by public schools. Dartmouth boys are all good, competent officers, it is said, but they are never brilliant. They can handle routine work, but there are no Nelsons among them.

One reason for their tendency to be stereotyped is that they all start in too young to have any real idea about their future. They must enter the school between the ages of 13 and 5 months and 13 years 9 months. For the next three years and eight months they live under rigid discipline and all study pretty much the same things. They study only one foreign language—French—and have only one subject left to their own choice. Most of their time is taken up with technical studies and science.

Each boy must stay in the school for eleven terms, with three terms each year. Instead of entering a single class each year, the college takes a new class of from thirty to fifty cadets at the beginning of each of the three terms.

Even when they leave, the boys do not become midshipmen. Instead of going directly to commissioned rank, as Annapolis midshipmen do, they must serve eight months at sea in the training cruiser Frobisher and then serve three years as midshipmen before becoming sublieutenants. In spite of the early age of entry into the college, they get their commissions as sublieutenants about the same time that American officers take the equivalent rank of ensign.

Experienced officers say that, with all their training, the men soon are outstripped by public school boys who go directly to sea as special entry cadets when 17½ to 18½ years of age and keep pace with the Dartmouth boys from then on.

A Dartmouth cadet's day starts at 6:35 a. m., when he turns out for "early school" in his service uniform of white flannel trousers, blue "monkey jacket" and cap, with a white knife lanyard hung around his neck. Until 7:55 he studies, then has breakfast, followed by rifle drill, prayers and more studies from 9:10 until 1:05 with a twenty minute rest in the forenoon.

Afternoons are devoted principally to practical work and sports. As soon as they enter, cadets begin to learn elementary seamanship and signalling. They study knots and splices, signalling and small boat handling on the River Dart. All cadets must play soccer because of its popularity with enlisted men.

One of the chief objections to the school is its cost. It is not supported entirely by the government, like Annapolis. Boys are charged fees varying from $200 to $750 a year, except for twelve "king's" cadets, who are given free schooling.

In spite of the fees, however, the school costs the government more than $400,000 a year, or about $1,000 for each cadet. For 420 cadets it has a staf of 412, including naval officers, petty officers and enlisted men, civilian schoolmasters and servants.

Entry is on the basis of competitive examinations, held three times a year, but they are sometimes waived for distinguished foreigners, as in the case of Don Juan of Spain, son of former King Alfonso XIII., who was a cadet. Both the duke of Windsor, former King Edward VIII., of Great Britain, and King George VI., his brother, are graduates of Dartmouth.

THEY CAN PAY.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—I protest against the delivery of hundreds of bombers to France and Britain, not because they may be used to bomb civilians [all bombers are designed for that], but because if these nations have the foreign exchange to buy bombers, they can pay on their war debt to us!

France and England alone owe us over $7,000,000,000 on the war debt. They have pleaded that they could pay only in goods because they didn't have exchange or gold to transfer to this country. But they have plenty of exchange to buy bombers!

Are we blind? France and Britain will pay cash for the first few orders, but when war comes the deliveries will expand and be put on the cuff, where the American people will eventually pay, just as we today pay for the world war deliveries. F. M.

SOLIDARITY.

Evanston, Ill., Jan. 29.—Without realizing it, the American Jews are doing all Americans a disservice in emphasizing their racial solidarity as expressed in their organization of a National Jewish congress.

For any group of Americans to organize a racial or national minority at this time is a misfortune. Now, more than ever, is a time for Americans to keep in mind their American solidarity and to emphasize their common aims as Americans rather than their inherited racial and national differences.

At this moment there are a number of Americans of the Jewish race in high public office, in the city, state and federal government, some elected, some appointed. These offices they hold not as Jews but as Americans in whose ability and Americanism the people have confidence. It seems, therefore, a particularly improper time for a group of their fellow Americans to organize on a racial front. S. S. G.

RIVAL ATTRACTIONS.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—We love our President, but not enough. Why was Hitler allowed to broadcast his speech on President Roosevelt's birthday? I think we should have shown more respect for him. There are other days to broadcast speeches, especially Hitler's. Why should he have picked this day? Some Americans we are! C. S. B.

IT'S AN OLD SAYING.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Why is it that every time a person of German extraction submits an opinion to your paper some intelligent person comes back with "If he doesn't like this country why doesn't he go back to Germany." Tell your readers to get something new in wisecracks [or go back to their countries].

ANN JACKSON.

SO LONG.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Because you have conducted a continuous campaign attempting to show the administration is communistic; because your current campaign [due to the ride of the French official in a privately owned plane] ignores among other things:

[a] The fact that France will pay cash for planes purchased, thus helping business in all parts of the country;

[b] The fact that Germany not only pays no cash but steals American airplane designs not to speak of commercial credits, etc. [see TRIBUNE article dated Jan. 30 by Willard Edwards];

[c] The fact that a purchase of planes is not a treaty between sovereign governments;

And because your current campaign is giving aid and comfort to an enemy of the American republic and the Christian religion—the Hitler régime [see TRIBUNE Feb. 3, page 2, article by Sigrid Schultz and see Associated Press Vatican dispatch, page 3, same issue]; because you lie about former President Wilson, not here to defend himself [for instance, the recent editorial stating he wanted to be president of the world]; for all these and a host of other ludicrous and despicable lies and half truths, which have daily insulted my intelligence, I have discontinued the daily and SUNDAY TRIBUNE, and will never read it again so long as its present policies continue.

NAVY BUILDING IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Feb. 5. — Mayor Kelly's endeavors to induce the navy department to have at least a considerable portion of the submarines, destroyers, and other small craft built in Chicago to provide employment for thousands of workers here merits the support of all Chicagoans. I should like to add one important reason to his, one not overlooked by European countries: That it is wise to locate essential war industries away from the coasts and borders and scatter them throughout the interior of a country, where they will be less vulnerable to attack by enemy bombers.

SMART POSTAL WORK.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—I wish to express my appreciation for the efficiency of the postoffice department as attested by the following facts.

A letter was sent to me at 655 West Division street. I have not lived at that address for the last thirty years. Nos. 655-57-59 were wrecked about five years ago. I have changed addresses four times since. The letter was mailed from Williamsport, Pa., on Jan. 28 and was delivered to me on Feb. 1. I believe that such efficient service on the part of our government agencies merits a word of praise. TIMOTHY J. COURNEY.

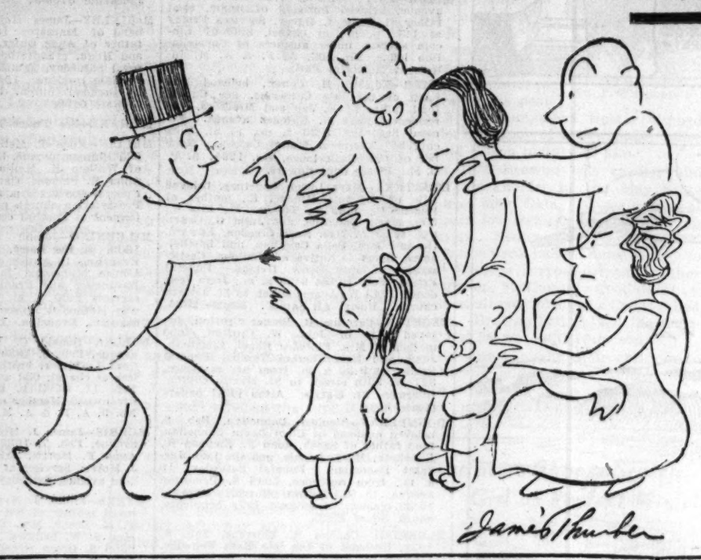
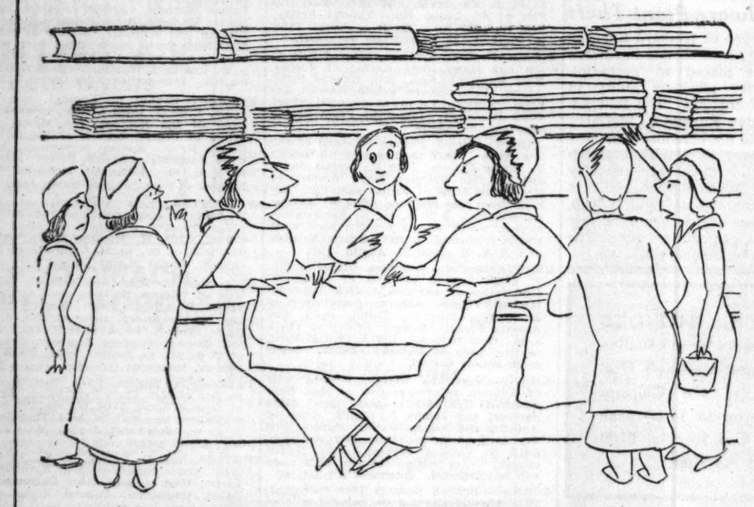
How do YOU make friends?



Friends are important assets—to people and to magazines. Today, with the publication of the March Journal a new chapter in the friendships of magazines is being written. For the Journal is reaching the largest audience in its history. Journal readers are participating in one of America's fastest buying movements —one which has resulted in newsstand increases of 65% for the Journal in 3 years. Even with these increases, the Journal continues to believe that the kind of friends you acquire is as important as the number of friends you acquire. That is why you will find some of the methods people and magazines use for making friends discussed here.

On a Bargain Basis?

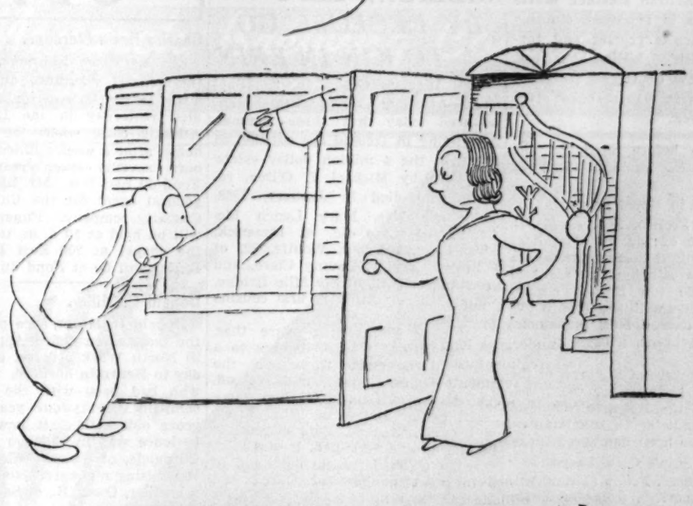


The beginnings of beautiful friendships sometimes occur over bargain counters—but the Journal believes that a magazine, like a man or woman, is known by the company it keeps. That the way you make friends determines the kind of friends you make. The Journal sells at the full advertised price only.

As a Fourth at Bridge?

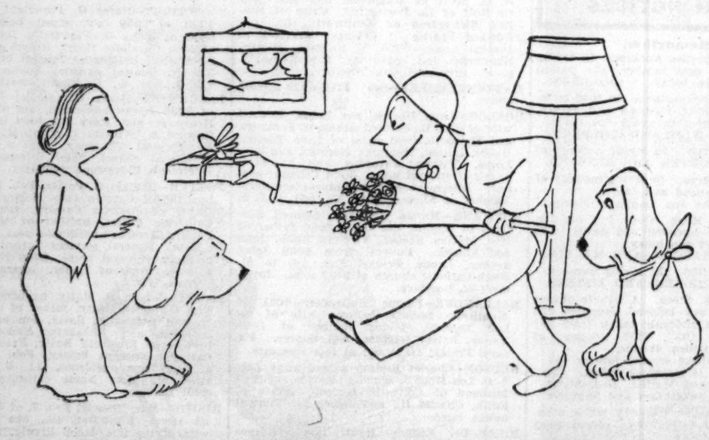
"Just filling in" after the folks have eaten is rather a disillusioning experience. A magazine, too, may feel more flattered when it is always invited to your home as "guest of honor"—never to "fill in" with other magazines or newspapers in cut-price "group subscription" offers.

Just Ringing Doorbells?



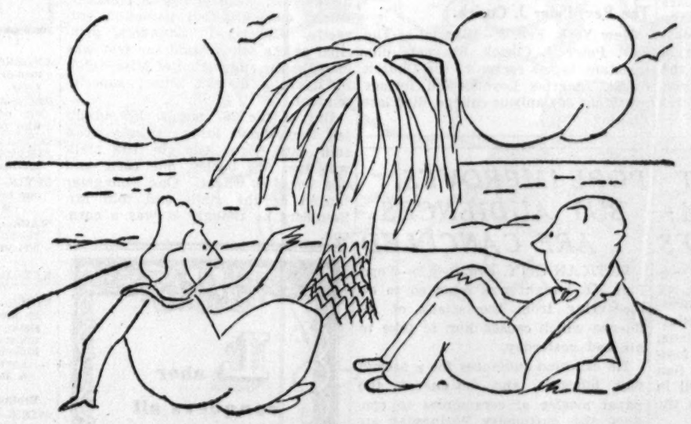
It's a simple (and often effective) way to meet new people—but after you go back to college will they remember you? The best friendships for people or magazines are founded upon common interests, mutual idiom, ideals and shared experience. They must be spontaneous—on both sides.

By Extravagant Gestures?



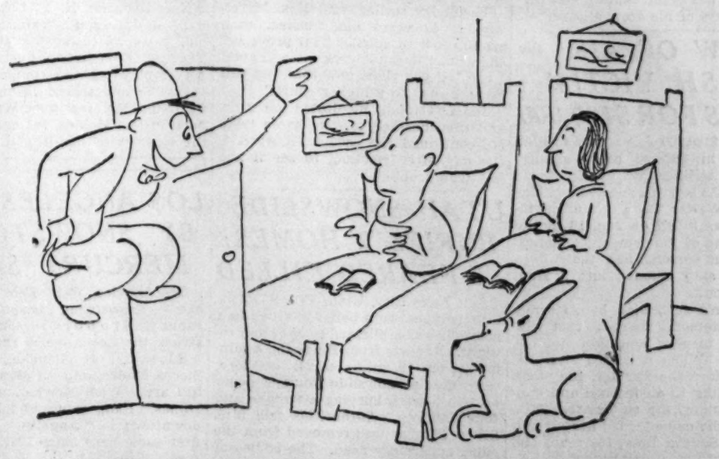
Over-persuasion is dangerous—if you want to be SURE they love you for yourself alone! "Pressure selling"—sob stories, "college career" solicitations are severely dealt with by the Ladies' Home Journal. If encountered on the Journal, they should be reported. We'll see they're stopped.

Do You Need a Shipwreck?



Some castaways are pleasant fellows, but the usual trouble with desert islands is you can't pick congenial friends. Have to take 'em as they wash up! That's why the Journal never buys circulation from shipwrecked magazines—why every Journal sale is made non-instalment, cash-in-advance too.

Do You Make an Effort?



If people go out of their way to look you up . . . or if they make the effort monthly to visit a newsstand to purchase a magazine—you can be pretty sure of their affection. That is why the Journal is proud of having attracted almost two-thirds of its 3-year gain at newsstands.

These statements on Journal methods of winning friends assume force and significance in view of the number of friends the Journal has been making recently. . . . Today the Journal's total circulation is at the highest point in history—3,070,000 women buyers. . . . In the past three years it has increased over 450,000. . . . Almost two-thirds of this increase has come from women who buy the Journal at newsstands. . . . No matter how you look at it, the size and character of this increase are remarkable.

4 LINERS RACING TO AID OF SINKING SHIP; 30 ABOARD

Bucks Stormy Seas with Hull Ripped Open.

New York, Feb. 8.—[Special.]—The 4,988 ton British freighter Maria De Larrinaga was reported sinking in mid-Atlantic tonight while four trans-Atlantic liners were racing for her position in response to urgent calls for aid.

As a result of the storms that have battered shipping during the last week the freighter, en route from Houston, Tex., to Cobh, Ireland, was wallowing in fairly heavy seas, with water pouring through open seams.

The Holland-America liners Veendam and Noordam, both eastward bound from New York, reported they were speeding to the helpless vessel. The American liner Scanmail, bound for Europe, also is proceeding to her aid. The fourth rescue ship is the Cunarder Aurania.

The Noordam, believed to be the nearest, is expected alongside the disabled ship before daylight. The Larrinaga's crew numbers thirty or thirty-five.

12 Die in Naval Crash.

LORIENT, France, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A representative of the navy ministry announced tonight that twelve sailors had died in a collision last night of the new 7,600 ton French cruiser Georges Leygues with the French torpedo boat Bison during maneuvers off Penmarch Point, a cape in Brittany.

The victims were of the crew of the Bison. Three bodies were recovered. The prow of the Bison, a vessel of 2,436 tons completed in 1930, was reported to have been damaged.

Sunken Ship's Crew Saved.

HULL, England, Feb. 9 [Thursday].—(AP)—The American freighter Meanticut of Houston, Tex., limped into port early today with the crew of the Greek steamer Katina Bulgaris, which sank yesterday after a collision.

The Meanticut, 6,061 tons, was en route to Hull from New Orleans when she collided in a heavy fog with the 4,567 ton Greek vessel seven miles from Humber lightship off the east coast of England. A gaping hole was ripped in the side of the Katina Bulgaris, bound for Buenos Aires, and she sank rapidly. The Meanticut was damaged, but her hull remained watertight. She put over a lifeboat which took the Greek captain and several members of his crew aboard.

MILLIONS LEFT BY RECLUSE GO TO KIN IN ERIN

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Attorney David Faries announced today that three persons now living in Ireland are entitled to share in the 4 million dollar estate left here by Michael F. O'Dea, recluse who died in January, 1938. They are Mrs. Mary Lynch McCarthy, 80 years old, of Limerick, Mrs. Bridget Lynch Woulfe, 82, of O'Brien's Bridge, County Clare, and James Lynch, 78, of Six Mile Bridge, County Clare. All were first cousins of O'Dea.

Attorney Faries took more than 100 depositions from claimants to a share in the estate throughout the United States, Canada, and Ireland. The status of George O'Brien, 45, a relief client, and Miss Ella O'Dea, both of South Bend, Ind., as possible heirs was undetermined, it was said. O'Brien claimed several days ago to be a great nephew of O'Dea and Miss O'Dea a niece. Attorney Faries indicated their claims would have no bearing on disposition of the estate.

TELLS A JUDGE'S FUTURE; HER OWN IS LEFT IN DOUBT

Mrs. Mary B. Mares of 2926 North Washtenaw avenue insisted, when haled before Judge Oscar S. Caplan yesterday for telling fortunes for money, that she does not tell fortunes. Instead, she said, she predicts things that come true.

The judge smiled, and Mrs. Mares, who is 42 years old, flushed, then spoke up with spirit. "I'll prove it," she said, "if you'll give me a chance. I can tell you right now that you will be promoted to a higher court."

Judge Caplan meditated on this, and then decided to give her a trial. He continued the case until April 5, the day after election, to see if she is a true prophet.

WIDOW OF AIR CRASH VICTIM SUES FOR $100,000

Suit for $100,000 damages was filed yesterday in federal court against Northwest Airlines, Inc., by Mrs. Doris V. Ton of 832 North Long avenue. Her husband, Walter R., a postoffice inspector, was killed on Jan. 10 in the crash of one of the company's planes. Nine other persons lost their lives when the ship plunged into a Montana canyon.

Mrs. Ton's suit, filed by Attorney H. H. Patterson, charges that the plane was in poor condition and not airworthy. When it landed at Butte shortly before the disaster, the plane was vibrating in an intense and dangerous manner, the suit states. Mrs. Ton asks the damages for herself and daughter, Sondra June, 1½ years old.

Admiral Kato, 69, Is Dead; Japanese Naval Expert

TOKIO, Feb. 9 [Thursday].—(AP)—Admiral Kanji Kato, 69 years old, one of Japan's greatest naval experts, died today at his seaside villa near Atami. Death resulted from a cerebral hemorrhage after a four day illness. A former chief of the naval general staf, Admiral Kato attended the Washington [D. C.] naval conference of 1921, heading Japan's technical delegation. He opposed British and American proposals to scrap capital ships and urged withdrawal of the Japanese delegation. Eight years later he opposed Japan's participation in the London conference, but Premier Hamaguchi overruled him.

Threaten Parochial School Closing Over Ban on Bingo

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Because bingo has been banned by the county prosecutor, there is a strong possibility that Trenton parochial schools, with 7,526 pupils, may close at the end of the present term, according to Frank I. Casey, counsel for Catholic priests, opposing the ban. Casey said it costs $700,000 to operate the parochial schools and indicated he did not believe the money could be found unless the ban on bingo was lifted.

Snow fell at Glendale, Pasadena, Sierra Madre, and all along the foothill areas from Newhall east to San Dimas. Rain, snow, and hail fell in downtown Los Angeles. It was the first snow here since 1931.

High Court Refuses Back Pay to Park Employes

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday ruled that 488 present and former south park district employés are not entitled to $520,333 in back pay. The employés' pay was reduced 20 per cent from 1932 to 1934. They sued the Chicago park district and won in the Circuit court. Last June the Appellate court reversed this decision, and yesterday the high court allowed a motion of the park district to dismiss the appeal.

He canceled audiences for a second day, however, and designated the papal master of ceremonies to conduct the customary Wednesday audience for newlyweds.

The pope, who is 81 years old, received only Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Vatican secretary of state, but devoted considerable time to planning the week-end celebrations of the anniversaries of the Lateran treaty between the church and the Italian state and his own coronation.

RADIO'S FAILURE IS BLAMED FOR BOMBER MISHAP

A failure of radio equipment in the Martin B-10 bomber damaged in landing at Chicago airport Tuesday night probably caused the mishap, it was indicated yesterday. Failure of the airplane's radio receiver and transmitter would have made it impossible for trafic directors in the airport control tower to give the pilot, Lieut. D. E. Ridings, landing instructions.

Lieut. Ridings brought the plane down on a runway heading northwest, instead of landing southeast into the wind from that direction. The speed of the plane, plus that of the wind, left the heavy machine rolling so rapidly that it could not be stopped. As it neared the railroad embankment at the northwest corner of the field, the pilot spun it around. It then nosed over.

The ship, from Selfridge field, Mich., was testing instruments. Lieut. Ridings did not respond to radio calls from the ground. His passenger, Sergt. John Warren, said landing lights on the field had obscured wind direction indicators.

ONLY 54 OF 207 PUPILS IDENTIFY STALK OF WHEAT

The word wheat is commonplace. Every one knows what wheat is used for. Bread is made from wheat.

But when 207 sixth, seventh, and eighth grade pupils at the Mozart elementary school, 2200 North Hamlin avenue, were shown a stalk of wheat, only fifty-four named it correctly. Charles P. Saunders, principal of the school, said the test was made at the suggestion of Miss Nellie F. Ryan, a district school superintendent.

Out of the 207 pupils, 109 admitted they didn't know; twenty-seven said oats, eight thought the stalk was rye, five barley, one corn, and one bearded wheat. One youngster looked at the stalk and told Mr. Saunders he thought it was a corncob.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach often pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain, or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in no time and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

WPA CONSPIRACY CASE WITH JURY IN NEW MEXICO

Senator's Son-in-Law and Sister Accused.

Albuquerque, N. M., Feb. 8.—(AP)—A federal court jury tonight received the case of twenty-five defendants charged with criminal conspiracy to violate the federal WPA laws after nearly eight hours of hotly argued accusations of extortion and political persecution.

Richard Shanahan, assistant to U. S. attorney general.

Jurors were instructed by Judge Colin Neblett to disregard political allegations by A. T. Hannett, Democratic national committeeman for New Mexico and chief of defense counsel, that the defendant in this case is Senator Dennis Chavez.

The court advised the jury it could return a verdict acquitting all the defendants, convicting all of them, or convicting some and acquitting others.

Conviction Demanded.

In the government's closing plea District Attorney Everett Grantham called on the jury to make national history in condemning politics in the WPA.

The indictments charged the defendants manipulated the WPA by coercion and intimidation of workers for the political benefit of Chavez. Among the defendants are three members of the senator's immediate family, including his sister, Mrs. Anita Tafoya, and his son-in-law, Stanley W. P. Miller, discharged assistant federal prosecutor.

Jury Told to Forget.

"There's only one hope behind the prosecution's case—the hope this case will break Senator Chavez politically, physically, and mentally," Hannett told the jury. This was only one of his statements which the court told the jury to forget.

Richard Shanahan of Chicago, special assistant of the United States attorney general, accused the defendants of robbing the poor and needy, and of extortion from $48 a month WPA workers.

CONFIDENCE IS VOTED IN POLICE CHIEF WHO SERVED PRISON TERM

Glendale, Cal., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Vernon B. Browne, chief of police of Glendale, kept his job today when townspeople, undismayed by his past, voted confidence in him anew. Browne admitted he had served eleven months in prison in 1925 and was pardoned. When the city council learned of the events leading to his conviction it voted praise of his service. Not even Browne's three children knew of his past until an anonymous tipster slipped under the door of a newspaper office an old prison picture of him.

Vernon B. Browne. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

In 1923 Browne was cashier and chief stockholder of the May State bank of May, Okla. It was a time of distress for farmers because of crop failures. Browne lent them money. When his bank had no more money to lend Browne borrowed from another institution, putting up as collateral securities already pledged. Crops failed again. Browne had helped the farmers, but he was sent to prison.

His wife brought their children to California and Browne joined them here after his pardon. He became a patrolman in 1927 and chief in 1935.

JURY THROWS OUT DANCER'S $50,000 AUTO CRASH SUIT

A jury in Lake County Circuit court last night decided against Miss Mildred Steinke, 20 years old, a toe dancer, in her damage suit for $50,000 based on injuries in an automobile accident. Hearing of the suit began Monday before Judge Ralph J. Dady.

The jurors were out five hours before bringing in a verdict in favor of the defendant, Lewis Knudson, 22, of 10010 Lafayette avenue, Chicago. Knudson's automobile and another driven by Walter Hehn, 23, of 4693 Kasson street, Chicago, collided last July 10 at Telegraph and Buckley roads, southwest of North Chicago. Miss Steinke and two other entertainers, Charlotte O'Connor and Betty Czar, were riding in Hehn's car. Miss O'Connor and Miss Czar were killed.

Miss Steinke charged her injuries made it impossible for her to work. The jury also threw out a $10,000 suit brought against Khudson by Miss O'Connor's estate.

GOLFERS PESTER FARMER; HE SUES AND WINS $900

Golfers who hooked and sliced around the White Pines course at Bensenville kept the Godfrey Baumgartner family ducking from sunrise to sunset. They tramped down his grain while retrieving errant shots. Chemicals used on the greens polluted a creek running through Baumgartner's adjoining farm and he had to dig a well to get a pure water supply.

Baumgartner made these charges in a suit against Illinwek Fields, Inc., a Chicago company that owns the course. He asked $30,000 damages. Yesterday he was preparing to collect $900, the amount awarded Tuesday by Judge Charles B. Page of Elgin, sitting in the Du Page county Circuit court.

Intent Throng Hears First of String Concerts

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The chamber concert scheduled for Jan. 30 and postponed because of the snowstorm was given yesterday afternoon in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel. This first of a series of four monthly programs drew an audience which was not large in size but which was obviously of the intent, knowing sort.

Hans Lange's chamber orchestra [about fourteen musicians — mostly stringed instrument players] offered a symphony of Johann Stamitz [eighteenth century] and a set of four episodes by Ernest Bloch [contemporary]. Between these two works was the Beethoven C major quintet for two violins, two violas, and cello. For this piece Milton Preves joined the men of the Philharmonic String quartet—John Weicher, Robert Quick, Walter Hancock, and Dudley Powers.

The antique charm of the Crystal ballroom helped create the proper atmosphere for the Stamitz symphony. The orchestra, too, was of about the size which an early eighteenth century court might have had at its disposal. Mr. Lange preserved the clarity and simplicity of the old time symphony, yet managed within the small classical compass enough expressive effects to make the work absorbingly interesting from first to last.

The four Bloch episodes—entitled "Humoresque Macabre," "Obsession," "Calm," and "Chinese," respectively —turned out to be quite exciting end products of burning imagination and of the most vigorous sort of musical thought. Under Bloch's hands the chamber orchestra has a power and a color variety which a mere list of its few instruments would never suggest.

The Beethoven quintet was fervently performed, with John Weicher's vital first violin setting a standard which his co-workers triumphantly met. The precision and the tonal unity of the group was remarkable—especially in view of the fact that Mr. Preves was not originally scheduled to take part in the quintet and must have been limited to a small number of rehersals.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

Author at the Play.

The slim, blue-eyed woman, her hair in golden brown curls on her brow, whom you might have seen in the third row at Kiss the Boys Good-bye Tuesday evening was Clare Boothe Luce, the author, seeing the Chicago company play it for the first time. It also was the first time she had seen the play sitting down, she said. The opening night in New York she went to a movie to see the Four Marx brothers, she said. At later performances she had stood at the back of the theater. Point where Miss Boothe always laughs at her own lines: Harner, the movie director who has been pinked in the arm by the southern belle's pistol, looks bug-eyed at his handkerchief bandaged shoulder and says, "O, it's coming through again."

Miss Boothe is at work on a new play. Name changed from Her Wedding Day to Married from Home. A nice, sweet play, she says.

Speaking of play authors, a friend who was at the opening night of The American Way in New York reports there were loud cries of "Author! Author!" after the final curtain. Later some one asked Author George Kaufman, who had been standing in the wings, why he had not acknowledged the ovation.

"I was too busy shouting 'Author'," he retorted.

February Day.

Pale sunshine on the violets and azaleas in the florists' windows, on muddy gutters and wind-dried sidewalks. . . . Luncheon at the Buttery, mixed grill en brochette dramatically brought in on a flaming sword held aloft. . . . Dwight Fiske breakfasting at the next table, writing a telegram (to Libby Holman) while he waited for his bacon and eggs. (We didn't peek; he mentioned it.) . . . After luncheon to the Roullier Art galleries to see the fine Toulouse-Lautrec lithographs on exhibit, and the new sculpture of Chicagoan John Storrs and Chicagoan John Pratt's exciting costume designs for various ballets and for The Mikado.

A dash to the Blackstone, where Clare Boothe was having tea in her apartment. Blonde, lovely, feminine, silky with the feeling of steel under the silk, this much discussed author of The Women and Kiss the Boys Good-bye. . . . And an hour later, at a friend's party for Dwight Fiske, Miss Lucia Lull, southern star of Miss Boothe's play, found sitting quietly in a corner surrounded by men. Blonde Vivian Vance there also, and Coburn Goodwin and others of the company. Upon arrival the door was opened by a small blackamoor in a magenta taffeta coat, magenta plumes on his turban, pearls twisted about his neck, gold anklets about striped sock-covered ankles, a living counterpart of the decorative figures again in vogue. Later, for all his small elegance, he did some active shagging and tapping. . . . Out into the February dusk and home, to the terriers waiting by the door.

Shifting Part in Hair May Alter Effect for the Better

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Women in professional life, we find, are ever on the qui vive for personal improvement. They have to be. They go forward or they go out, that's all. Because they are trained to keep an eye open for every little thing that will further their own place in the decorative scheme, they become pretty keeneyed about their sex generally. Which probably inspird petite, vivacious Frances Langford, of stage, screen and radio, to comment on the parting of hair.

"I'll wager that nine out of ten women," she said to us, "have kept the same part in their hair from the time they were ten years old!"

Probably some of these nine out of ten experimented with parts on the other side of the head or down the middle to find them unbecoming. But we are with Miss Langford in thinking a number of women never change the location of the part.

It is interesting to note what a little thing such as the part in the hair will do to a face. In a salon the other day we found the voice of an old friend coming over the partition. We called out. She said: "Come on in when you're through and see my new part." For some reason, this woman had long worn her quite lovely light brown hair parted low on the right side of her head. The skilled artist to whom she was committed at the moment lifted the part a full two inches higher on the same side and, honestly, there was an amazing change. It seemed to make a complete oval of what had been a broad face.

The hair artist wanted to part her hair in the middle, but the woman wouldn't yet concede that difference. That's where he thought her part should be and, knowing much about reshaping faces with the help of a part, he probably is right.

Now's the Time for Suits

WOMAN'S AND MISS' TAILLEUR.

Now and then there's a hint of spring in the air, but more than just a hint of it is apparent on the fashion callendar. This is spring suit time. Right now you should be wearing a smart tailleur under your winter coat. And it won't be long until you'll be wearing suits without other toppers.

The jacket buttons all the way down the front, and may have a high, round neckline with a collar, or a neckline finished in rever fashion. The shoulders are squared. The jacket is quite long, that is, longer than the average, and, therefore, is especially suitable to plump figures. Around the softly shirred waistline is a self-fabric or narrow lether belt. The skirt is a slim affair with just the right amount of flare.

This whole costume is exceedingly easy to make. Woolens of almost all types will make up well. You may use all one color and weave, or combine two of them, as shown in the sketch at the right.

Style No. 2652 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 30, 32, 34, 36, and 38 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 54 inch material.

According to CULBERTSON

"Dear Chief: It's been so long since you've heard from me, your Bridge Spy, that you must have thought I had been 'liquidated,' along with a lot of other undercover agents. Spying, of any description, isn't too healthful a vocation these days, is it? But here I am, finally, popping up with another hand that I kibitzed in the club car of a transcontinental train:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	NORTH ♠ None ♥ K 9 6 3 ♦ 9 6 5 4 2 ♣ K J 7 4
WEST ♠ A K J ♥ A 10 ♦ A Q J 10 3 ♣ A 9 5		EAST ♠ 8 6 5 3 ♥ Q ♦ K 7 ♣ Q 10 8 6 3 2
	SOUTH ♠ Q 10 9 7 4 2 ♥ J 8 7 5 4 2 ♦ 8 ♣ None

"The bidding on this hand was something to sit up nights over, pondering the strange and inscrutable ways of Fate and Justice. Both sides were vulnerable and South dealt. Without even a tremor of doubt [but with a tell-tale hiccough] the rosy-cheeked gent in the South position bid one spade.

"West, a beetle-browed individual, almost fell off his chair when he heard South's opening bid, and directed a glare at him that must have singed. After making a lot of faces that would have turned Harpo Marx green with envy, he bellowed 'three no trump.' North and East meekly passed, but South had just begun to fight. He simpered coyly, took another gulp of liquid courage from the tall glass in front of him, and blithely chirped 'four hearts. This was met by a double that sounded like the train's whistle, only more frightening.

"But if you think South's bidding [vulnerable] was 'something,' kindly follow the play!

"West fingered every card in his hand before deciding to open the club ace. That was the last decision he had to make! The jovial declarer ruffed, and ruffed a low spade in dummy. He discarded his lone diamond on the club king, then ruffed a diamond. A second spade ruff killed West's king and a third one [after another diamond ruff] massacred the ace. Now that declarer's spades were established, he seemed to have no doubt as to how to proceed. In dummy at this point, he calmly, with all the confidence in the world, laid down the heart king! My eyes were somewhere outside my face by this time, but not too far outside to see the blank queen get smothered on this play. West [whose face was now a curious combination of purple and green] won with the ace and then might as well have torn up his remaining cards. He led a diamond. Declarer ruffed, drew the ten of hearts with the jack, and solemnly led out his three set-up spades. Game, rubber, and two overtricks!

"'Tut, tut, partner,' was South's gentle reproof to North, 'it looks like we were talked out of a slam. Couldn't you tell that West was psyching?'

"Whereupon West picked up a handful of cards and swallowed them before our astonished eyes!

"Faithfully yours, THE SPY."

I won't sully the foregoing fiction or fact [who knows?] with even a tiny comment.

It's Rodeo Time; the Southwest Is Wild Again

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT'S rodeo time in Phoenix and the whole town and countryside have turned back the years while the wild west lives again. Every one, even the salespeople in the stores and shops, is in costume—high heeled boots, a bright colored shirt, a waving bandanna, a wide brimmed hat.

Three hundred genuine cowboys are there to ride bucking broncos, hogtie wild red-eyed steers, and ride humpbacked Brahma bulls. Many times that number of amateur cowboys and girls will be in the audiences that will assemble at the State Fair grounds today, tomorrow, Saturday, and Sunday afternoons for the third annual world's championship rodeo.

Taking part in the rip-snortin' fun will be a French cowboy, Paul Coze, artist and author, who is in this country making a series of paintings of American Indians for the French museum. He is founder and president of the French Lasso club. A commissioner of the Boy Scouts in France, and inventor of a new game, cholla, that is to be played at the rodeo each afternoon, Mr. Coze is spending the winter at the Camelback inn.

Mr. Coze, who will referee the game, got the inspiration for the contest by watching Sioux braves rope barrels last summer. Pronounced choya, and named for a bristling cactus, the game is played with a sort of jack with six arms. The object is to rope the cholla and drag it past the goal line.

There are three cowboys on each side. The first game ever played was between a team from Camelback inn and one from the Wigwam on Jan. 28 with Camelback the winner. These teams and ones from the Arizona Biltmore, the Jokake inn, and the San Marcos in Chandler, will compete in the rodeo.

Chicagoans may have a chance to see some cholla games at the next rodeo here, for Mr. Coze hopes to take some teams to Chicago and New York and perhaps on to Paris for the horse show in April. He staged the first rodeo ever held in Paris two or three years ago.

Powder River Jack Sings Cowboy Songs.

Guests at Camelback the other night were entertained with songs by Powder River Jack Lee and his wife, Kitty, who went around the world with Buffalo Bill and who are perpetuating the memory of the wild west by singing authentic cowboy songs all over the country. The night before they had been at Castle Hot Springs and Powder River told an amusing story of their performance there.

"I was Tito Schipa's guest at the Chicago opera a few years ago," he said. "So last night I gave those dudes at Castle Hot Springs an imitation of Schipa's singing. One man seemed to find it very funny. Later he sent his card to me and on it were the words, 'Jason F. Whitney, President Chicago City Opera company.'"

The Lees' performance at Camelback was in the Zuppke lounge, named for Bob Zuppke, football coach at the University of Illinois, and the first guest at the inn when it opened three years ago. Mr. Zuppke is a painter as well as a football coach and many of his colorful paintings of desert scenes hang on the walls of the lounge.

Mrs. Louis Eckstein has joined the large Chicago colony at the Biltmore. On March 9 and 10 the Chicago Woman's exchange will hold its annual exhibit and sale at the hotel. Mrs. William A. Ryan, the former Helen Hurley of Wheaton, is a frequent visitor at the hotel. She and her two little children are spending the winter in a house in the Arcadia district, east of the hotel.

Mrs. Jefferson Currier is leaving today to join her mother, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr., at the Bowens' ranch near Castle Hot Springs, Ariz. Mrs. Currier will spend a month in the west.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The combination of wool dresses and overheated rooms makes it essential to follow a meticulous grooming program in winter. The preparations now on the market that check perspiration or neutralize any unpleasant odor are safe, effective, and good investments.

If you're tempted to relax your vigilance about the use of deodorants or anti-perspirants in winter you're in great danger of losing your reputation for fastidiousness. Wool dresses and the well heated rooms in which we work and live are alone a formidable combination.

Use some sort of a preparation to destroy any possibility of perspiration odor in winter as well as in summer. You can check perspiration completely with an anti-perspirant—and, used over small areas, this isn't at all a harmful practice. If you'd rather, you can use a deodorant which doesn't check perspiration at all, but does neutralize any odor.

The possibilities of skin irritation from either type of preparation are negligible if you follow directions. Here, as in a great many other instances, it's wise to read the directions on the bottle or jar and follow them implicitly. We find many women awfully careless about this.

If you perspire very heavily you'll probably find the anti-perspirant more satisfactory than the deodorant. You'll save wear and tear on your clothes, at least.

And speaking of clothes, it's an excellent idea to air your wool dresses before you hang them away. Hang them in front of a window or on the porch. There are some preparations now that can safely be used on fabric to remove all odor, but airing is a good method in any case.

If you use a liquid preparation as an anti-perspirant it's usually best to pat it on rather than to rub it in. Creams, on the other hand, can be massaged in, but be sure you do it gently.

The daily bath isn't nearly sufficient to keep you daintily groomed; special preparations that answer your individual requirements are inexpensive and simple to use. Above all, don't make the mistake of thinking that perfume will camouflage the odor of perspiration. If it's a choice between spending money for perfume or a preparation that checks perspiration, by all means buy the latter.

Chicago Artist Show Follows Recent Pattern

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The forty-third annual exhibition of artists of Chicago and vicinity opens today in the east wing galleries of the Art institute. It is a typical exhibition running along lines similar to those of the last three Chicago artists' shows.

Rumor has it that Mahonri Young, the conservative member of the jury, was consistently outvoted by his confrères, Donald Bear, director of the Denver Art museum, and Charles H. Carter, professor at Carnegie institute at Pittsburgh. But, rumor or no, the show seems to fall short of what we would expect to be the best work of artists of Chicago and vicinity.

Two conspicuous examples of bad painting are the work of graduate students of the Art institute who were awarded traveling scholarships upon the completion of their course, Edgar Ewing and Glen Krause. If these are the Art institute school's honor men, what must be the development of their average graduate?

The pictures which are admirably conceived and painted include the beautiful "Moonlight on Clingman Dome," by Rudolph Ingerle; the brilliant "Timberline," by Charles Killgore; the two stunning landscapes by Frederic Tellander; the impressive "Scottish Piper," by Charles Sneed Williams; the modest "Deborah of Bean Blossom," by Othmar Hoffler; the sparkling "Morning, Dubroknik," by George Buehr; the amazingly authentic "Jugs," by Leslie B. Buck; the two characteristic scenes by Dale Nichols; the colorful Mexican "Sabado," by Ralph von Lehmden, and the decorative "Swans and Water Lilies," by Benjamin Kelman.

The division of sculpture this year is, by contrast with the pictures, surprisingly fine. Mr. Young and Albin Polasek juried this.

The Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan Art institute medal and $500 went to a sculpture, "Portrait of L. L. Valentine," by Maeble Perry Edwards, a fairly good likeness but by no means an impressive piece of modeling. The Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Armstrong prize of $300 was won by Grace Nina Stocklin for "At the Dressing Table." The William H. Bartels prize of $300 went to Harry Mintz for "Spring Landscape near Galena"; the Mr. and Mrs. Jule F. Brower prize of $300, to Louis Ritman for "Sadie Bell."

The Clyde M. Carr prize of $100, to Nicola Ziroli for "Summer Park Scene"; the Joseph N. Eisendrath prize of $100, to Malcolm Hackett for "Young Girl," and the Municipal Art league prize of $100, to the charming bas-relief, "Study of Children," by C. Warner Williams. The exhibition will continue to March 12.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kinsley of Plainfield, N. J., announce the engagement of their daughter, Stephanie, to Lawrence Nye Stevens of Waterville, Me. Miss Kinsley is a graduate of Oberlin college and Mr. Stevens was graduated from Harvard university. Both are graduate students in the department of geography at the University of Chicago.

The wedding will take place on Feb. 17 in Chicago. Miss Kinsley's father was associate professor of physics at the University of Chicago for several years. Her grandfather was the late C. D. Ellis, lawyer and banker of Charles City, Ia.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Heberling of 1440 Jonquil terrace announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret, to Courtney Arthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Arthur of Streator, Ill.

Miss Heberling is a graduate of the University of Illinois. Mr. Arthur is a graduate of the University of Illinois college of law.

Mrs. Max Bretzfeld of the Madison Park hotel announces the engagement of her daughter, Adele, to Willard Gidwitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Gidwitz. Miss Bretzfeld attended the University of Chicago and Columbia university. Mr. Gidwitz attended the University of Chicago.

Good Morning!

A "father and son" story of surprising content and unusual developments occupies the State-Lake screen.

The father, Mike Balan, is a racketeer, against whom federal authorities are seeking evidence. His real name is NOT Mike. It is a Russian name which he had changed for business reasons and "Mike" was once a Cossack. Years before, his wife had left him. . . . As the picture opens she comes to see him and dump in his lap his son with whom she declares she can do nothing. She has married again "a respectable man," she tells Mike proudly and venomously.

The son arrives and proves to his dad before a day is over that he can fight, ride a horse, and take and give it quite as well if not better than his old man.

Mike plans to go straight. He can't be getting this swell kid into trouble. . . . And then the government catches up with him and he lands in Leavenworth. . . . But he's not worried. He knows that Johnny will come through for him.

Johnny joins the army. Why? Why, because the cavalry post with which he unites is situated just outside the penitentiary walls. He finally gets into communication with his father and an escape is planned. . . . But Johnny had not taken into consideration the sort of thing that patriotism can do to a fellow when he has taken oath to serve and protect his country's flag. . . . Mike, too, is to remember that he once had been a soldier, and a loyal one.

The leads are brilliantly played by Akim Tamiroff, who never misses a bet, and young Leif Erikson, who turns out a forceful, clean cut, and most appealing performance. Splendid "bit" of work is contributed by J. M. Kerrigan as a sergeant who believes in a sorely tempted lad; Frances Farmer as a Russian singer, who loves this same boy, and Lynn Overmann as Mike's cellmate.

The picture has punch, pathos, and humor.

Gary Cooper Uses Camel to Get Word of His Sick Baby

Yuma, Ariz., Feb. 8.—(AP)—By means of a camel ride and hitchhiking on the state highway, Gary Cooper arrived here tonight from sandswept Buttercup valley, 19 miles east of here, to learn that his baby daughter showed improvement from a severe cold.

A severe sandstorm blocked the Wooden road leading into Buttercup valley, where Cooper is on location.

Unable to drive an automobile out of the valley to telephone his wife, who is in Phoenix with their baby, Cooper appealed to Carl Stocker, camel trainer. The two, each riding a camel, set out for the state highway. From that point Cooper hitchhiked to Yuma and called his wife.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Observation Post.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 8.—Had any one suggested to this reviewer that Lionel Barrymore's magnificent make-believe in "You Can't Take It With You" wasn't one of the five best performances of the year he could have lured me into a wager of substantial proportions.

Barrymore's performance in the Capra picture was one of the standouts of the Hollywood year, yet I see by the papers that the veteran didn't even qualify for the final balloting. . . . He was rated far, far below Charles Boyer, in "Algiers," Cagney in "Angels with Dirty Faces," Robert Donat in "The Citadel," Leslie Howard in "Pygmalion," and Spencer Tracy in "Boys' Town." . . . I think that the nominating committee has committed a serious blunder.

Katharine Hepburn in "Holiday."

Lionel Barrymore in "You Can't Take It with You."

Myrna Loy in "Test Pilot."

Barrymore, in "You Can't Take It with You," gave a truly fine performance and, while it has seemed often that he was guilty of overacting, in this picture Capra toned down and completely eradicated the tendency to Barrymore exaggeration. . . . There was no time in the flicker that Barrymore veered away from the original note he struck, and the consistency of his playing was in itself a remarkable feature. . . . He gave the rôle of the grandfather exactly the tolerant sagacity it needed, and it was his grand interpretation that brought every other rôle to life. . . .

How the nominating committee of the academy could have decided that Barrymore didn't qualify among the First Five male actors of the 1938 screen is a puzzle that will forever bewilder not only this reporter but most of the observers of the colony.

Probably the most surprised actor in the Big Five was Charles Boyer. . . . The French star liked "Algiers" least of all his performances, for the very sound reason that the film was an American remake of "Pepe Le Moko," and he had no chance to originate a characterization.

They stuck fairly close, he told me, to the French version of the melodramatics in the Casbah. . . . Boyer, Donat, and Leslie Howard are three foreign stars in the First Five. . . . Tracy and Cagney are the only Hollywood entrants. . . . Robert Morley, Walter Brennan, John Garfield, Gene Lockhart, and Basil Rathbone qualified for the Best Supporting Actor Performance.

Bette Davis as a result of her "Jezebel," Norma Shearer for her "Marie Antoinette," Wendy Hiller for her grand performance in "Pygmalion," and Margaret Sullavan as a result of "Three Comrades" qualified to fight it out for the academy award of the femmes.

In the supporting actress rôle Billie Burke, Spring Byington, Beulah Bondi, Fay Bainter, and Milija Korjuz qualified.

Now it must be a difficult task to boil down the best performances of the academy year to five performers in each division, and it is easy to drift into the omnipotence that flourishes best in the back seat, but it appears that some performers got a little the worst of it in the balloting.

Lew Ayres for his supporting rôle in "Holiday" certainly deserved to get into the final balloting, and Frank Morgan as the drunken fight manager in "The Crowd Roars" could have been included. . . . Alan Hale's lusty performance in "Robin Hood" was overlooked, and Herbert Marshall's performance in "Mad About Music" was a bell-ringer that gave off academy tones.

Of the women I doubt that there were four worthier performers than Katharine Hepburn in "Holiday," but she seems to be anathema out here. . . . It can be doubted, too, that any of the local thespians exceeded Myrna Loy in "Test Pilot," Alice Faye in "Alexander's Ragtime Band," Elsa Lanchester in "The Beachcomber," or Priscilla Lane in "Four Daughters."

Radio City guards were thrown into an uproar over the week-end because of the rumor that swept the studios that a madman with a machine gun concealed in a violin case was wandering around the place. They finally caught him. . . . It developed immediately that he had sneaked past the guards with a violin case, posing as a musician, but the reason was that he wanted to sell violin strings to the orchestras. . . . He had concealed the violin strings in the violin case. . . . The guards felt very silly, believe me, when they evicted the desperate character.

Passing Show: A. C. Blumenthal working out a big deal with Chase National bank. . . . Don't be surprised if Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt ships his Heelfly to Florida for the $50,000 race against War Admiral and Seabiscuit.

Spyro Skouras and Rowland Brown working out a deal at House of Murphy.

Another Good Thing Returns; It's Surah Silk

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Good things have a way of coming back into style and creating just as much excitement as things that are brand new. This time it's surah silk. New surahs are arriving daily, fashioned into those greatly changed spring dirndl dresses . . . dirndls with a much lowered waistline and with all the pluggy buxomness gone. Soft, thin, and luxuriously silken, these are like a lovely foulard.

It doesn't take any great vision to realize that this surah or foulard silk will make the smartest of fresh spring outfits. Already the dresses are getting around under winter wool coats. Tiny outlines of white appear at the elbow length, softly shirred sleeves, and the demure vee shaped necklines. But it's the extremely narrow and smooth waistlines that will make you gasp. All the soft dirndl shirring is way down around the lower hipline. Because of the very soft, thin, surah silk the old objectionable thickness and bulk of last year's peasant dirndls has vanished. Sleek sophistication is achieved with the drop of the gathered shirring, and it's fun to wear such distinctly different clothes even though you've spurned the dirndl until now.

Moiré with a lovely water wave is used for dress parade dresses. These have wide hemlines, suavely fitted bodices, and sleeves that end anywhere from above the elbow to three inches below the elbow. Never have waistlines been so accented, or so smooth, or so small.

Because of the handsome fabric these moiré dresses are severely simple.

A Stranger in the Dark

By Frank R. Adams

(Copyright: 1939: By Frank R. Adams.)

SYNOPSIS.

The hero, pursued by Detective Mike Clancy, is stopped in a Chicago railway depot by a young man, apparently dying, who gives him his wallet and baggage check to get him his medicine. He gets the sick man's bag, then, seeing the man being carried away on a stretcher, he uses the man's ticket, and is on his way to Clovis, N. M., as John Bowman—an innocent fugitive, having taken the blame for missing bank funds to save his father. Before reaching Clovis he confesses his identity to Sheriff Tom Johnson, who boards the train to welcome John Bowman, whose father, Pete Bowman, is dying and longs to see the son separated from him by divorce since babyhood. The sheriff persuades him to take on the rôle. John's sister, Mary, and her fiancé, Charles Ferdinand, manager of her father's ranch, meet him in Amarillo and fly him to the ranch in Charles' plane. Mrs. Lodge, wife of Pete's physician and guest, is with them. Our hero falls instantly in love with Mary and dislikes Charles, a handsome show-off, who is the pet of Pete's sister, Matilda, who had loved Charles' father. The hero meets paralyzed old Pete Bowman, kept a virtual prisoner by Matilda. Pete asks him to stay and help Mary, and gives him his guns. Charles is carrying on an affair with Mrs. Lodge and even Dr. Lodge knows about it. In the middle of the night Pete sends his nurse for "John" and has him open the safe and burn a paper. Next morning Charles and Mary are to be married. Detective Clancy appears after the wedding, just as word comes that old Pete has died. That night Mrs. Lodge commits suicide and Mary refuses to go to her new home with Charles. Clancy, sleeping with "John," is stabbed—evidently "John" was the intended victim.

INSTALMENT XXVIII.

GUILTY ACTIONS.

Mary came back just then, a pitcher of steaming water in her hand, some clean pieces of cloth and a bottle.

She took one look at Clancy. "He's dead."

"No," I said cheerfully. "What's that in the bottle—whisky?"

"No. Some brandy the cook uses for cooking."

"Even better. You think of everything." I held the bottle to Clancy's lips and poured some down his throat.

He nearly choked—but opened his eyes. "That's so terrible it can't be legal. There's a still somewhere in the hills around here."

I laughed. "You see. He's far from being out. Now let's have the water and the bandages."

Nobody who has ever been in any man's army when it was in action is entirely without knowledge of first aid practice. I was even better than that because once, as I had told Dr. Lodge, I had taken a year of medical training. I wrapped up the injured arm fairly scientifically and poured some of the brandy onto the bandage until it was wet.

It hurt.

"Best thing in the world for you," I told Clancy. "The more it stings the safer you'll be."

I was watching Clancy's eyes. When they widened as he stared at the door I turned around.

There was Charles Ferdinand!

For once he was not immaculate. His white trousers were dirty and torn and there was a cut on his jaw.

"What's going on here?" he asked.

"Just a minor attempt at murder," I replied.

"Murder?"

"What would you call it? Some one threw a knife from outside that window."

Charles was examining the window.

"The screen is gone!" he announced as if making a discovery.

"Yes, I noticed that."

"But I've been around outside in the grounds most of the night. It's strange that I didn't see it."

The gray faced detective opened his eyes. "That is strange," he murmured.

Charles got his meaning finally. "Great Scott, you don't think I had anything to do with this, do you?"

"Well," said Clancy, "you say you was outside."

"I was. I haven't been in bed all night. You don't think this has been a very pleasant evening for me, do you?" He looked significantly at Mary who came in just then with fresh sheets and pillow cases.

"You look as if you'd been in a fight," she said impersonally.

"I have," he admitted. "I fired the ranch foreman for drawing a gun on your brother this afternoon and he didn't take it any too pleasantly."

"You mean," said Mary, "that you thrashed him because you were angry at me."

"Listen, darling, don't be too harsh. Do you think I feel very happy about the way things have happened?"

I was almost sorry for him myself.

Mary must have relented a little, too. "All right, Charles. I was critical. Sorry."

Mary looked toward the window. "I can't see why anybody should want to kill Mr. Clancy."

"Nobody did," I told her. "No one knows he was here. The knife was intended for me."

"More likely for me," suggested Charles. "I told you my room is next to this and the windows almost join. It would be easy to mistake one for the other. I don't believe it was Jim, our lamented ex-foreman, because I doubt if he was able to walk this far after we had our argument but, as a matter of fact, I've had a little trouble with some of the other help lately, too. There's H'Wang——"

"He wouldn't," Mary interrupted.

"Don't ever think he wouldn't," Charles argued. "H'Wang really hates me."

While Charles was talking he had picked up the knife. He was wiping it off carefully when Clancy happened to open his eyes.

"Don't do that," protested the detective.

Charles looked up. "I just wanted to see if I recognized it."

"Do you?"

"Well, no—not offhand. There's one like it in every guest bungalow and several in the office. We use 'em for paper cutters. Just a western touch."

Clancy groaned. "And now you've wiped off all the finger prints."

"I never thought of that."

"No?" Clancy was skeptical. "Put that pig sticker in the drawer over there. I'll look at it myself in the morning."

Charles opened the drawer of the bureau and put away the knife. Before he closed the drawer he saw the pair of handcuffs. He picked them up. "I don't remember seeing these here before," he said.

"Maybe you didn't search the place thoroughly enough before I got here," I suggested.

"I didn't search it at all."

"My mistake," I apologized, "and yours."

Charles apparently chose to ignore the implied sarcasm.

"You'd better sleep in my room yourself for the rest of the night," Charles suggested.

"Thanks—I'm not sleeping. That tourniquet has got to be loosened up every fifteen minutes to restore circulation. I can leave it off entirely after the wound stops bleeding but even then I've got to watch out for a hemorrhage. I'll sit here in a chair."

Mary had managed to get the bloody sheet out from under Clancy and replace it with a fresh one almost with the skill of a professional nurse. I suppose she had had plenty of practice with her father.

"Thanks, Miss Mary," said Clancy. "Now if you'll give me one more shot of that hell fire I think it'll put me out."

While she was administering the brandy Charles suggested wistfully to Mary, "Maybe you ought to finish up the night at our new home, dear. It'll be quiet over there and——"

"No thanks, Charles. I'll stay here now until father leaves this house for the last time." But she was gentler with him. He knew that he was in part forgiven.

"Then I'll be going," he said.

Charles left and Mary, at my insistence, went back to her own room. Clancy was half asleep, or half drunk—anyway resting more or less painlessly.

He opened his eyes part way and looked at me with a rueful smile. "Thanks for that quick trick with the picture wire—Mr. Bowman."

"It was a pleasure, Mr. Clancy."

"You saved my life."

"That makes us even. You saved mine by sleeping nearest the window. Go to sleep."

He was doing just that.

Widow Puzzled Which of Two Men to Choose

BY DORIS BLAKE.

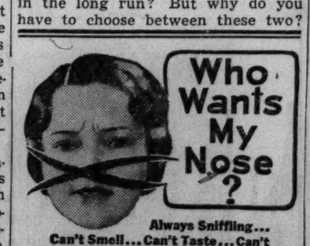
[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

A 47 year old widow confides that she ought to be old enough to solve her own problem but cannot. She has a home and a good one; an income provided by a trust fund her late departed provided. Her two children are married and living in distant parts of the country. She is alone—and lonesome.

Two men offer the woman the companionship she craves. But one is fifteen years her junior, the other ten years older. The older man, she supposes, she could get along with agreeably enough. He has some money in his own right and a business, so that would mean, the woman interprets, that he likes her for the companionship she has to offer. But the younger man appeals more to her.

The older one is settled and ideal, the woman thinks, for a fireside companion if the woman felt equally ready for it. But she doesn't. She always has loved dancing and she and her husband pursued dancing avidly even to the year of his death. She loves the theater, travel, and so on, all of which the younger man concurs with, but not the older. But, as you suspect, perhaps, the younger man hasn't made much of a success of his life to date, and probably never will.

You are right about the loneliness after the loss of a beloved mate. But is the answer to be found in a dependent sort of man years your junior? Wouldn't the other one, with all his staidness, be more compatible in the long run? But why do you have to choose between these two?



Always Sniffling... Can't Smell... Can't Taste... Can't Enjoy Anything ... Can't Breathe

Are you, too, a slave to choking mucus trickling down your throat due to colds? Is it spoiling your enjoyment of life? Is it making you feel miserable all over? Do you wake up in the morning with your nose and throat blocked with phlegm? Get some Mentholatum. This is a comforting balm containing menthol, camphor, and soothing oils. Put a little in each nostril and rub it on the throat and chest. Happy relief quickly follows. Mentholatum helps to clear out mucus and aids in clearing the breathing passages. Its soothing, cooling vapors spread through the nose and throat. This reduces the irritation and helps Nature to restore a healthier condition. Ask your druggist for Mentholatum today. Used by millions for over 40 years. In jars or tubes. 30¢.

Spoiled Child Results from Too Much Talk

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Perfect freedom for your children—never a word of criticism—nothing but praise.

Neither natural nor wise is such a scheme for rearing the young, we were saying yesterday. It makes children a nuisance to other people, and a nuisance to themselves. But just the opposite is equally bad, or almost. And oddly enough, it produces often the same sort of impossible children—disorganized as far as their own behavior and happiness are concerned, but a source of worry and humiliation to their parents, as often as they're a source of worshiping pride.

The opposite of yesterday's parents are the ones who are always doing something to their children, doing something for them, talking to them, or talking about them. At the table every mouthful is watched for nourishment, and every movement for manners.

They come back from the doctor's and every symptom is discussed, and the doctor's verdict, treatment, and conversation retailed. At night the children's actions of the day are rehearsed for their father.

They are adored and also are constantly instructed and directed, but each instruction and direction is carried out [or supposed to be] to the accompaniment of coaxing, cajoling, or in desperation, threats. They must be cultured and educated, so they are given lessons in this and that, practicing under protest.

They live under a veritable barrage of talk, directions, attention—and futility is of necessity an accompaniment of such a régime, because if those children did not rebel or calmly ignore, they would be in a sense pulled to pieces; they couldn't call their souls their own. And all due to the affectionate, overconscientiousness of two misguided parents.

Wise parents strike a fine balance between letting their children run wild with too much freedom at one end, and "riding herd" constantly at the other.

"Wholesome Neglect Is Often Cure for Undesirable Behavior" is a leaflet of interest to parents and nurses. Send a large, stamped, addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Children to Give Lincoln Play at Birthday Open House

A dress rehersal of a play, "Why Lincoln Grew a Beard," to be given by the children's laboratory theater of the Columbia College of Drama and Radio, was held yesterday in the Chicago Historical society. Under the direction of Miss Pearl Roos, the child actors appeared in authentic fashions of Lincoln's time, against a background of Lincoln relics.

Children from all Chicago schools are invited to attend the open house and play in the society auditorium next Monday. Among the society's Lincoln items are the penholder with which Lincoln signed the emancipation proclamation, the books and furnishings of his law office, and the clothing he wore the night of his assassination.

Lorraine Schuster, 8 years old, of 1310 West North Shore avenue, plays the part of the girl whose suggestion to Lincoln resulted in his growing a beard. Her sister, Dorothy, 12, takes the rôle of Mrs. Lincoln. Lincoln is portrayed by Seymour Young, 14, of 5421 Washington boulevard.

Canned Tomato Important in Low Cost Diet

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Canned tomatoes appear frequently in low cost diets planned by nutrition workers and relief authorities. This is because they are a diamond mine of health value in supplementing the cereal foods upon which low cost diets are based.

The "love apple," which once was considered poisonous, has come a long way. It has become an absolute necessity in modern dietetic meal planning.

It is best to buy a well known brand of tomatoes, or one which is known to be reliable, for there are inferior kinds on the market, too.

The simplest way to serve canned tomatoes, and one of the very best ways, is hot, with salt, a little pepper, and butter. A speck or two of sugar may be added to bring out the flavor.

Scalloped tomatoes are delicious. Drain off excess juice and save it for tomato sauce or soup. Put layers of canned tomatoes into a greased casserole alternately with layers of bread crums and sprinkle each layer with salt, pepper, and a little sugar. Dot with butter and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until thoroughly hot.

Tomatoes may be scalloped with almost any other cooked vegetable. Canned tomatoes and canned corn are an excellent combination. So are canned tomatoes and cooked cabbage, topped with toasted crums and grated cheese. And if you've never baked sauerkraut and tomatoes together you don't know what's very, very good!

Most of us wouldn't think of preparing a vegetable soup or a stew without adding tomatoes. Macaroni, rice, spaghetti, and other cereal foods have an affinity for tomatoes. Aspics and many other salads, even some pies and—yes—pies, are made with tomatoes. They creep into our meals in so many guises that we fail to realize how very much we depend upon them.

Cream of Tomato Soup

[Serves Six]

1 small onion, sliced
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
3 cups milk
3 cups sieved tomatoes [canned]

Add onion to butter and cook slowly for five minutes. Remove onion and add flour. Add salt, pepper, and milk. Stir constantly while adding milk and cook and stir until smooth and thickened. Add tomatoes, mix thoroughly, heat, and serve.

For added flavor chopped celery leaves, a little chopped green pepper or parsley, or all of them, may be cooked in the butter with the onion.

Tomato Tarts

[Serves Two]

1 cup strained tomatoes or tomato juice
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
½ lemon, juice and grated rind
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon butter

Heat tomato juice and add combined cornstarch and sugar, stirring constantly to prevent lumps. Cook until thick and clear, stirring all the time, over low heat. If the cooking is done in the top of a double boiler better results are likely. Add beaten egg yolk, stir vigorously, and remove from heat. Add lemon juice, rind, and butter. Cool slightly and turn into baked pastry shells. Top with meringue and brown in a slow oven, 325 degrees.

Youth Wants No Love Poem, Just Valentine

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

"All that my best and wildest dreams in Fancy's hour could hear or see,
Of music's sigh or beauty's beam,
Are realized at once in thee."

That's the way grandfather asked her to be his valentine. He said it, to judge from displays at the Chicago Historical society, with hearts and flowers, cupids' bows and silk edged doilies. To the beribboned missive he carefully affixed his whole name and the date presented.

Today it's easier. A popular card on loop counters says it:

"Quit yer squawkin'—you know I do!"

And another, eagerly seized by men and women:

"Take it away, a valentine, phooey! What I really want is you-ey!"

For the new valentines are, to quote a sales girl, negative. "Young people today," she analyzed, running her finger sadly over a lace-edged greeting, "just hate to be serious about love. They deliberately pick a flippant card to veil their feelings. I see them stand and look a long time at our real beauties, but they usually pass them up. Ashamed, I guess, to admit they're sentimental."

Not only are modern buyers ashamed to be sentimental but they like economy. The highest priced valentine sells for around $5. Its chief purchasers are middle-aged men of the scholarly type. Last year it could be bought for $3, and the year before $2. Before the depression it brought $15 and was a favorite.

And the gray-haired ladies and gentlemen? They buy a little red card whereon a jaunty little man lifts his brows suggestively. On the inside it says: "How's about it, Toots?"

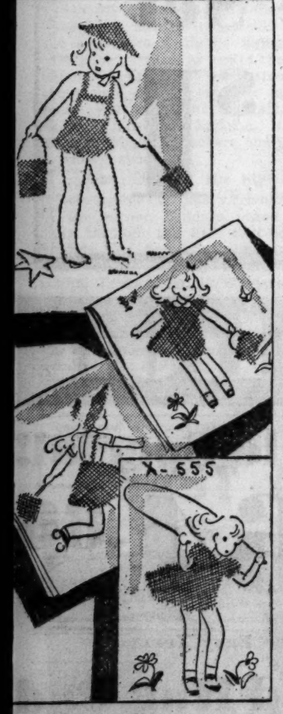
Transfer Pattern Depicts a Day in the Life of Susy



BY NANCY CABOT.

A day in the life of Susy is cleverly depicted in cross-stitch. This iron transfer pattern is essentially for little girls, and the motifs may be stamped on pockets of dresses, aprons, bibs, or used on towels, and as decorative motifs on a quilt pillow.

For the cross-stitch transfer pattern of Susy's activities, No. X-555, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue. New York City.

WEST SIDE PICKS GOLDEN GLOVES CHAMPIONS TONIGHT

SOUTH SECTION BOYS CONTINUE ELIMINATIONS

Out of Town Boxers Keep Busy.

Tonight's Program

Locations: West—Madison Athletic club, 4711 West Madison street. South—White City, 63d street and South Park avenue.

Time—First bouts at 8 p. m.

Contestants—Survivors of field of 500 boxers in open and novice divisions.

Tickets—Seventy-five cents; no reserved seats.

Boxers—Report between 4:30 and 6:30 for weighing and physical examinations.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The west side will pick its Golden Gloves champions tonight. The spectators who gather in the Madison Athletic club will watch Al Noto, Johnny Dupont, Joe Manjarez, and other spectacular fighters battle for the right to go into the Tournament of Champions, which will bring the greatest amateurs of twenty-five states together in the Stadium Feb. 27 and 28 and March 1.

On the south side also the fighting will continue tonight. It will be the third consecutive evening of eliminations in the White City arena.

In the west side finals the boxers are expected to increase the pace they have set during their three previous nights of competition. With their goal in sight, the boys are sure to put everything they have into every punch, knowing they'll have plenty of time to recuperate before the Tournament of Champions.

Veterans Get Their Chance.

With the sectional title at stake, the seasoned open division boxers can be expected to step in and slug with the vigor of the most enthusiastic novices, plus the skill they have acquired in campaigns of other years.

The novices aren't going to be left out of tonight's show in the Madison A. C. The boys who have weathered three nights of stormy fighting will be in there slugging just as recklessly as ever. Take, for instance, Joe Jackson, a colored boy competing in the 135 pound division. Joe became a strong favorite to win the championship at his weight by scoring a technical knockout over John Guidara in the third round of their bout last night.

Guidara, a red headed Italian who likes to exchange wisecracks with the spectators while he fights, had established himself as one of the most popular boys in the tournament in the course of his previous appearances. When he went up against the rugged, muscular Jackson, it was apparent that his backers had plenty to worry about.

John Changes His Style.

Leaving his customary frivolous air in the corner, Guidara boxed carefully through the first two rounds, holding his powerful opponent on even terms. Midway in the third round, Jackson caught Guidara in a corner and stunned him with a solid right to the jaw. Before the Italian could recover, the colored boy pressed his advantage and Guidara's second climbed into the ring.

Henry Leslie of the Jewish Peoples institute has established himself as

COOPER'S PLAY HELPS TO REVIVE HAWKS' SPIRITS

The Blackhawks, who returned yesterday from their Tuesday night tie with the New York Americans with the conviction that they can score on the road, will attempt to put the goal making idea into practice at home tonight, when they battle the Detroit Red Wings in the Chicago Stadium.

Since Jan. 5 the holders of the Stanley cup have played thirteen games, seven at home and six away from Stadium ice. For those seven contests in their own town the Hawks have amassed a total of four goals, spread over four games and followed by three straight shutouts. On the road they have run up the far more respectable aggregate of ten goals in six games. Nine of those ten have been pushed past opposing goalies in the last four touring arguments.

Cooper's Play Bolsters Club.

The team arrived from the 2 to 2 deadlock rally not only in better mental condition, but in probably the best physical shape it has boasted in weeks. The American game, for one item, saw the return of Coach Paul Thompson, who had been in civies for the last five games, no thanks to an injury. The New York workout was enough to put the boss back on his game in time for tonight's battle.

Other encouraging items were the performances of Johnny Gottselig and Earl Robinson, as well as the all around play of Joe Cooper, who joined the Hawks last week in a trade for Alex Levinsky. Gottselig scored the first goal Tuesday night to retain his individual league leadership with 30 points, one more than the 29 held jointly by Tommy Anderson and Sweeny Schriner of the Americans.

Haven't Beaten Wings Yet.

Beyond the business of collecting goals in any game there is the matter of making them tonight against the Wings, one of the two teams in the league the champions have not been able to set down. In five previous games the Detroit boys have beaten the Hawks four times—4-2, 4-1, 4-1, 1-0, and tied them, 3 to 3.

More distressing to the Hawks than Detroit's record against them is the Wings' progress after a start which threatened to drop them out of the league. Following that tardy getaway, Manager Jack Adams began to scour the hocky highways and byways for new material.

His greatest success came with the purchase from Boston of Tiny Thompson, brother of Paul and one of the great doormen of the game's history. As far as rookies are concerned, no amount of shifting of at least a dozen aspirants has produced more than two regulars, Gus Giesebrecht and Jack Stewart.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

MAL ELWARD'S Purdue football team will play five games next season against opponents who use the Notre Dame system—Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan State, Santa Clara, and Notre Dame. . . . President Joseph F. Carr, who last summer was critically ill of a heart ailment, was the first of the National Professional Football league executives to reach Chicago for the winter meeting, which opens today. . . . Chairman Joe Triner and Commissioner James R. Fitzpatrick of the Illinois Boxing commission have buried the hatchet, if that's what they do with it these days. . . . Joe Medwick has asked sports writers to call him Muscles instead of Ducky hereafter. . . . Cap Anson of the old Chicago White Stockings batted .394 in 1894 when he was 42 years old. . . . Harry Grabiner, vice president of the White Sox, will leave for Pasadena, the club's training base, today. . . . Jimmy Dykes already is on the grounds. . . . There seems to be two points of view on the talents of Tony Galento. . . . Gene Tunney says he is the best of the heavyweight challengers, which is a boost or a knock depending upon your own interpretation, and Joe Louis says, "He's a third rater. Four rounds would be his limit against me." . . . Bill Hapac of Illinois, one of the Big Ten's leading basketball scorers, recently led his Sigma Chi brothers to the intra-mural bowling championship with games of 214, 218, and 230.

Cecil Isbell and Clem Woltman of last year's All-Star football squad have returned to Purdue for post-graduate work. . . . In returning his unsigned contract to the Cards, Gutteridge announced he wasn't a holdout, but a holdoff. . . . Gene Sarazen favors a tax on all golfers, professional and amateur, to provide a suitable purse for the national open. . . . Charley Ruffing thinks Joe Di Maggio would hit a hundred home runs into the left field stands at Briggs stadium if he were playing with the Tigers. . . . Mike Casteel, new coach at Arizona, won four letters each in track, baseball, and football at Kalamazoo college. . . . Fred Swan, Temple's new head coach, ran away to sea at 14. . . . When the Primrose Faded.

Time lends enchantment to forgotten dreams
When some quick word recalls a golden hour—
Love's mellowed pages filled with poignant themes
Open like the petals of a flower—
Once more together we go hand in hand
Along that stardust lane all lovers know,
Just then we were too young to understand
When the primrose faded even love must go—
But for awhile you held within your palms
A whirl of dreams—a sunburst fantasy—
Love's bright young courage asked life for no alms
But took its one grand fling at ecstasy.
Now looking to the past where memories lie,
I know 'tis best that some of them must die.

When in Doubt, Punt.

Mattias Volz, former Nebraska basketball player now officiating Big Six conference games, recently was invited to address a group of eleven year old Lincoln boys on football and basketball rules. He gave a snappy talk with some sound advice on clean living and right thinking tossed in at no extra charge and then invited questions from the future athletes. With rules books in his pocket Volz figured he was prepared for anything, but he was left pawing the air when the first query put to him was, "Mr. Volz, why is it that girls always cheat?" —J. C. W.

IT'S DISCUSSION TIME FOR PRO FOOTBALL MEN

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The National Football league will open its twentieth executive meeting in the Congress hotel today. During the next four days the owners, assisted by their coaches and business managers, will draft the 1939 schedule, consider rule changes, elect officers and ponder varied suggestions for further advancement of an idea that in twenty seasons developed into a $1,500,000 a year business.

Except for customary arguments and four faces, there is little about National league meetings today that resembles those spirited sessions back in the pioneer days of professional football. Then owners were pre-occupied with convincing each other they had the necessary capital to carry on and that in professional football they really had something worthwhile.

Among delegates to today's meeting only Joseph F. Carr, league president; George Halas, owner-coach of the Bears; Curley Lambeau, coach of the Green Bay Packers, and Carl Storck, secretary and treasurer of the league, have been present at each of the nineteen previous sessions.

Richards Won't Attend.

Nine of the franchise holders will be here. George A. Richards of Detroit, the tenth owner, has been ordered by physicians to remain in Palm Springs, Cal., where he has been recovering from a heart ailment. William Alfs, vice president, Bud Shaver, business manager, and the team's new coaches, Gloomy Gus Henderson and Hunk Anderson, will represent the Lions.

Principal action expected to be taken during the four day convention includes vetoing a longer season; scheduling of more night games, especially in the early part of the season to make possible an earlier date for the championship playoff; reëlection of Carr and Storck on long term contracts; reorganization of the league's publicity setup; minor rule changes, including adoption of the changes made by the collegiate rules chiefs, and official designation of the New York Giants as the 1938 champions.

Some Trades Possible.

There also may be some trades involving outstanding players and several owners are of a mind to press action for the improvement of officiating. Among the suggestions on the officiating question are the drawing up of a season's schedule to replace the week to week appointments and the certifying of all officials.

Another suggestion provides for the production of a movie made up of disputed plays and incidents where officials erred. This would be used to instruct officials. It would be assembled from the motion pictures each team makes of its games.

Trafic Crash Kills Race Pilot Bill Cummings

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—William [Wild Bill] Cummings, who drove hundreds of perilous miles on motor speedways from coast to coast without a mishap, died today as a result of a trafic accident. He was 32 years old.

Cummings failed to regain consciousness after his automobile plowed through the steel guard rail of a bridge over Lick creek on state highway 29 southeast of Indianapolis Monday night. The car bounded over several trees and plunged to the opposite bank of a small ravine. His body landed in water. He suffered numerous fractures and an emergency brain operation late last night failed to benefit him.

Funeral on Saturday.

Funeral services will be held here Saturday at 2 p. m. Drivers, mechanics and other friends of his racing days will be pallbearers. Among the survivors are his wife, Mrs. Leoda Cummings, his mother, Mrs. Arminta Brown, and a daughter, Earlene, 8.

Cummings became interested in racing as a boy, when he lived in close proximity to the Indianapolis speedway. From the front yard of his home, he could hear the drone of racing motors.

Consistent on Speedway.

The first time he drove in the 500 mile race in 1930 he finished fifth. In 1932 he was forced out with motor trouble on the 157th lap. In 1933 he was the pacesetter up to seventy-five miles, but mechanical trouble again forced him to quit. He won the 1934 event with an average speed of 104.863 miles an hour, a new record. He was third in 1935.

Cummings had a reputation for versatility. He raced a motorcycle, competed in dirt track events and was an expert mechanic.

BOXER ROPER GETS A BREAK IN HIS OLD AGE

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 8.—(AP)—For the benefit of those who don't know, and they seem to be in the majority, Jack Roper is a heavyweight fighter and the man Mike Jacobs, Tom Gallery and fate selected as the next opponent for Joe Louis.

Roper was born 36 years ago in Ponchatoula, La., and christened Cecil Byron Hammond. He gave up three names and original good looks, as well as Ponchatoula, in time, and adopted the ring name of his more illustrious brother, Capt. Bob Roper, when he started fighting along about 1924.

His Geography—or Memory—Poor.

Roper thinks his first appearance inside the ropes was here, but says it might have been in Norfolk, Va., or even New York because he often gets places confused.

The record books, even the old, yellowed ones, fail to shed much light on his career, and it wasn't until 1937 that he bothered to have his efforts for that year recorded for posterity. It was a spotty list of achievements, at that, and includes two knockouts, one loss by a knockout, and one decision. Arturo Godoy stopped him in seven rounds in New York.

Worked as Movie Extra.

In 1938, dividing his time between the ring and odd jobs as laborer and extra in Hollywood picture plants, Roper got some of his managerial troubles straightened out, flattened Patsy Perroni and Eddie Simms, and decisioned Jorge Brescia and a couple of others without trouble.

Roper meets Junior Munsell of Oklahoma in Hollywood stadium Friday night.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Loyola university's Ramblers, only undefeated major basketball team in the central states, kept their record clean last night and ran their season's string of victories to fifteen in a row. This, however, was no ordinary triumph for the Ramblers, for it was scored by a count of 36 to 26 over their favorite foes, De Paul's Blue Demons, in the presence of 12,000 in Chicago Stadium.

The game was the third in the new series between the north side universities, and the third straight the Ramblers had won, thereby giving them permanent possession of the Bishop Sheil trophy. Proceeds of the contest went to the fund for underprivileged youth conducted by the Catholic Youth organization, of which Bishop Sheil is the founder and director.

It's a Rough Battle.

This third battle between the Ramblers and Demons lacked none of the thrills of its predecessors in the Stadium. It was by far the roughest contest of the threesome. Thirty-two fouls were called, sixteen on each team. Out of these penalties rose the ejection of three members of Loyola's eight man squad — Mike Novak, who never had gone out of a game on fouls before this season; Wibs Kautz and George Wenskus. They were joined by Chet Tollstam and Ted Skrodzki of De Paul before the night was over.

George Hogan, Loyola forward who has been kept in the background through the effensive value of Novak and Kautz, led all scorers with thirteen points. Before they left the game, Novak contributed ten points, and Kautz six. Bob Neu, De Paul's leading scorer, and Ed Sachs tied at seven points each for the Demons.

Second Half Attack Clicks.

Loyola, held to an 18 to 14 lead in the first half and actually trailing by two points twice before that, began to work much more smoothly in the second period. It was ahead throughout that session.

The Ramblers can thank their accuracy at free throw tossing for a great part of their margin. They connected fourteen times from the penalty line, while the Demons were missing ten chances therefrom.

Loyola will return to action tonight,

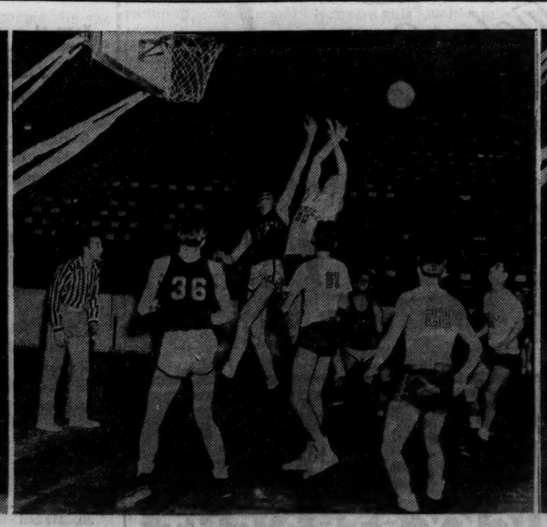
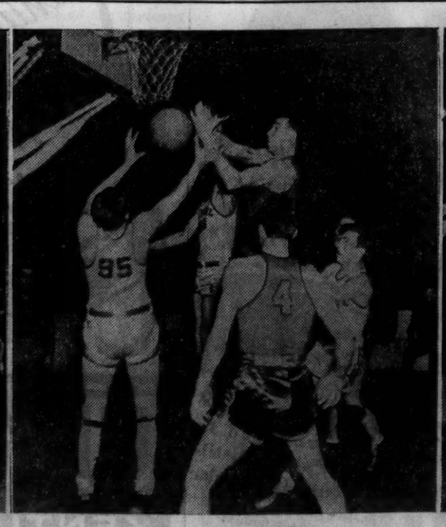
Theodore Heliotes (right) whips Harold Tilley in 126 pound novice bout of South Side Golden Gloves in White City last night.



A thrilling moment in the Mount Carmel-St. Philip High school basketball game in the Stadium last night. Mount Carmel beat its Catholic league rival, 28 to 27.



Ted Strodzki (95) of De Paul breaks up a Loyola play in the annual intra-city battle in the Stadium. Unbeaten Loyola triumphed, 36 to 26.

the boy the 160 pound novice champion will have to beat. Following up brilliant performances in his earlier appearances, he knocked out John Mahoney of the Super A. C. in the first round last night.

This Was a Riot.

Nathan Smith and George Howard put on a Hollywood comedy stunt by knocking each other down simultaneously with rights to the chin. Both got up, however, and Smith went on to win the decision.

The crowd in White City did not have to wait long to start cheering. The opening bout of the evening between two novice 126 pounders was full of action. First Rene Thompson of the Three Masters club and then Stephen Torley, representing the Y. M. C. A., gained the upper hand and when the third round had ended, Thompson was declared the winner of the slambang affair by the narrowest of margins.

Another interesting bout in the 126 pound novice division paired Nicholas Demos and John Grossi. Grossi employed a dangerous left hook, but Demos pecked with a straight left and dropped over enough right crosses to catch the eye of the judges.

Later in the evening Demos gave Thompson a three round beating. His sharp rights and lefts appeared to be better than ever.

The crowd raised the roof when Jerry Di Georgi of Berwyn had his hand raised in token of victory in a novice lightweight battle. Jimmy Donaldson peppered him aplenty for two rounds, but in the third superior stamina and punching power earned Di Georgi the verdict, and it was a popular one.

These Boys Are Good

Two novice 126 pound boys looked particularly good. Chico Alvarado, Mexican boy from the Savoy A. C., needed only a fraction of one round to dispose of Edward Wilcox, unattached, and Walter Blanchard of the C. Y. O. displayed a real punch in scoring a two round technical knockout over Ned Russell, unattached.

In his second fight of the evening Alvarado was extended to punch out a decision over Albert Reasoner of the C. Y. O. It was one of the best fights on the south side last night.

Chicago boxers of the northwest and north sides have not yet received the starting signal. The northwest event will open next Wednesday in Marigold Gardens and will run for three consecutive nights. The north side will pick its team in three evenings of fighting beginning Feb. 20 in Loyola gymnasium.

Meanwhile fighting was in progress in many of the forty-seven out of town centers where newspapers are cooperating with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in sponsoring Golden Gloves. The winners in each of these centers will join the Chicago sectional title holders in the Tournament of Champions.

Set Feb. 25, 26 as Badminton Tourney Dates

With a field of more than 300 assured, the Midwest badminton tournament will be held on Feb. 25 and 26 in Evanston High school, it was announced yesterday by William Lenhar, president of the Midwest Badminton association. The tourney was held at the same place last year, with 262 competing.

Stars of member clubs from eight states—Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Indiana, Missouri, and Arkansas—will bid for the various championships. Preliminaries will be played the first day, semi-finals and finals on the following day.

Henry Raynolds of the Lawson Y. M. C. A., is defending singles champion. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Markt of the Chicago Badminton club will try to repeat in the mixed doubles. Mrs. Markt also is women's singles champion and, paired with Miss Neva Haas, is defending champion in the women's doubles. Boyd Anderson and George Bent of Skokie Badminton club are men's doubles titlists.

Entries will close Feb. 18 with only members of the association eligible. Headquarters will be in the Georgian hotel in Evanston. The women's auxiliary of the Evanston Hospital association will share in the proceeds.

The national badminton championships will be held in New York March 23, 24, and 25, with winners of the tournament here competing.

Simmons Eager to Make Debut in National League

Bradenton, Fla., Feb. 8.—(AP)—The National league has been called a lot of things, but it remained for Al Simmons today to give it a fountain-of-youth tag.

Al, a veteran of fifteen years in the American, was all pepped up about his forthcoming debut as a National leaguer with the Boston Bees.

"The National league," said Al, "is going to be as new and as mysterious to me as the majors are to a rookie coming into the big leagues for the first time."

Simmons, a star outfielder for Connie Mack's Athletics for years and later with Chicago, Detroit and Washington, has leased a home here to await the opening of the Bees' training season.

"I am happy over the change in leagues and believe it is going to mean a lot to me," Simmons declared. "It's going to be something new and should be an incentive to my playing."

Simmons and Danny MacFayden, mainstay of the Bees' hurling staff, will work out together in the Bees' park here until the rest of the squad arrives.

The Monarchs won two games from Schlitz, the last game by two pins. In winning two games from the Pabst Blue Ribbons, the Power House Candy Bars tied Schlitz for fourth place. The Thompson Restaurants won all three games from the Baby Ruth Candies to gain a tie with the losers for third place. The Prager Beers took two from the Ambrosia Beers.

meeting St. Thomas of St. Paul, Minn., in the Loyola gymnasium.

Prep Game a Thriller.

Those collegiate fans who disdained the preliminary game between two Catholic High School league teams missed one of the thrillers of the season. Those who came in time to watch the last quarter saw a fighting St. Philip team put on a rally against Mount Carmel, which fell short at the final gun by one point, the south siders winning, 28 to 27.

Mount Carmel dominated the play through the first three-quarters, leading 8 to 3, 14 to 9, and 26 to 15. Thereupon Sol Rizzo, St. Philip guard, went to work. He dropped in three straight field goals to run the count to 28 to 21, watched Vince Costello add another and then dropped another through himself. Ray Elzewski then came through to run the score to 28 to 27 with a minute to go. All of these points were accomplished in three and a half minutes. Thereafter Rizzo hit the hoop three times, but the ball would not stop long enough to drop. Rizzo and Jack Hernon of Mount Carmel, led the scoring, each collecting five baskets and one free throw.

WALTHOUR AND CROSSLEY PLOT A BIKE 'DOUBLE'

Al Crossley and Jimmy Walthour, the leading American twosome in six-day bicycle racing, arrived yesterday with announced intentions of putting over a double victory in the long grind opening Sunday night in the Chicago stadium. Crossley and Walthour said that they would like mightily to repeat the victory they scored in the Cleveland race Tuesday.

The two Americans, who have been riding together since 1934, bided their time until the race was well nigh over. With an hour remaining, they pulled themselves up even in mileage with the combinations of Gustav Kilian and Jules Audy and Cecil Yates and Henry O'Brien.

Walthour Engineers a Sneak.

The last two named pairs went into a sprinting duel for points, which lasted for half an hour. After a particularly hard dash between Kilian and Yates, Walthour shot out of the pack and began the jamming which resulted in giving Crossley and himself their eventual advantage.

It was the thirteenth six day decision for Walthour, who leads all other American born riders in the sport, and the tenth for Crossley.

Another arrival yesterday was Harry Mendel, the Jersey maestro who supervises the conduct of big league bike racing. Mr. Mendel was in alternate frames of mind throughout the day. He was happy because of the presence of such names in the forthcoming race as Crossley, Walthour, the Brothers Peden, Yates, Kilian, and Heinz Vopel.

Mendel Lends Helping Hand.

Then came a wire from Ellis Island, where authorities are detaining Ferdinando Grillo, the Italian youth who finished well up in the Stadium race two years ago. Ferdinando had just arrived from Buenos Aires, where he competed in a race. He was in need of a bond to cover his entry and ultimate arrival in the Stadium. Mr. Mendel solved the situation by attending to the bond.

M'SPADEN GETS A 59 IN TUNEUP FOR TEXAS OPEN

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Harold [Jug] McSpaden, Boston pro, warmed up for the $5,000 Texas open tournament today by shooting a 59—12 under par—to break the old Brackenridge course record by five shots. Fred Corcoran, tournament manager, said the round broke all P. G. A. records for par 71 courses.

McSpaden clipped seven strokes off the first nine with never a putt more than 10 feet from the cup, and then coasted in with five birdies and four pars on the incoming nine. Previously Abe Espinosa had cracked out a 63 to better the old course record by one stroke.

Kokomo Sue.

When our Sue got out of jail
She was looking very pale,
And she had but little cash in her exchequer;
She was hunting for a job
When a lubricated gob
Took her for a former flame and tried to neck her.

She let fly her trusty bag
And she saw the sailor sag,
Then she grabbed his fancy walking stick and beat him;
But she didn't tarry long,
For she saw among the throng
A policeman, and she didn't want to meet him.

Like an eagle Sue took wing,
[Stoplights didn't mean a thing]
cars far behind her;
To her boarding house she fled
Where she hid beneath the bed,
And it took her landlord several days to find her.

She was down to her last buck,
And she realized that luck
Had forsaken her the day she hit the city;
Would she write to Kokomo
Asking pappy for some dough?
I should say not, she was far too proud and gritty.

She would make a final try,
This time it was do or die;
If she failed she'd eat a stick of dynamite;
And the first time she should sneeze
She'd go bye bye on the breeze,
And they'd speak of her as

ENTRY LIST FOR RACQUETS MEET BREAKS RECORD

All player entry records in the thirty year history of the competition have been broken by the list for the thirty-first annual United States Squash Racquets association championship tournament which will open Saturday. More than twenty of the country's top ranking singles entries are in, according to C. Wallace Johnson, chairman, and thirteen city teams, comprising sixty-five players, are assured.

The 1939 national play, which is coming to Chicago for the second time in the history of the game, will consist of three divisions. The national singles championship will be decided in the Lake Shore Athletic club, where the tournament headquarters have been established. The five man team title will be decided in the Chicago Athletic association, and the national veterans tourney, for players over 40, is scheduled for the Racquet club courts.

A wide open battle for the 1939 national singles championship has been produced by the decision of Germain Glidden not to defend his title. The seeded players will be named and the draw for tournament position held on Saturday morning.

Among the leading challengers for the singles title are Stanley Galowin of New York, ambidexterous star and winner of the New York state championship; Bernard Ridder of New York, winner of the 1939 metropolitan title last week; Donald Strachan of Philadelphia, who captured the Pennsylvania state championship last Sunday, and Neil Sullivan of Philadelphia, a former national titleholder.

The singles competition will include the three top ranking intercollegiate players, Stanley W. Pearson of Princeton, Malcolm Muir Jr. of Yale, and Kin de Souza Canavarro of Harvard.

U. S. AMATEURS SUFFER FIRST HOCKY DEFEAT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASLE, Switzerland, Feb. 8.—America's hocky team suffered its first defeat today in the world amateur tournament, losing to Switzerland, 3 to 2. Switzerland did not have to work for its goals. The Americans kicked two into the net and the third was given to Switzerland by Referee Sachs because the cage had been moved.

The United States squad scored both its goals in the opening period. George Quirk of Providence, R. I., missed a good shot, but Alan Dan of St. Paul fired it into the net in the seventh minute of play. Six minutes later Art Bogue of Detroit scored to put the Americans in front, 2 to 0.

NEIGHBORS KICK BUT SHIBE PARK GETS NIGHT BALL

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Philadelphia's zoning board agreed today to permit major league baseball at night, over the protests that howling fans would disturb sleep and wake babies.

The board heard the complaints, then approved an application for construction of light towers at Shibe park, home lot of the American league Athletics and National league Phillies. The teams will play night games this year for the first time.

"We're all up in arms about this," Mrs. William H. Liebrich told the board. "Whether we'll take this into court, we can't say right now."

Her home is across the street from the park. Others in the neighborhood had protests of their own, but Mrs. Liebrich wanted to know what privacy she'd have in a bedroom, facing the park, illuminated by eight flood lights.

Some of the objectors were afraid they might be struck by over the fence drives some hot summer night as they sat on their porches.

GULFSTREAM TO OPEN WHEN BOSS FINDS THE CASH

Miami, Fla., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—John C. Horning, president of Gulfstream Park race track, which closed Monday after running only four days of its forty day meeting, today said he still is working on plans to reopen the plant and is very sure that racing would be resumed within a few days.

Horning, who already has spent more than $1,000,000 on the park, is searching frantically for cash — the necessary bank roll to operate and pay off horsemen, workmen, and officials. The track was forced to close when Harry Fink, who was supplying money for the mutuel rooms, withdrew his cash. Fink said he did not want his money held up, although the bank roll really was in no danger.

HUNTERS TO HEAR DUCK BREEDING PROJECT CHIEF

Canadian to Tell Story of Program.

BY BOB BECKER.

How Ducks Unlimited, a nonprofit organization for American wildfowlers, increased the supply of ducks by nearly 1,500,000 this past season and what it plans to do during 1939 to improve duck hunting will be explained to Chicagoland duck hunters at a luncheon meeting next Tuesday at the Hotel Sherman. State officials of Ducks Unlimited expect this open meeting of duck hunters to be the largest gathering of its kind ever held in the city.

L. H. Barkhausen, chairman of Ducks Unlimited for Illinois, has arranged for Thomas C. Main, general manager of the Ducks Unlimited [in Canada] to give a first hand report of what was done last season to establish breeding grounds for ducks and geese in Canadian marshes. Since 85 per cent of all the wild ducks shot each season in the United States are hatched in Canada, the work of Ducks Unlimited is concentrated there.

Tells Story with Pictures.

"Mr. Main will bring stereopticon slides of the important restoration projects which Ducks Unlimited has launched in Canada," said Mr. Barkhausen yesterday. "His address will be in the nature of an illustrated talk which will show what is being done in Canada to grow more ducks so that we will have duck hunting in years to come. Mr. Main will answer any questions Illinois duck shooters may want to ask."

The meeting will start at 12:15 o'clock and luncheon will be served for $1.50. Ducks Unlimited officials state that all hunters are invited. Mr. Main will tell about the destruction of duck nesting grounds in Canada and how Ducks Unlimited now is building dams to impound waters in marshes, and restoring abandoned drainage areas to give waterfowl their most important need—a protected place to nest and raise their families.

Americans' Help Needed.

Mr. Main visited Chicago several weeks ago to meet with the Illinois officials of Ducks Unlimited. We met him at that time and heard his amazing and discouraging report on what has happened to millions of acres of former ideal duck breeding marshes in the Canadian provinces. This story also will be told by Mr. Main and how the help of American sportsmen is needed to restore the marshes to the birds.

GALENTO WILL BATTLE NOVA, FARR OR BAER

New York, Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Herman Taylor, Philadelphia promoter, and Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Sporting club today started plans to send Tony Galento, Newark, N. J., heavyweight, against either Lou Nova, Tommy Farr, or Max Baer.

Joe Jacobs, manager of Galento, and Taylor, who holds an option on the boxer's services, said Tony is ready to fight at once. A definite announcement will be made within a few days, Jacobs said.

MARSHALL FIELD NET $3,492,238; ALL UNITS EARN

Believe Dividends May Be Resumed.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Every division of Marshall Field & Co. operated at a profit in 1938, Frederick D. Corley, president, announced last night. The net profit from all sources was $3,492,238. In the preceding year the company had a net loss of $1,654,451.

Frederick D. Corley.

The 1938 profit was equal to $1.04 on each share of the company's common stock after full provision for dividends on the preferred shares, including the unpaid accumulations.

The results achieved in 1938, it was learned, will probably result in an early resumption in dividends on preferred shares and a possible payment on the common stock.

Report Tells Progress.

Outstanding in the progress made by the company in 1938 were three developments recounted by President Corley in his report to stockholders. They were:

1. Reorganization of the manufacturing division and the elimination of unprofitable lines was completed. This division, which had sapped the profits of other branches of the business for many years, operated at a profit in 1938 of $138,165. A loss of $5,679,209 was incurred on manufacturing activities in 1937.

2. The real estate division, which includes the Merchandise Mart, operated at a profit. It was the first time the company has realized a profit on this branch of the business since the mart was built in 1930. At the year-end the mart was 80 per cent rented, more than 70 per cent of the space being occupied by tenants other than Marshall Field & Co.

Cash Position Improved.

3. The cash position of the company was greatly strengthened. After paying off $4,000,000 in bank loans the company ended 1938 with $9,623,954 in cash and short term government securities. A year earlier such resources amounted to $2,225,868.

The directors, it is believed, will vote to pay off all dividend arrearages on the preferred shares before the annual meeting in April. If the present rate of business is maintained, it is also held not unlikely that a dividend will be voted on the common stock. The last dividend on the common was paid in 1931.

At the end of 1938 dividends accrued on the preferred stocks amounted to $1,339,579. The amount owing on the prior preferred stock is $5.25 a share; on the 6 per cent cumulative preferred, $4.50 a share. Dividends were paid on these shares for the first quarter of 1938, and none thereafter.

$79,648,166 of Goods Sold.

Goods sold by the company in 1938 totaled $79,648,166 [net]. This compared with $97,641,740 in 1937. If the 1937 figures are adjusted to eliminate lines no longer handled, the net decrease for 1938 amounted to $7,280,789, or approximately 8 per cent.

Retail operations, the major branch of the business, resulted in a profit in 1938 of $3,940,095. This was smaller than in 1937, when profit from retail activities totaled $5,029,090. In that year, however, losses in other divisions completely absorbed the retail profit and resulted in a final net loss on all operations.

The reduced retail profit in 1938 arose from a combination of factors, President Corley said.

Expense Ratio Higher.

Sales were smaller [by 6 per cent]; there was a slight reduction in the rate of profit per dollar of goods sold and a small increase in the ratio of expense.

Merchandise sold at lower prices in 1938, accounting in part for the smaller dollar volume of sales. Goods moved slowly early in the year, but gradually improved until December, when dollar sales in the State street store and the seven other retail units reached the highest level for that month in seven years.

The actual volume of business handled in the retail stores during the entire year was larger than in 1937, despite the lower dollar sales, President Corley said.

Calls Outlook Encouraging.

"We handled more sales transactions during 1938 than in the previous year," he said. "During the Christmas season the number of transactions was the largest in the history of the Chicago and suburban stores. These stores mailed more statements to customers during the year and for the month of December than for any comparable periods in the past. The continued upward trend in this respect is encouraging."

Merchandise inventories of the retail division amounted to $9,417,036 at the year end, lower than in 1937 and 1936. The inventory, President Corley said, is in excellent condition and conservatively valued. Cost or market prices, whichever were lower, were used in arriving at the value of the inventory.

President Corley said the company has now completed the major job of liquidating certain manufacturing lines which was begun several years

Ward's Sales in Last Year Set New Peak

Sales of Montgomery Ward & Co. in the fiscal year ended Jan. 31 were the highest in dollar volume in its history, the company reported yesterday. The turnover of $432,813,501 was 0.06 per cent larger than the previous peak of $432,539,796 in the preceding year.

January sales were the highest on the company's record for that month, reaching $24,768,545, an increase of 13.41 per cent over $21,840,243 in January, 1938. The rise in retail volume was the sharpest monthly gain since July, 1937, the company said.

Sales Increase Is Broad.

"Sales increases were general throughout the various lines of merchandise during the last month," the company's report said. "January sales gains were obtained in all the major territorial sections of the country with the mid-central, north central, and west coast territories showing the strongest trend."

The physical volume of goods sold in the fiscal year was more than 5 per cent above that of the preceding year. The price levels were lower in the latest year.

Spiegel, Inc., Chicago mail order concern, reported January net sales totaled $2,202,150, an increase of 28 per cent from the $1,720,410 in the same month a year ago.

Kress Total Is Lower.

S. H. Kress company, variety store chain, said sales last month totaled $5,055,466, a drop of 2 per cent from $5,158,590 in January, 1938. Another variety chain, the G. C. Murphy company reported sales in January were $2,684,535, an increase of 7.8 per cent.

GENERAL MOTORS JANUARY SALES RISE OVER 1938

New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Sales of General Motors cars and trucks to consumers in the United States in January totaled 88,865 units, compared with 118,888 in December, and 63,069 in January, 1938. Sales to dealers in the United States last month were 116,964 units, against 150,005 in December and 56,938 in January, 1938.

Total sales to dealers in the United States and Canada and overseas shipments were 152,746 in January, against 187,609 in December and 94,267 a year ago.

The combined sales of the corporation in January were the second highest for that month in its history.

January retail sales of the Buick division of the General Motors corporation broke all records for that month, W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager, reported. Retail deliveries by dealers totaled 12,977 units compared with 11,285 in January, 1926, the previous high for the month.

STYLE AND TRADE SHOWS' BUYERS MORE NUMEROUS

The number of out-of-town buyers attending the style and trade shows of the Interstate Merchants' council is 20 to 35 per cent larger than a year ago, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday. The association organizes and sponsors the council's twice yearly shows.

Officials of numerous Chicago mercantile establishments and of the sixteen trade shows and merchandise exhibits, said that although it was too early to make definite statements, preliminary checks indicated that the dollar volume of business was running ahead of last year.

Brazil Orders 15 Planes from Waco Aircraft Co.

Dayton, O., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—The Brazilian government has placed an order for fifteen planes and spare parts costing about $225,000 with the Waco Aircraft company, it was announced here today. Delivery from the company's plant at Troy, O., is scheduled to begin in sixty days. This is the second order received by the company from Brazil within six months.

UTILITIES POWER PLAN TO REORGANIZE FILED; HEARING TO BE FEB. 11

The amended plan for the reorganization of the Utilities Power and Light corporation, which on Tuesday was submitted to the Securities and Exchange commission, yesterday was accepted for filing in the United States District court in Chicago by Judge William H. Holly. Utilities Power and Light is a Chicago utility holding company once headed by Harley L. Clarke.

Judge Holly set Feb. 11 as the time limit for the filing of objections to the plan by creditors. On that date a hearing on objections will be held before Harry N. Gottlieb, special master in chancery.

The new plan provides for the conversion of the company from an operating as well as holding company into an investment company. In compliance with the public utilities holding company act the new company will own not more than 10 per cent of the voting securities in any single public utility holding or operating company.

SOUTH. PACIFIC ESTIMATES ITS '39 NET AT 6 MILLION

The Southern Pacific railroad estimated yesterday it would have a net income of $6,110,000 in 1939, compared with a net loss of $6,698,500 in 1938.

It made the estimate in an application to the interstate commerce commission for permission to borrow $8,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. It seeks the loan to meet maturing equipment certificates and interest on funded debt falling due between April 28 and June 30.

The road estimated it will have a 10 per cent increase in freight revenues in 1939 over 1938 and a 5 per cent increase in passenger revenues, with an increase of 2 per cent in operating expenses. The company said it had $20,000,000 of bank loans falling due Nov. 1 and that it had been unable to obtain further loans from private sources.

The Southern railway reported that its indicated net loss for 1938 was $497,772. In 1937 the road had a net income of $805,921, equal to $1.34 a share on the preferred stock.

ASSOCIATED GAS QUIZ IS HALTED TO STUDY BOOKS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—The federal power commission today suddenly halted its investigation of the Associated Gas and Electric Utilities system pending further study of books of its service companies.

Examiner Frank A. Hampton recessed the three week old hearing indefinitly at the request of Lambert McCallister, commission counsel.

Government aids said the recess might continue from two months to two years, depending on the condition of the books and the assistance given in tracing certain items.

Since 1935 the commission has been trying to trace whatever financial or managerial connection may have existed prior to 1939 between A. G. & E. and companies which sold it consultant tax, engineering and other services. Efforts are being made to show whether H. C. Hopson, reputed head of Associated Gas, also owned and controled fourteen such service companies which sold services to Associate Gas.

RECEIVER THREAT GIVEN NEBRASKA POWER PROJECT

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 8.—(AP)—K. Sewell Wingfield, chief Public Works administration engineer for Nebraska, warned the PWA-financed North Loup river public power and irrigation district today that if lack of power revenues keep the district from meeting obligations the project "will undoubtedly be thrown into receivership."

Wingfield answered an inquiry by Roy W. Hudson, president of the district, as to whether the project may expect operation funds from the government if there is a lack of power revenue. He said, "the answer, in my opinion, will undoubtedly be no."

Last Aug. 1 the district began furnishing power purchased from the Platte valley public power and irrigation district, another PWA-financed project, to the cities of Ord and Burwell. On Jan. 18 the cities repudiated the contract, charging the service was not satisfactory.

Insull Utility 4% Payment Recommended

Payment of a 4 per cent liquidating dividend to holders of $57,644,000 of debentures of Insull Utility Investment, Inc., was recommended yesterday to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson by Attorney Garfield Charles, special master in chancery. The payment, subject to the approval of the court, would be the first since the defunct Insull investment company was placed in receivership in April, 1932.

Garfield Charles.

The special master's report said that $3,082,326 is on hand in the corporation's equity estate, and another $2,000,000 is ready for disbursement in a bankruptcy suit against the corporation. The dividend recommended would amount to $2,305,760. If approved by the court, payments will start Feb. 28.

Approval Is Expected.

Attorneys representing the debenture holders said yesterday that they expected Judge Wilkerson to act favorably on Master Charles' report. They pointed out that a payment previously recommended had been withheld in favor of payment of fees in litigation of the corporation, and that last December the court had authorized partial payment of fees.

The funds were placed in the equity and bankruptcy accounts held by trustees following settlement, more than a year ago, through which New York and Chicago banks turned over about $5,000,000. The banks had been sued by debenture holders who charged the institutions with receiving nearly all of the securities of two Insull investment companies as collateral for loans made in violation of restrictive clauses in the debentures.

Made Payment Last July.

The other defunct Insull company is Corporation Securities company. A dividend of 4¾ per cent was paid last July to holders of $19,000,000 of debentures of Corporation Securities company.

The previous Insull Utility Investment payment recommended called for a liquidating dividend of 3 per cent. This was denied, however, by Federal Judge William H. Holly, who ruled that partial payment would be an unnecessary expense at that time. The court held further that a larger payment could be made later after fees and expenses in connection with the settlement were determined. The final liquidating dividend will not be paid until after Dec. 31, 1942, the deadline set by the court for the filing of claims.

COURT WEIGHS UTILITY 'PRUDENT' VALUING PLAN

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—The Supreme court took under consideration today a request by Pennsylvania and the department of justice that it approve the "prudent investment" theory of valuing public utilities for rate making purposes.

This would mean a departure from the system in vogue for forty years, under which reproduction costs must be considered in arriving at fair values. The "prudent investment" theory has been advocated by President Roosevelt.

Guy K. Bard, special counsel for Pennsylvania, advocated the change while arguing in favor of an order by the Pennsylvania utility commission directing the Edison Light and Power company of York, Pa., to reduce temporarily its revenue by $435,000 a year.

LOWER PROFITS IN 1938 SHOWN BY BIG FIRMS

Some Have Larger Losses than in 1937.

Losses from 1938 operations or lower earnings for the year as compared with 1937 were reported yesterday by a number of widely known companies. These included American Woolen company, J. G. Brill company, car manufacturer, and the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies Steamship Lines, which had losses. The Industrial Rayon corporation and Niles-Bement-Pond had lower earnings.

Charles J. Hardy reports J. G. Brill's profits fall.

American Woolen's net loss for 1938 was $4,911,502 after charges and depreciation and losses on capital assets sold or scrapped. The 1937 loss was $1,854,902, which included an inventory loss of $4,022,989.

The 1938 loss was the result almost entirely of unprofitable operations in the first half of the year, Moses Pendleton, president, told the stockholders. In that period there was a sharp decline in both demand and prices. Pendleton said there was a decided improvement in the last half of the year.

Price Trend Reversed.

"Net sales increased to $25,291,834 in the second half of the year from $16,746,242 in the first half," he said. "The trend in wool and other raw material prices was reversed and these markets were stronger throughout the period."

He said the immediate outlook is much improved over what it was a year ago. However, the disturbed foreign situation makes it difficult to predict results for the current year, he said.

Charles J. Hardy, president of the J. G. Brill company, said the 1938 net loss was $133,565, against a net income of $541,593 for 1937.

The Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies had a loss of $842,056 for 1938, compared with a net loss of $312,998 in 1937. For December the line had an income of $4,217, compared with a net loss of $153,247 in December, 1937.

Rayon Earns $184,410.

The Industrial Rayon corporation, Cleveland, reported that its net profit for 1938 was $184,410 after interest, depreciation, other charges, experimental expenses, and pre-operating expenses of its new Painesville, O., plant amounting to $123,956. The profit was equal to 24 cents a share. In 1937 net profit was $262,210, equal to 34 cents a share.

Net profit of Niles-Bement-Pond for 1938 was $844,000, against $1,290,884 in 1937, Clayton R. Burt, president, reported. He said business prospects are good for the rest of the year. The company manufactures tools, dies, and kindred products.

Transamerica Denies Giannini Mystery Fund Was $5,212,000

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Charges that the Bancitaly corporation set up a mysterious $5,212,000 credit for the benefit of A. P. Giannini in 1927 or 1928 were argued at the Securities and Exchange commission's Transamerica corporation hearing today. The action came after the commission ruled that O. John Rogge, SEC counsel, could seek evidence on payments made by these companies to Giannini, west coast branch banker, between 1927 and 1930.

Trial Examiner Henry C. Fitts had held that the commission's order to determine whether Transamerica corporation's stock market rights should be suspended or withdrawn was not broad enough to permit inquiry in this matter prior to 1930. Rogge appealed the ruling to the commission and Fitts was overruled.

$1,400,000 Credit Admitted.

Rogge had charged that an admitted $1,400,000 credit set up for Ciannini and members of his family in 1930, allegedly for prior services, was only a part of the much larger credit. It was believed he was trying to make the point that later withdrawals from this fund were for current rather than prior services, and that the company misled the commission by failing to report them as such.

As soon as the commission's ruling was announced, William Stanley, Transamerica counsel, submitted a report from Ernst & Ernst, accountants, showing the setting up of credits of $3,700,000 for Giannini by Bancitaly corporation, Transamerica's predecessor, from 1927 on. The previously admitted $1,400,000 credit was part of this total.

Denying Rogge's contention that Giannini's credits totaled $5,212,000, Stanley replied that in 1928, Giannini refused to accept $1,500,000 out of the credit and that the money was given to the University of California.

Objects to Amendment.

Stanley offered a formal objection to a motion made Monday by Rogge to amend the commission's order.

This amendment, approved late today by the commission, charges Transamerica with misleading statements in not reporting the Bank of America National Trust and Savings association as a subsidiary, after Transamerica distributed 58 per cent of Bank of America stock to Transamerica stockholders.

"There was no concealment of any kind," Stanley's objection said. "All of the material facts were set forth in the annual report. The registrant assumed it was not a 'controling' person [as the amendment asserts] of Bank of America."

Rogge asked W. L. Andrews, Transamerica treasurer, to bring with him tomorrow records of stock transactions in 1927 and 1930 of Bancitaly corporation and its securities affiliate, National Bankitaly company. He has charged that deals between these companies in these years resulted in Transamerica taking over their stock at greatly inflated values created in a controled market.

CINCINNATI TERMINAL INVITES 75 FIRMS TO BID ON BOND ISSUE

New York, Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Seventy-five investment bankers, commercial bankers and insurance companies received invitations today from the Cincinnati Union Terminal company to bid competitively for $12,000,000 bonds of the company.

Tenders will be submitted Feb. 14 and it is expected that they will be opened in the office of Willard Place, vice president of the New York Central railroad and a member of the terminal company's finance committee.

The interstate commerce commission ordered competitive bidding after a complaint by Robert R. Young, New York financier, that the finance committee opposed competitive bidding on the bond issue. He charged the committee was ignoring a money saving offer from "independent bankers."

Cincinnati Union Terminal is owned jointly by seven railroads.

METROPOLITAN BALLOTS FAKED, AGENTS TESTIFY

Vote Forgery Called 'Standing Joke.'

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—The monopoly committee heard today that in two New York district offices of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, the names of policy holders were freely forged to ballots for the election of company directors.

Leroy A. Lincoln assails forging of ballots.

It was "no secret," two company agents testified with unabashed candor, that Metropolitan representatives in their offices used that method of obtaining votes for directors when their customers were unwilling to sign ballots themselves. In fact, it was a "standing joke" around the offices, they added.

"Thought Nothing of It."

"We didn't think anything of it," Edward Schurr, agent in the company's Van Cortland district, said airily.

"All the agents were doing it," Bruno Silbiger, agent in the west end New York district, explained when asked why he began the practice.

The two agents said their managers required them to obtain policy holders' signatures on a certain number of ballots and then, "pressed for a time," the agents resorted to signing them for one another, as well as acting as witnesses for the signatures.

In response to a question, Schurr said he didn't "think the manager could avoid knowing" about the practice.

Committee Is Startled.

Startled committee members, who had heard from high company officials during the day a description of the election of the big mutual company's directors, began firing incredulous questions.

Leroy A. Lincoln, company president, and John Lord O'Brian, Metropolitan counsel, added questions of their own, although until that time they had been in the rôle of spectators.

"I insist," Lincoln burst out, "on the opportunity to say that I have

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 8.—Stock market prices rose fractions to around two points today. Trading volume continued light, however, at 570,040 shares.

Tapering off of selling orders combined with a sprinkling of new demand motivated by generally favorable business news brought about the upswing, observers said.

Opening firm, the list continued steady until the final hour, when fresh support enabled many stocks to close at or near best prices. Steels and motors were prominent in the runup. United States Steel advanced 1⅝ points and Bethlehem 2½ points. Others showed gains running to 1 point.

Chrysler, 2⅛ points higher, was big gainer in the motors. General Motors added 1⅛ points. Willys Overland common and preferred turned active market.

Glenn Martin was well backed in the aviation group, rising 1⅜ points. Douglas kept pace with a gain of 1⅝ points. Boeing, North American Aviation, Bendix, and Consolidated Aircraft made gains running to 1 point.

Montgomery Ward spurted 1⅜ points in response to the company's favorable report. Other merchandising issues, notably Sears-Roebuck and Marshall Field, advanced substantial fractions.

Modest inquiry for carrier shares enabled leaders to push fractionally higher. Among the active issues were New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, Illinois Central, Southern railway, and Santa Fee.

Power and light shares ruled fractionally higher.

DISCUSS BARTER SCHEME TO AID AMERICAN TRADE

Involves Co-operation of Export Bank.

New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The possibility that the Export-Import bank of Washington may assist United States manufacturers in selling their goods to Latin America on a basis approaching barter was discussed in financial circles today.

Oswaldo Aranha.

The discussions known to have been in progress for some time, were quickened by the fact that Oswaldo Aranha, foreign minister of Brazil, will arrive tomorrow for consultations with government and financial leaders. Various American exporters were reported to have conferred in recent months with Warren Lee Pierson, president of the Export-Import bank, in an effort to obtain financing for goods which they could sell to Latin America if the prospective customers were in a position to pay cash.

Urge Long Term Credits.

They were said to have urged that the bank, created in 1934 by President Roosevelt, extend long term credit to South American customers to increase the exportations seriously curtailed last year.

Some authorities asserted that obtaining repayment from some countries would be simple because of trade balances. Nations falling into this class, on the basis of figures for 1938, include the following:

	Sold to United States.	Bought from United States.
Brazil	$ 97,037,000	$61,955,000
Colombia	49,432,000	40,844,000
Cuba	105,810,000	76,329,000

All that would be necessary in such cases, it was said, would be for the United States dollars paid for these countries' products, to be in effect "blocked" [or held] in the Export-Import bank and the excess cash used to pay for goods sent to those countries. The balance would be used to pay some long standing debts in the United States.

Could Not Apply to All.

This procedure, however, could not be applied to all the twenty southern republics which last year purchased $842,632,000 from the United States and sold only $453,076,000 worth.

One trade expert suggested that such a system of blocked dollars would be in contravention of Secretary Hull's reciprocal trade agreement policy which seeks free trade between nations rather than forced purchases, as is the case under Germany's barter agreement with Brazil—an agreement which has vastly increased Germany's trade with that nation.

POWER OUTPUT DIPS SLIGHTLY IN LAST WEEK

The power and light industry faltered slightly in output of electric energy last week. The Edison Electric Institute reported yesterday that production in the week ended Feb. 4 declined 0.2 per cent to 2,287,248,000 kilowatt hours from 2,292,594,000 in the preceding week.

The volume exceeded the output for the corresponding week a year ago by 9.8 per cent, however. This sustained the improvement over 1938 levels, which has continued since the holiday season.

The Commonwealth Edison company group [Chicago area] reported that 143,232,000 kilowatt hours were generated last week, an increase of 8.6 per cent over the 131,958,000 in the same week in 1938. In the preceding week the output was 147,932,669, a gain of 10.4 per cent from that of the corresponding week a year ago.

Mexico Welcomes Foreign Investment; 'Is Not Red'

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 8.—(AP)—President Cardenas, in a published summary of questions he has answered for interviewers, declared today he welcomed foreign investments in mining, electric power, and public works projects undertaken by his government. He asserted that Mexico maintains a good neighbor policy toward the United States and that expropriation of British and American oil companies could not be taken as an indication to the contrary. He declared his government was not communist and that followers of communism had little chance of influencing his policies.

New England Mutual's Business Gains in 1938

Insurance in force with the New England Mutual Life Insurance company rose to $1,539,000,000 during 1938, the annual report of George W. Smith, president, showed yesterday. This was an increase of $67,000,000 in the year. Assets at the end of last year amounted to $435,723,000, a rise of $33,000,000. During 1938 the company invested $25,000,000 in public utility bonds and $16,700,000 in United States government securities.

RAILROAD BUYING ENCOURAGING TO STEEL INDUSTRY

Railroad buying remains the cheerful note in the steel trade, Iron Age said yesterday. Accumulated rail orders have neared the total rolled in all of 1938. Other steel orders have eased but are expected to improve in the remainder of this quarter, the magazine said.

"Much of this prospective [rail] business is tentative, however, with no assurance that it will be immediately closed," the magazine said. "Some of the railroad equipment and supply manufacturers had in January the best month's business in a year and a half."

Ingot production this week has edged up ½ point to 54 per cent of capacity based on the rating of 72,533,969 gross tons [excluding castings] annual production for the entire industry as of last Dec. 31. Production at Chicago, Detroit, Youngstown, and eastern Pennsylvania gained slightly, but dropped sharply at Buffalo and southern Ohio, the journal reported.

OUTPUT OF MEAT SHOWS DECLINE DURING JANUARY

Aggregate slaughtering of live stock during January in packing plants under federal inspection was smaller than a year ago. It ran below the ten year average for that month, a report of the department of agriculture disclosed yesterday.

Packers slaughtered 6,675,151 head of cattle, calves, hogs, and sheep, compared with 7,002,903 head during January last year. The ten year average is 6,838,000. All classes showed declines fro ma year ago. The decline in meat production was estimated at 75 million pounds.

ago. All losses have been written off. Reserves previously created for this purpose exceeded needs by $259,752. This amount was credited to surplus.

Now Has Twelve Mills.

The manufacturing division, President Corley said, now consists of twelve mills, eleven located in North Carolina and Virginia and the twelfth at Zion, Ill.

"We have no plans," he said, "for disposing of any of these properties, and believe that they can be operated with satisfactory results in the future, as they have been in many prior years."

Inventories carried by the manufacturing division fell to $3,264,033 at the end of 1938. This compared with $19,410,292 a year earlier. The big decrease was due in part to liquidation of many lines and also, in some measure, to a new inventory policy adopted.

Cotton Hedging Employed.

"A conservative inventory policy was followed throughout the year," Corley said, "and we avoided the drastic losses experienced in the previous year caused by the price decline in cotton, silk, and wool." In this connection, cotton hedging was successfully employed, he said, and forward purchases of raw material were reduced.

A 12 per cent increase in the gross income of the Merchandise Mart put the real estate division of the company on a profitable basis. The Marshall Field Annex office building, which is included in this division, also had better results last year.

The mart signed new leases for 368,715 square feet in 1938. Forty-four new tenants were recruited, the net increase in the rented area amounting to 153,650 square feet. Unfinished space was converted for the use of some of the new tenants.

280,000 Buying Visits Made.

It was estimated, Corley said, that 280,000 buying visits were made to the mart during the year. Market events held in the mart, he added, were the most successful since the building was erected.

The statement touched briefly on the employment contract which the company entered into with the late James O. McKinsey, who was chairman of the company at the time of his death in 1937. Under the terms of this contract the McKinsey estate elected to take a cash payment of $337,000 in lieu of exercising its option for the purchase of company stock.

Contract Is Challenged.

The validity of the contract has been attacked in two suits instituted by stockholders. The McKinsey estate, Corley said, has been credited for the full amount owned on the company's books. Payment will be made, he said, if the contract is upheld in the suits now pending. The company, as such, has not fought the claim.

Corley has been the chief executive officer of the company since the death of McKinsey in 1937. James Simpson has also had an active rôle in the affairs of the company since that time as chairman of the executive committee.

New York, Feb. 8.—[Special.]—The North American Investment corporation today reported its net assets were $3,578,462 on Dec. 31, equal to $67.13 a share on the combined preferred stock. This compared with $3,012,973, or $48.75 a share, on the same stocks on Dec. 31, 1937.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Hog prices bounded 10 to 25 cents per hundred pounds in most classes yesterday, with some kinds showing even more advance. Both the top and average prices rose 20 cents, to $8.10, and $7.70, respectively. Extremely small receipts, improved demand for fresh pork in wholesale markets, and a report that a severe cold wave was sweeping toward Chicago were the bullish factors. Some cuts of pork sold as much as 50 cents a hundred pounds higher.

The smallest Wednesday cattle receipts in nine weeks forced prices of steers and yearlings upward 15 to 25 cents. Old sheep rose 10 to 15 cents to a new peak for the season.

HELP MERCHANT MARINE, IS PLEA TO MIDDLE WEST

Business Is Urged to Ship American.

The middle west was urged last night to go to the aid of America's struggling merchant marine. The plea was made by Joseph R. Sheehan, president of the American President lines, which took over the old Dollar Steamship Lines. He spoke at the Palmer House before 600 midwest shippers who use ocean freight services, tourist agents, and others interested in American shipping.

Sheehan urged that shippers send more of their freight abroad in American freighters and that travelers to use vessels flying the American flag.

Declaring that only about 26 per cent of America's freight bound to foreign ports is carried in American ships, he said that an increase to 10 per cent would solve a large part of the financial problem of operating our ships.

Apart from enabling the nation to keep control over its foreign commerce, Sheehan said, an adequate merchant marine is necessary as an adjunct to the navy in the event of war.

"Our maritime policy since the civil war has cost this country billions of dollars and our failure to adopt a definite program calling for the construction and maintenance of an adequate merchant marine has resulted in our spending actually many times what such a merchant marine would have cost, Sheehan said.

TRUST INDENTURE BILL OPPOSED BY CHICAGO BANKER

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Harold V. Alberg, Chicago banker, told a senate banking subcommittee today he "seriously questioned" that any bank or banker in the United States wanted congress to pass the Barkley trust indenture bill.

The Barkley bill would extend Securities and Exchange commission control over trustees and would provide statutory regulations covering trust indentures, with penalties for failure to comply with these regulations.

Amberg, vice president and general counsel for the First National Bank of Chicago, attacked what he said was the theory behind the bill, introduced by Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader.

"This bill completely reverses the national trend and is predicated on the theory that bondholders are incompetent as a group to protect their own interests," the witness asserted. "This is something that any self-respecting bank would be reluctant to admit."

JAP LINE PLANS WORLD TRANSFER TRAVEL SERVICE

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Transfer and travel anywhere in the world on Osaka Shoshen Kaisha ships—180 of them—is the new passenger-seeking project to be put into effect next summer. The Japanese line include free inland trips by rail through many countries.

That is the expansion program announced by Edwin A. Gardiner, former Seattle shipping executive, who will go to New York late this month to become the line's general passenger agent for the United States. He is the only occidental to hold high post with the line.

Osaka Shoshen Kaisha, Gardiner said, has sufficient services to blanket almost any route to any place, permitting stopovers and reboarding without having to change ship lines.

METROPOLITAN'S BALLOTS FAKED, AGENTS TESTIFY

Call Forgery of Director Votes 'Standing Joke.'

never heard of such a practice nor countenanced it in any way."

After Senator King [D., Utah] had told Schurr that "you ought to be in the penitentiary" and then withdrawn the remark, Lincoln said with a fiery glance toward the witness, "I have that in mind too, sir."

After the hearing Lincoln told reporters he would take "appropriate action," terming the forgery of ballots a "contemptible practice" and a "faithlessness to policy holders that is unthinkable."

Frederick H. Ecker, chairman of the board of Metropolitan, and Cletis E. Tully, assistant secretary, had testified earlier that under New York law policy holders elected directors every two years, but that there had never been but one slate candidate—that chosen by the officers and directors of the company.

One Vote Enough to Elect.

Therefore, Tully said, a single vote was sufficient to elect the board. Tully testified that 27,000,000 eligible policy holders were informed in various ways of their right to vote but not of the procedure by which they might put up an opposition ticket, five months in advance of election.

In the 1937 election, Tully told the committee, 40 policy holders voted in person, 24,068 by proxy, and 414,000 by mail. More than 800,000 ballots and proxies, he said, were sent to offices throughout the country for distribution to policy holders.

Evidence revealed that Metropolitan directors hold directorship in nearly 100 other companies in the banking, industrial, and utility fields.
